Senators Boost School Aid; Exon Appeals To People

By DON WALTON
Star Staff Writer

Embarking on a direct confrontation course with Gov. J. James Exon, the Legislature Tuesday stamped its appraoval on a $15 million increase in state aid to schools.

The boost in school assistance, added to the mainstream operational budget bill on a 26-17 vote, appears headed toward an almost certain gubernatorial veto.

In fact, after viewing an array of spending decisions approved by the Unicameral Tuesday, the governor promised "one of the greatest floods of vetoes in the history of this state."

Tax Hike Feared

The Legislature has thus far approved spending plans which "without question would rock the people of this state with an increase in the sales tax rate," Exon declared.

"They are a wild-eyed group of spenders and vote traders.

"I appeal once again to the people of this state for help" in sustaining his own budget proposals, Exon said. His plan could produce a reduction in the personal income tax rate from 15% to 13% next year, he said.

"Unless the people bury their senators with telephone calls at their offices in Lincoln or at their homes, plus wires, letters and cards, it is evident that they are going to roll right over the position of the governor."

The school aid hike was proposed by Sen. Loran Schmit of Bellwood.

His plan elbowed its way ahead of a competing school aid amendment authored by Sen. John DeCamp of Neligh, which also would have altered the state assistance distribution formula.

Schmit managed to attract three more votes than Monday's identical bid for a $15 million increase could muster. The earlier effort fell on a 23-25 count.

Schmit's amendment was attached to LB691, and the bill was then sent on its way toward final reading.

Education Chairman Frank Lewis of Bellevue argued in behalf of the addition, noting that $10 million of the increase would go to the schools in per pupil allotments.

DeCamp's plan would have distributed nearly all of the resulting $70 million in annual aid on student population figures. The current level of aid is $55 million.

The present formula, which also pumps money into the schools on the basis of the local ability to pay, measured schools on the basis of the local ability to pay, measured by assessed property valuation per pupil, is a "rip-off," DeCamp said.

Earlier, Lewis won overwhelming 41-3 approval of a motion to override Exon's veto reductions of $546,273 in deficiency appropriations for education programs.

Vote Alarming

Only 30 votes were required to override the governor's objections, and the size of Tuesday's vote alarmed Exon.

"I need help from the people," he declared.

Most of the veto reduction, some $524,103, will fund state aid for special education at the 90% statutory level in the current fiscal year, Lewis noted.

Voting against his motion were Sens. Robert Clark of Sidney, Thomas Kennedy of Newman Grove and William Skarda of Omaha.

Here is the vote to add the $15 million increase in school aid to LB691:

For: Barnett, Carsten, Cavanaugh, Cope, Dickinson, Duis, Fitzgerald, Fowler, Goodrich, Johnson, Keyes, Koch, F. Lewis, Luedtke, Marsh, Mills, Nichol, Rumery, Savage, Schmit, Simpson, Skarda, Stoney, Stull, Warner, Wiltse.

Against: Anderson, Bereuter, Burbach, Burrows, DeCamp, Dworak, Hasebroock, Kelly, Kime, Kremer, Mahoney, Maresh, Marvel, Moylan, Rasmussen, Swigart, Syas.

Not Voting: George, Syas

Reagan Scores First Victory

N.C. Democrats Like Carter Over Wallace

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Ronald Reagan won North Carolina's Republican presidential primary election Tuesday night, reviving his challenge for the White House with a startling upset over President Ford.

Ford conceded his first defeat, congratulated Reagan — and said he remains confident of victory in the contest for the Republican presidential nomination.

Democratic front-runner Jimmy Carter won his primary test in a runaway over George C. Wallace and four other entries.

Reagan's first triumph after a season of primary defeats was magnified by the fact that it was unexpected, the comeback he needed to silence suggestions that he quit the campaign.

He won comfortably against the odds.

With the count of ballots virtually complete, Reagan had 52 per cent of the Republican, Ford 46.

Carter captured 54 per cent of the Democratic ballots to Wallace's 35 per cent.

It was a trouncing that buried any claim Wallace had left to speak for the South in the presidential campaign.

Wallace, in Montgomery, Ala., said he will remain in the race and will launch an active campaign this weekend for Wisconsin's April 6 primary.

At the White House, press secretary Ron Nessen said Ford had anticipated a close race "but he expected to win so naturally he is disappointed.

"The point is we lost and there are no excuses or alibis," Nessen said. He said Ford plans no change in campaign strategy "and he remains confident of ultimate victory."

It was the first time an incumbent president had lost a presidential primary since 1968 when Lyndon B. Johnson was beaten in Wisconsin. Johnson had renounced candidacy for another term two days before then Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy defeated him.

With 99 per cent of North Carolina's 2,343 precincts counted, this was the Republican picture:

Reagan 100,984 or 52 per cent.

Ford 88,249 or 46 per cent.

Uncommitted GOP delegates 3,322 or 2 per cent.

That gave Reagan 28 GOP convention delegates, Ford 25, uncommited one. Delegates are awarded in proportion to the candidate' vote.

In the Democratic primary, the count showed:

Carter 320,861 or 54 per cent.

Wallace 209,659 or 35 per cent.

Sen. Henry M. Jackson of Washington 25,692 or 4 per cent.

No preference, which means uncommitted delegates, 22,881 or 4 per cent.

Rep. Morris K. Udall of Arizona, 14,008 or 2 per cent.

Former Sen. Fred R. Harris of Oklahoma, 6,142 or 1 per cent.

Sen. Lloyd Bentsen, who had dropped out of the campaign, got 1,792.

Carter got 36 delegates, Wallace 25.

UNO, Office Plan Moves

By DON WALTON
Star Staff Writer

The Unicameral Tuesday gave initial approval to construction of a $14 million downtown education center and state office building in Omaha.

But a proposal to construct an $8 million cardiovascular treatment, research and education complex at the University of Nebraska Medical Center in Omaha fell two votes short of first round floor endorsement.

A third Omaha project, the proposed $6.7 million health, physical education and recreation facility at the University of Nebraska at Omaha, moved ahead with relative ease.

Delegation Splits

The vote on the downtown center, contained in LB1006, was 29-7, with Lancaster County senators split.

Sens. Shirley Marsh and Roland Luedtke voted to advance the bill from first stage floor debate.

No votes were cast by Sens. Wally Barnett, Steve Fowler and Jerome Warner. Sen. Harold Simpson did not vote.

Barnett attempted to eliminate funding for the education center, leaving only the previously authorized office building in the bill.

Against 2 Campuses

"I know this is like trying to stop a freight train with a kiddie car," he said, but UNO should not be "split" into two campuses.

His effort was buried on a 9-21 score.

Sen. ERnest Chambers of Omaha said the proposal was designed to rescue a "dying" downtown area and would "dilute education" efforts in the city.

But Sens. Eugene Mahoney and Glenn Goodrich, both of Omaha, said the facility is justified and needed to meet the continuing education needs of Omahans.

The proposal requires a new state appropriation of $1 million added to the $8 million previously authorized for an office building.

$5 Million In Help

Five million dollars would be supplied by private donors, one-half of it by Omaha contractor Peter Kiewit.

Joining Barnett, Fowler, Warner and Chambers in opposing the bill were Sens. Robert Clark of Sidney, Thomas Kennedy of Newman Grove and John Murphy of South Sioux City.

Needing 25 votes to advance, the cardiovascular proposal, contained in LB1009, stalled on a 23-24 vote.

"We've got to stop somewhere," Barnett warned.

His kill motion was rejected on a 20-25 count.

Simpson supported the project, arguing that it would give Omaha "something great," a facility which would rival the heart center in Houston. Chambers also strongly endorsed the bill.

Sen. John Savage of Omaha said he will seek another vote on the issue, perhaps Wednesday.

Planning First

The initial appropriation in LB1009 would be $250,000 in planning money.

The health facility, funded in LB1007, would require $2 million in appropriations during the coming fiscal year.

It has previously been authorized by the Legislature, but was stalled by a gubernatorial veto.

Chambers attempted to kill that proposal, but failed on a 10-26 count.

"Open the door wide," Murphy announced. "This roadrunner is headed for the governor's office. Beep! Beep!"

And away it went over its first floor hurdle on a 30-8 count.

Other Construction

Among other major construction proposals handed initial floor approval were four projects previously recommended by the governor:

— a $10 million plant science building at NU's East Campus in Lincoln

— a $7.6 million state prison in Lincoln.

— a $7.4 million state prison in Omaha

— a $5 million diagnostic and evaluation center for prisoners in Lincoln.

The prison proposals were enlarged from the original $9 million plan approved last year.

Two efforts to appropriate $200,000 to purchase John F. Kennedy College facilities in Wahoo for state use (proposed by Sen. Loran Schmit of Bellwood) were rejected.

Argentine Military Says Junta Is Replacing Peron

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (AP) — A military coup was under way in Argentina early Wednesday, and informed sources reported that President Isabel Peron had been flown under arrest to a mountain resort in southern Argentina.

A three-man junta headed by the army commander, Gen. Jorge R. Videla, 50, was expected to take over.

A jet plane left the Buenos Aires airport, and Mrs. Peron was believed aboard, under guard. Informed sources said Juan D. Peron's 45-year-old widow was being taken to El Messidor, a luxurious residence in the mountains 900 miles south of the capital.

The coup had been expected for weeks as Mrs. Peron's paralyzed, 21-month-old administration floundered deeper and deeper into the mire of political violence and inflation.

No violence was reported in the coup, but truckloads of heavily armed troops were rushed to the center of Buenos Aires after a series of tank and troop movements.

Police set up roadblocks at the exits from the capital, and ports and airports were put under heavy guard to prevent wanted persons from leaving.

The military was expected to launch a roundup of leftists.

Troops took up position at key points, including the headquarters of the powerful metalworkers' union. They were also stationed at main intersections in the center of the city.

Mrs. Peron had come to the Government House in the center of Buenos Aires at noon Tuesday followed by an aide carrying two large suitcases. She stayed almost 13 hours, meeting with ministers and officials of the Peronist Justicialist party, then left in a helicopter.

Military sources said she was taken to the downtown airport, which had been closed to all traffic hours earlier.

"There is no coup, no ultimatum," insisted Lorenzo Miguel, head of the huge Peronist labor movement that supports the embattled president, but the developing coup was visible.

Tanks and troop were in place at strategic points throughout this nation of 25 million. Soldiers seized the powerful radio transmitter at the Argentine Automobile Club.

Board Okays 3 Grant Programs Despite Misgivings

By NANCY HICKS
Star Staff Writer

Lancaster County commissioners have become increasingly vocal about their worry over the future financial impact of programs now funded by federal grants.

But that worry didn't stop them from approving, though reluctantly, one new federal grant proposal and two continuations of older grant programs Tuesday.

All three programs — a new deputy public defender, Youth Service System group homes and foster care for teenagers — will use state and federal crime commission funds plus local dollars.

The one-year grant for a new deputy public defender caused commissioners the most headaches.

Federal dollars will pay only the first year's $15,000 salary, then the county must continue the position completely with county funds.

"Would we approve this position if we had to use county funds this year?" asked Jan Gauger, who voted against the grant application.

Both Mrs. Gauger and Board Chairman Bruce Hamilton, himself an attorney, suggested that the public defender's attorneys could put in more than 40 hours a week and thus cut down the need for additional staff.

The request will bring the defender's staff to eight, more than doubling the staff size of four years ago, Hamilton said.

City cases handled by the public defender's office have doubled this year, mental hearings are taking much more time under new regulations and the child support caseload has increased, Public Defender Clem Gaughan told the board.

In response to past criticism about public defender's attorneys who have private practices, Gaughan said that the private practices are now very limited.

Gaughan said that he made less than $700 last year from his private clients.

The board unanimously approved the other two continuing programs.

The $130,000 youth Service System budget will be funded 35% (about $46,000) by local dollars this coming year. Next year the local match will jump to 65% and in 1977-76 the county must totally fund the two group homes for juveniles.

The $53,000 foster home recruitment program, now in its last year under the federal grant program, will cost the county about $34,500 next year.

The majority of the money is spent to pay foster parents of teenagers, with some money earmarked for an employe who recruits the homes for teenagers.

Without the grant, the county would have to pay all the foster home costs, Mrs. Gauger explained.

Price Scanner Problems Conceded

WASHINGTON (AP) — In a policy turnaround that could slow the advance of computers into supermarket checkout stands, the industry conceded on Tuesday that electronic scanner systems pose major problems to shoppers unless items still are individually price marked.

Citing both political pressures and the adverse results of a recent $75,000 survey, an ad hoc supermarket industry panel recommended that stores using the equipment "follow the same, traditional approach to individual item marking as is used in conventional supermarkets."

The industry had argued earlier that item pricing could be dropped at no inconvenience to customers so long as prices were clearly posted on the shelves.

But a study by three university professors demonstrated that "the consumer is less aware of what she is paying," said industry spokesman Robert Wegman of Rochester, N.Y.

Wegman is chairman of the Public Policy Subcommittee of the Ad Hoc Committee on Universal Product Code — the group charged with standardizing the computer checkout.

"What we've done is tell the industry that they should keep their prices on," he said. "The recommendation is now being taken to the various trade associations and we have every indication they will go along."

Wegman stressed that the industry hopes the move will ease objections of several consumer groups and a growing list of state and federal lawmakers to the scanner concept.

The scanner devices read a specially imprinted code on items and automatically ring up whatever price has been entered for that code. The code markings already are being printed on scores of products by major processors, even though only 51 of the nation's 40,000 supermarkets have installed the scanners.

The Consumer Federation of America and the National Consumer Congress characterized the industry recommendation as "a major consumer victory." But the groups said it was "unfortunate" that consumers were not guaranteed that all stores that have removed the prices would now restore them.

The abandonment of individual item pricing was seen as a major advantage of the new equipment. Wegman said that in his own stores the elimination of individual pricing — and thus a saving of the man-hours otherwise required to mark items — might enable the chain to cut over-all prices by up to one-half of 1 per cent.

But I'll go along with the finding that individual prices should be retained, he said, even as he plans further use of the scanners. Wegman noted they still have other advantages, such as improved accuracy and faster checkouts.

The three university researchers, Dr. John W. Allen and Dr. Gilbert D. Harrell of Michigan State and Dr. Michael D. Hutt of the University of Vermont, told a news briefing that their survey of 3,000 shoppers produced these results:

—In conventional stores, shoppers at the checkout stand could recall the correct price of an item about 71 per cent of the time without looking at the price. In scanner stores, they recalled the price only 56 per cent of the time.

—In scanner stores, shoppers at the checkout erred in their recollection of price by 8.4 per cent on the average. In conventional stores, the margin of error was only half that.

—Shoppers in conventional stores compared prices on items 32 per cent of the time, while those in scanner stores compared 21 per cent of the time.

Price Scanner Problems Conceded

WASHINGTON (AP) — In a policy turnaround that could slow the advance of computers into supermarket checkout stands, the industry conceded on Tuesday that electronic scanner systems pose major problems to shoppers unless items still are individually price marked.

Citing both political pressures and the adverse results of a recent $75,000 survey, an ad hoc supermarket industry panel recommended that stores using the equipment "follow the same, traditional approach to individual item marking as is used in conventional supermarkets."

The industry had argued earlier that item pricing could be dropped at no inconvenience to customers so long as prices were clearly posted on the shelves.

But a study by three university professors demonstrated that "the consumer is less aware of what she is paying," said industry spokesman Robert Wegman of Rochester, N.Y.

Wegman is chairman of the Public Policy Subcommittee of the Ad Hoc Committee on Universal Product Code — the group charged with standardizing the computer checkout

"What we've done is tell the industry that they should keep their prices on," he said. "The recommendation is now being taken to the various trade associations and we have every indication they will go along."

Wegman stressed that the industry hopes the move will ease objections of several consumer groups and a growing list of state and federal lawmakers to the scanner concept.

The scanner devices read a specially imprinted code on items and automatically ring up whatever price has been entered for that code. The code markings already are being printed on scores of products by major processors, even though only 51 of the nation's 40,000 supermarkets have installed the scanners.

The Consumer Federation of America and the National Consumer Congress characterized the industry recommendation as "a major consumer victory." But the groups said it was "unfortunate" that consumers were not guaranteed that all stores that have removed the prices would now restore them.

The abandonment of individual item pricing was seen as a major advantage of the new equipment. Wegman said that in his own stores the elimination of individual pricing — and thus a saving of the man-hours otherwise required to mark items — might enable the chain to cut over-all prices by up to one-half of 1 per cent.

"But "I'll go along" with the finding that individual prices should be retained, he said, even as he plans further use of the scanners. Wegman noted they still have other advantages, such as improved accuracy and faster checkouts.

The three university researchers, Dr. John W. Allen and Dr. Gilbert D. Harrell of Michigan State and Dr. Michael D. Hutt of the University of Vermont, told a news briefing that their survey of 3,000 shoppers produced these results:

—In conventional stores, shoppers at the checkout stand could recall the correct price of an item about 71 per cent of the time without looking at the price. In scanner stores, they recalled the price only 56 per cent of the time.

—In scanner stores, shoppers at the checkout erred in their recollection of price by 8.4 per cent on the average. In conventional stores, the margin of error was only half that.

—Shoppers in conventional stores compared prices on items 32 per cent of the time, while those in scanner stores compared 21 per cent of the time.

Constitution Doesn't Always Protect Person From Defamation

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Constitution does not always protect a private person from being defamed by public officials, the Supreme Court ruled Tuesday.

In a 5-3 decision, the court held that Louisville, Ky., police were within their rights in distributing to shopkeepers the names and photographs of persons who had been arrested, but not necessarily convicted, on shoplifting charges.

The procedure was challenged by Edward Charles Davis III, then a photographer for the Louisville Courier Journal and Times, who was labeled an "active shoplifter" on a flyer distributed by police in 1972. Davis had been arrested 17 months earlier on a shoplifting charge which was subsequently dismissed.

He contended that police had placed a "badge of infamy" on him without giving him a chance to defend himself as guaranteed by the due process clause of the Constitution.

That clause prohibits governmental officials from depriving a person of life, liberty or property without due process of law.

Speaking for the court, Justice William H. Rehnquist said there was "no constitutional doctrine converting every defamation by a public official into a deprivation of liberty within the meaning of the due process clause." He also said that "reputation alone, apart from some more tangible interest such as employment, is not a constitutionally protected right either of liberty or property."

In addition, the court rejected Davis' claim that his constitutional right of privacy had been violated, saying the police were not trying to "restrict his freedom of action in a sphere contended to be private." In a sharply worded dissent, Justices William J. Brennan Jr., Byron R. White and Thurgood Marshall said that "the potential of today's decision is frightening for a free people."

"It is not difficult to conceive of a police department, dissatisfied with what it perceives to be the dilatory nature or lack of efficacy of the judicial system in dealing with criminal defendants, publishing periodic lists of 'active rapists,' 'active larcenists' or other 'known criminals,'" Brennan wrote for the dissenters.

In other actions, the court:

—Ruled 8 to 0 that an individual charged with selling obscene material has a right to try to show it is not obscene, even though it has previously been judged obscene in a civil proceeding to which he was not a party.

—Bypassed a chance to rule on whether it is illegal sex discrimination for an employer to exclude normal pregnancies from the coverage of its disability insurance program. The court still has before it another case dealing with the same issue.

—Heard Missouri and Massachusetts officials urge that their state abortion laws should be upheld. The states require parental consent before an abortion is performed on an unmarried girl under 18. Missouri also requires permission from the husband of any married woman. Attorneys for Planned Parenthood argued that the two state laws violate the high court's 1973 abortion decision.

'Monty' Dies; Top British World War II Commander

ISINGTON, England (AP) — Field Marshal Viscount Montgomery, Britain's premier World War II military commander, died early Wednesday at his home, the Defense Ministry announced.

Known to millions as "Monty," he was 88 and one of the last surviving top commanders of the war against Hitler, the Nazi German dictator.

Montgomery had been in failing health for months and had been confined to bed at his home in this Hampshire county hamlet 50 miles southwest of London. His son, David, reported last weekend that "he is an old man."

Considered Britain's greatest military commander since the Duke of Wellington, the peppery, Bible-carrying soldier turned the tide of Nazi victory with his 1942 defeat of Field Marshal Erwin Rommel at El Alamein, Egypt; led his British 8th Army through Sicily and into Italy; and commanded all British and American ground forces at the Normandy landings in 1944.

Six months later, in December, when the Germans had forced an enormous bulge in the American 1st Army's front in the Belgian Ardennes, Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, the supreme allied commander, put Montgomery in command of the U.S. 1st and 9th Armies, the British 2nd Army and the Canadian 1st Army with orders to stop the Germans and drive them back.

Within four days, the German offensive directed by Field Marshal Karl von Rundstedt had been beaten back. But a news conference Montgomery gave about the battle provoked a storm because he gave the impression that he had rescued the Americans.

Although Eisenhower and Montgomery disagreed on many occasions, the American commander praised "dear Monty" as "one of the greatest soldiers of the war . . . a figure who will live always not only in British but in world history."

"Dear Monty" was less gracious about Ike. In his memoirs, published in 1958, he criticized Eisenhower's conduct of the closing phases of the war and later also criticized his postwar leadership.

Exterminator Charged

Durant, Okla. (UPI) — An exterminator was charged Tuesday with second-degree manslaughter for leaving wafers sprayed with a poison in his pickup truck where at least three children found them, ate them and died.

J. D. Jones, 27, was charged in the death of one of the children, Joseph Whaley, 2. The charge alleged Jones "willfully and feloniously caused in effect the death of a human being . . . By allowing a controlled dangerous pesticide to be kept in an unsafe manner in his vehicle."

District Atty. Jack McGahey said a speck of the poison the size of a grain of sugar will kill a full-grown rat.

Nine children found the wafers last weekend in a pickup truck. Joseph Whaley, 2, and Tracy Bershirs, 3, died Sunday. Joseph's brother, John, 4, died Monday. The other six, who may not have ingested the poison, were treated at hospitals with a dose of whisky to relax their muscles and a laxative and released Monday.

Soviets Cautioned On Rhodesia

LONDON (AP) — British Foreign Secretary James Callaghan told visiting Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko on Tuesday that Britain would not stand for Soviet or Cuban intervention in Rhodesia, sources said.

Callaghan said that Rhodesia is still legally British territory, and warned that Soviet or Cuban intervention, even indirect, would be construed as an attack against Britain itself, the sources said.

Britain has never recognized Rhodesia's 1965 unilateral declaration of independence.

In Salisbury, Rhodesian Prime Minister Ian Smith rejected Britain's latest proposal for a peaceful transfer of political power from Rhodesia's 274,000 whites to the country's 4.7 million blacks.

And in other African nations, black leaders met to discuss Rhodesia and said it might be time to call for Soviet and Cuban help to overthrow the white minority rgime.

Callaghan left Gromyko in no doubt that Britain supports U.S. resistance to any new Cuban ventures, the sources said.

Actor Tries Murder Via Kamikaze Crash

TOKYO (AP) — A young actor in a World War II Kamikaze uniform deliberately crashed his light plane into the home of Yoshio Kodama in an attempt to kill the powerful lobbyist named in the Lockheed payoffs, police said Tuesday.

Investigation indicated that Mitsuyasu Maeno, 29, was trying to make a suicide attack similar to those carried out by Kamikaze pilots against U.S. warships in the closing days of World War II, police said.

Only Maeno died when the plane hit the second floor balcony Tuesday and set the house afire. The 65-year-old Kodama, bedridden with the effects of a stroke two years ago, escaped injury along with 11 other persons in the house.

Maeno, a star of soft pornography movies, was described by his father as being influenced by Yukio Mishima, the late rightist novelist who committed suicide by hara-kiri after failing to rally Japanese military men against the antiwar provisions in Japan's postwar constitution. Mishima also wanted a return to the austere spirit of the samurai warriors of Japanese history.

Police said Maeno had been critical of Kodama, to whom Lockheed says it paid more than $7 million to promote aircraft sales in Japan.

Loner Arrested In Six Slayings

Trevose, Pa. (UPI) — George Geschwendt, described by a relative of the victims as strange and a loner, has been arrested for the vendetta slayings of six persons, five of them members of one family.

Geschwendt, 24, an unemployed landscaper, was being held without bail Tuesday, charged with the execution-style slayings March 12 of John Abt, 50, his wife Margaret, 50, daughters Cathy, 13, and Margie, 19, son John Jr., 12, and Margie's fiance, Garson Engle, 20.

Police said the victims were shot in the head, one by one, as they entered the Abt home, located across the street from where Geschwendt, a bachelor, lived with his mother, an older brother and two older sisters.

Four Students Shoot Billiards For 254 Hours

Pella, Iowa (AP) — Four Central college freshmen are claiming a world record for continuous billiard playing — 253 hours and 55 minutes.

Along the way, the students raised $5,350 from the college community and local residents for the Muscular Dystrophy Foundation.

The shooters chalked up at 9:30 a.m. on March 11 and hung up their cues at 11:25 p.m. Sunday, March 21 — 10 hours short of 11 days.

The 1976 Guinness Book of World Records says the longest continuous billiards by four players is 200 hours set in Los Angeles March 21-29, 1975.

The students, all 18, were Glen Schnablegger of Bellflower, Calif.; Dave Erickson of Elmhurst, Ill.; Greg Hawk of Knoxville, Iowa; and Paul Jones of Arlington Heights, Ill.

RFK Son Wants Fine Kept Quiet

Hooksett, N.H. (UPI) — Michael L. Kennedy, 18, son of the late Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, pleaded guilty to driving 86 miles an hour in a 55 mile zone. He was fined $35 by District Judge Kenneth R. McHugh.

Kennedy, of McLean, Va., entered his guilty plea by mail.

In an accompanying letter to the Hooksett District Court, he asked that "this incident be kept as quiet as possible" for "personal reasons."

Court records showed the incident occurred Feb. 23.

New York Times News Summary

Kissinger Warns Cuba . . .

Dallas — Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger refused Tuesday to rule out any move by the United States — including a military invasion of Cuba — in the event Cuba disregarded the Ford administration's warnings and took part in a new armed action in southern Africa.

. . . 'Not Idle Threat'

Washington (Washington Star) — Sen. Dick Clark, D-Iowa, feels Secretary of State Kissinger's tougher new warnings on Cuban intervention in Africa is no idle threat.

Budget Hike Suggested

Washington — Rep. Brock Adams, D-Wash., chairman of the House Budget Committee, proposed the federal government spend $412.8 billion next year, $18.6 billion more than President Ford's recommendation. Adams said the increase was needed to stop Ford's "drastic shift of priorities from human resource programs to defense" and to ensure that "restrictive budget policies do not arrest the beginning of economic recovery."

Catholics Rejecting Ban

New York — The National Opinion Research Center released a survey of Catholic attitudes showing that overwhelming rejection of the 1968 papal ban on artificial birth control has led to drastic declines in religious devotion and a loss of nearly $1 billion in annual church income. But it showed that support for parochial schools remained strong despite the church's geneal retreat from the private school field.

U.S. Proposes Tariff Cut

Geneva — At the world trade negotiations here, the United States delegation proposed a formula under which industrialized countries would cut their tariffs as much as 60%. There was no immediate reaction from Washington's major trading partners.

Northrup Made Bogey

Washington (Washington Star) — The Northrup Corp., a defense contractor, entertained Defense Department officials at the Masters Golf Tournament from 1972 to 1975.

Hot Line Space-Bound

Moscow — The Soviet Union and the United States are shifting the hot line to satellite systems.

BREAD-CEREAL GROUP

Foods in this group provide worthwhile amounts of protein, iron, and several of the B-vitamins and food energy

Foods Included All breads and cereals that are whole grain, enriched or restored Specifically this group includes breads, cooked cereals, ready-to-eat cereals, corn meal crackers, flour, grits, macaroni, spaghetti, noodles, rice, rolled oats, quick breads and other baked goods if made with whole-grain or enriched flour Parboiled rice and wheat also fit in this group

Recommended Amounts Four or more servings daily Or, if no cereals are selected, choose an extra serving of breads or baked goods, which will make at least 5 servings from this group daily Count as 1 serving 1 slice of bread, 1 ounce ready-to-eat cereal, ½ to ¾ cup cooked cereal, corn meal, grits, macaroni, noodles rice or spaghetti

The Bread-Cereal Group is an important source of carbohydrates In days of old, we had to depend on home baking for breads but today our markets make available a wide variety of bakery products in ready-to-serve, partially-baked, frozen ready-to-serve, prepared-frozen and many other forms

Recently, there has been a resurgence of home baking as many enthusiasts are recapturing the nostalgia of old-time kitchens with their aroma of hot bread fresh from the oven If you bake your own bread, remember that milk, whether liquid or powdered skim, enhances the food value of the bread

Breakfast cereals, whether ready-to-eat or to be cooked, are whole grain or fortified in some manner When it comes to rice, most consumers still prefer white rice although brown rice has more nutrients (the B vitamins — thiamine riboflavin and niacin) unless the white rice is enriched While brown rice doesn't cook up as fluffy, it has an especially delicious taste many people find pleasing You may want to try it the next time your menu calls for rice

BREAD-CEREAL GROUP

Foods in this group provide worthwhile amounts of protein, iron, and several of the B-vitamins and food energy.

Foods Included: All breads and cereals that are whole grain, enriched or restored. Specifically this group includes: breads, cooked cereals, ready-to-eat cereals, corn meal, crackers, flour, grits, macaroni, spaghetti, noodles, rice, rolled oats, quick breads and other baked goods if made with whole-grain or enriched flour. Parboiled rice and wheat also fit in this group.

Recommended Amounts: Four or more servings daily. Or, if no cereals are selected, choose an extra serving of breads or baked goods, which will make at least 5 servings from this group daily. Count as 1 serving: 1 slice of bread, 1 ounce ready-to-eat cereal, ½ to ¾ cup cooked cereal, corn meal, grits, macaroni, noodles, rice or spaghetti.

The Bread-Cereal Group is an important source of carbohydrates. In days of old, we had to depend on home baking for breads but today our markets make available a wide variety of bakery products in ready-to-serve, partially-baked, frozen ready-to-serve, prepared-frozen and many other forms.

Recently, there has been a resurgence of home baking as many enthusiasts are recapturing the nostalgia of old-time kitchens with their aroma of hot bread fresh from the oven. If you bake your own bread, remember that milk, whether liquid or powdered skim, enhances the food value of the bread.

Breakfast cereals, whether ready-to-eat or to-be-cooked, are whole grain or fortified in some manner. When it comes to rice, most consumers still prefer white rice although brown rice has more nutrients (the B vitamins — thiamine, riboflavin and niacin) unless the white rice is enriched. While brown rice doesn't cook up as fluffy, it has an especially delicious taste many people find pleasing. You may want to try it the next time your menu calls for rice.

Kissinger Draws A Line

No matter how you look at it, them were fightin' words spoken by Secretary of State Henry Kissinger in Texas the other night.

Kissinger issued a warning, as he is in the habit of doing — and it might have been a dangerous thing to do, because the U.S. has not shown much will of late to exercise its muscle overseas. The Soviet Union and others who have been prodding and testing the extent of American resolve have evidence on hand to suggest that this warning, too, could be disregarded without fear of reprisal on our part.

In effect, Kissinger told Cuba that the United States will not tolerate any more messing around in other parts of the world. Specifically, he meant those "Russian" mercenaries in Cuban uniforms should quit tromping around Africa and go home. Kissinger didn't say exactly what the U.S. would do if Cuba, under Soviet orders, sends its adventurers into the guerrilla fighting in Rhodesia. But it has been reported that the administration is thinking about resuming the blockade of Cuba's home island.

We're not saying that Kissinger was right in possibly making Rhodesia — the black battle to overturn white minority rule — the test of American will in foreign affairs. But it would be wrong if the Ford administration, having warned Cuba against further military action far from its shores, simply does nothing if Cuban soldiers do become involved in any other of the undeclared wars in Africa.

In any event, the Kissinger warning puts not only Cuba, but the Soviet Union and especially the American people on notice of some rough and tumble times ahead.

The best possible outcome would be the unlikely event that Cuba would heed Kissinger's warning and quietly go home — although such an outcome probably would have little bearing on the ultimate fortunes of the white minority in Rhodesia, which the U.S. should be counseling to let go of power in any case. And it would probably force the implementation of some other tool useful to the Soviets in their drive to impose influence on Africa. Whatever happens, Africa will continue to be a hotbed of trouble.

A less desirable result of Kissinger's warning would feature the U.S. getting rough with the Cubans in one way or another after Fidel impolitely tells us to sit on it. This would inevitably invite another flashpoint situation with the Russians, with someone having to lose face.

But the worst possible outcome for this nation in the long run would be if Kissinger's warning was seen as an empty one, Cuba ignored it and the U.S. did nothing about it. That would signal to Soviet expansionists and everyone else the collapse of American will and the collapse of the worth of our word. In that event, the relatively weak position the U.S. now suffers in Africa will be small potatoes, indeed. We'll be in much bigger trouble than that.

One gets the feeling Kissinger could do a better job of picking the issues over which we must live or die.

But the fact remains that once the line is drawn, we had better do something when someone crosses it.

Ignoring The Obvious

One of these days, maybe not when any of the current City Council members are in office, but sometime down the line, a decision will have to be made on lifting or making more flexible the ceiling on the number of liquor licenses allowed in Lincoln.

That ceiling stands at 135 licenses and is forever under challenge by people who don't want to buy an existing license, but instead want a new one issued. The licensing policy has been debated over the past several years and moves have been made to change the policy and give the limit upward flexibility but the attempts have either been defeated, sidetracked or withdrawn.

Once again this week the council tackled the license limit problem. At issue was the application of Dumplings Restaurant at 22nd and Hwy. 2 for a new beer license. Dumplings was turned down by the council because there are now the allowable number of licenses operating in the city. Dumplings does not want to buy an existing license. Council denial probably means State Liquor Control Commission denial, because that final authority usually goes along with the city in matters of this nature.

The issue however, is far broader than the Dumplings applications or the wish of any other individual applicant for a new license.

The issue has several facets, not the least of which is the creation and maintenance of artificially high monetary values of existing licenses through a numbers ceiling.

Another aspect of the problem is the image people have of government's problem-solving ability.

Lincoln is growing and will continue to grow. Will the limit on licenses of 135 — assuming only for the argument that such a limit is reasonable now — be reasonable in two, five or ten years? Will the council in the future be able to overcome pressures to keep a tight lid on licenses, not for the sake of temperance, but pressures for a lid to protect prior investments? Will the council be able to deal rationally with growth and corresponding business and consumer desires for more beverage outlets?

Based on the current council's inability to grab this issue by the horns, the answers are anybody's guess.

But the council is painting itself into a corner by its inaction. At some future point the chickens will come home to roost, and it will be an embarrassment.

Curtis Returns Loot

WASHINGTON — At least $8 million in illegal corporate payoffs have disappeared into the pockets of Washington politicians during the past decade.

While the spotlight has focused on corporate bribery overseas, we have investigated payoffs to politicians here at home. We have determined that political bigwigs collected the $8 million from four corporations alone: Ashland Oil, Gulf Oil, Northrop Aircraft and Phillips Petroleum.

The dimensions of the scandal indicate it may develop into a corporate Watergate.

Our reporters, Terry Repak and Marc Smolonsky, dug through Securities and Exchange Commission documents in an attempt to trace the money. They contacted 45 congressmen who were identified in the documents as recipients of illegal payments.

Our investigation even led to the White House itself. President Ford allegedly received an illegal $1,000 contribution from Phillips when he was the House Republican leader. A White House spokesman told us there was no way to verify the payment now. But he conceded the money was never returned.

When Richard Nixon occupied the White House, his campaign aides were caught accepting an illegal $100,000 contribution from Ashland in 1972. The money was returned with a big show of piety. We have now discovered that the Nixon campaign accepted an earlier $100,000 from the same oil company in 1968. But this money, since it was never publicized, wasn't given back.

Of the 45 members of Congress who are identified in SEC documents as receiving illegal money from corporate lobbyists, only six have returned the loot. They are Sen. Howard Baker, R-Tenn., Carl Curtis, R-Neb., Henry Jackson, D-Wash., James McClure, R-Ida., J. B. Johnston, D-La., and Rep. Wilbur Mills, D-Ark.

They paid back a total of $45,600 in illegal gifts. But Mills did not return another $50,000 Ashland contribution, strictly illegal, which was given to him to distribute to Democratic colleagues.

Sen. James Eastland, D-Miss., admitted receiving a $5,000 payment from Ashland but said he had no intention of returning it. House Democratic leader Tip O'Neill, D-Mass., acknowledged he got $200 from Phillips. He also felt no obligation to return it. Both men explained that they didn't realize the contributions had come from corporate funds.

Most of the 45 legislators, whose names appear on the SEC lists of illegal recipients, refused to acknowledge that they got any illegal money from any corporation. Many have received letters from Gulf demanding restitution. They won't give back money, they said, that they don't recall receiving.

One Gulf letter, for example, went to Sen. Hubert Humphrey, D-Minn. Through a spokesman, he denied receiving an illegal payment but acknowledged the gifts may have gone to his campaign committees. Our information indicates that Humphrey collected $30,500, all told, from Gulf and Ashland.

Sen. Mark Hatfield, R-Ore., according to the documents, received $11,000 from Phillips and Gulf. But a spokesman insisted that Hatfield never got any illegal payments.

Another $1,000 illegal donation from Phillips allegedly went to Sen. Strom Thurmond, R-S.C. A spokesman said there's no record of the illegal payment but acknowledged it might have come in from a corporate bagman. The money, in any event, won't be returned.

There are reports that Speaker Carl Albert collected $3,000 from Phillips. A spokesman said the speaker vaguely remembers receiving contributions from Phillips but can't recall the exact amount. The money won't be returned.

Sen. Birch Bayh, D-Ind., according to the records, accepted $3,000 from Ashland. An aide said the money won't be paid back. "It's between Ashland Oil and the man who made the contribution," he said.

We found records at the SEC of illegal payments to members of Congress of $1.4 million from Gulf, $800,000 from Ashland and $500,000 from Phillips. We couldn't find how another $4 million from Gulf and $1.5 million from Northrop were distributed.

Only four corporations accounted for these staggering political payoffs. The SEC is investigating many other companies that were also slipping money to politicians. But no one is investigating the politicians who accepted the payments.

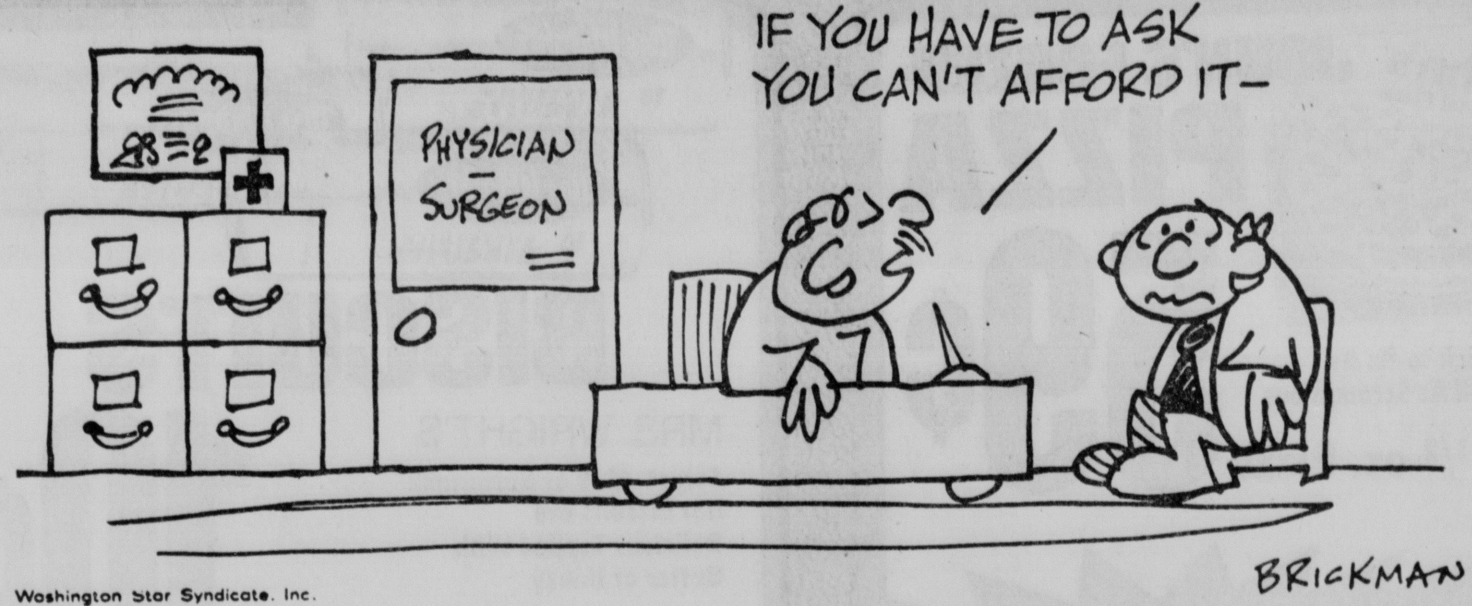
GM Decries Health Care Costs



IF YOU HAVE TO ASK YOU CAN'T AFFORD IT—
PHYSICIAN — SURGEON
BRICKMAN

Washington Star Syndicate, Inc.

WASHINGTON — Sen. Edward M. Kennedy (D-Mass.), who has struck out repeatedly in his efforts to get a program of national health insurance to first base, has received some help from a most unexpected source: Big business.

Republican and Democratic conservatives, together with the business community, have consistently joined the medical profession in opposing the Kennedy proposal as another major step on the road to socialism.

But alarming increases in the cost of Blue Cross-Blue Shield coverage finally got to one of the pillars of the Fortune 500 last week: General Motors Corp., which announced ruefully that it spent more on employe health benefits in 1975 than it did with its major metal supplier, U.S. Steel. GM's Blue Cross-Blue Shield tab: $825 million, or something like $1,800 per employe.

The purpose of this public hand-wringing is to give GM a little better bargaining position when it sits down this summer to try to convince the United Auto Workers that either GM's employes should pick up a part of the health insurance tab, or that the union should make concessions in other areas — wage increases or other non-health-related fringe benefits.

But the immediate effect was to prompt renewed public discussion of the Kennedy proposal, with representatives of all the parties that would be affected by nationalized insurance pointing the finger at each other. The UAW turned deaf ears to GM's tears, the insurance company blamed the medical profession, and the medical profession insisted that doctor and hospital charges are not out of line.

Nationalized health insurance can't help but come out looking better when the name-callers have run out of steam. But even if GM ultimately decided to back Kennedy, and even if other segments of the corporate community were to join in, it is doubtful that any significant legislation could get before Congress until late next year at the earliest.

First of all, Congress isn't about to do anything significant on an issue as controversial as nationalized health insurance until members have settled in after the election. Second, the major thrust of GM's "going public" strategy to date has been to put pressure on the union to help pay the tab, not on the insurance industry to lower rates or on the medical profession to lower health care delivery costs.

Moreover, other corporations, many of which are even harder hit than GM by escalating employe benefits costs, are nonetheless riding it out, waiting to see how the king of the Big Three fares by airing the issue in public. If the strategy proves to help management at the bargaining table later this year, they will get on the bandwagon. If it backfires, then it's back to the drawing boards.

Either way, it is clear that the business community is finally coming around to the side of those who argue that some way has to be found — and soon — to lower the cost of health insurance so that more Americans can afford to obtain protection.

And that is the single biggest boost the concept of national health insurance has had since Ted Kennedy started pushing for it.

More Postal Curtailment Coming

Credit To The Director

Lincoln, Neb.

I am the staff repertory director of John Houseman's "The Acting Company." As the nation's only permanent touring repertory company, we have played in Lincoln on two previous occasions under our previous name, The City Center Acting Company." We have been quite successful in Lincoln and, I am happy to report, have developed a growing and dedicated following throughout the Midwest.

I would like to take issue, however, with a rather glaring omission made by the theater critic in the review of our country musical, "The Robber Bridegroom," which appeared in the Mar. 19 Star. I am delighted Mr. Wallis enjoyed the production and gave it such a favorable review, but I am distressed that he neglected to give credit to the one person most responsible for the success of the production, i. e., the director, Gerald Freedman. Since Mr. Freedman has recently become the company's co-artistic director, I think mention should be made and this error corrected — especially if the company continues to grow and returns to Lincoln in the future.

I would also like to say that Lincoln is one of The Acting Company's most favorite engagements. The people are most kind and the city itself is lovely and clean.

Cutting Down On Postal Service

Lincoln, Neb.

The Lincoln Post Office is planning to curtail Saturday window service everywhere but the main office, so if we have business to contract, we will have to join the crowd downtown. This is, no doubt, a natural prelude to the elimination of all Saturday service, including deliveries, as part of Postmaster General Bailar's plan to make the USPS more efficient. His efforts, in reality, are nothing more than cutting costs by cutting services. If any business embarked on such a program, it would ultimately find itself without business at all, and we can expect the same of the postal service if it continues its self-destructive policies. Such an event would be bad news for everyone.

Mr. Bailar asks if the public really needs all those small post offices, six-day deliveries, and other services that are not economical. There are few public services that do not burden our economy, including unemployment compensation, aid to dependent children, and many other social programs. But this country has a right to expect such services as part of the benefits of living in a society that is concerned with the welfare of its citizens. The right to a good postal service is guaranteed to everyone by the Constitution, a fact that is obviously being given little consideration by postal officials. If Mr. Bailar has forgotten his obligation to society, then it is time to send him packing.

Because the USPS lacks any kind of comprehensive postal reform plan, the current rule of thumb is to reduce whatever services it thinks it can without arousing too much public outrage. Let us, therefore, make it known to local postal officials and to our elected representatives that we expect the postal service to stop ignoring its duty to the American public.

National Health Care Coming

Lincoln, Neb.

The malpractice bill was tacked on to the meatpackers bill by a deft maneuver — of Senator Loran Schmit. If it had been tacked on to a "meatgrinder's" bill, it would be more appropriate because of what happens to one's bank account during illness and hospitalization. About the only advantage I can see in this bill is, it will hasten the day of national health care.

A member of my family was hospitalized for 14 days for tests, followed by surgery; the total of all bills was over $3,150. We had insurance policies that cost us over $500 per year. When I went to have the hospital fill out the claim forms, they told me it was the law that they had to list all insurances involved in each of their standard claim forms. I contended this law was a vicious rip-off and that I believed this to be a "malpractice" on their part, between the insurance industry and the hospital associations.

If one has more than enough coverage to cover the claims of all bills, they would like to have it divided by coordinating the bills to make it easier on the insurance companies involved. But they apparently want nothing left over for the patient's family to offset their increasing premium payments, which they do NOT coordinate.

These kinds of laws are for the powerful special interests involved at the expense of the unfortunate victims. I have always contended that the laws should protect the public from the schemers, instead of making it worse for the victims.

We are satisfied with diagnosis, surgery, other treatment and results; in fact we are very thankful.

Question Of Motivation

Lincoln, Neb.

I feel that Senator William Skarda's actions in calling for the dismissal of Tim Hergenrader of the Game and Parks Commission were as inappropriate as any letter he could have written. For that small portion of our population who are fortunate enough to be privately employed, there still exists freedom of speech.

Court decisions more than adequately establish the right of any individual to express an opinion on public issues and public officials. The implications made, rightly or wrongly, were in reference to Nebraska senators who, the last anyone has heard, are still public officials accountable for their actions.

It is unfortunate that a public official who is open enough to say what is on his mind is subject to the kind of harassment he has received. His references to possible conflicts of interest in the bottle bill issue were rather astute observations which call attention to some very relevant points.

When laws are used to stifle dissenting opinions, it is sad. If this defensive reaction was motivated by guilt, it is even sadder that this has been done. It is interesting that the senator chose to exercise his influence to stifle a critic, rather than respond to his allegation.

There seem to be questions regarding the motivations of all the persons involved in this case. There is now question about the factors which motivated and influenced those senators who originally voted against the bottle bill. This is a question about Senator Skarda's motives in trying to get the dissenter fired. It is only the motives of Mr. Hergenrader which appear to be clear. He was concerned about the environment of land and parks, which is his job.

Facts And Figures

Fairfax, Va.

This is a rebuttal to a letter published in the March 2 edition of The Star.

D. McCord (1800 Donald Circle, Lincoln) cited a nonsensical report from labor union organizers which attempts to prove that per capita personal income in Nebraska and certain other states is below the national average because those states have right-to-work laws banning the forced unionization of employes who don't want to be represented by private associations.

Baloney!

Not surprisingly, union spokesmen try to conceal the fact that wage-earners in non-right-to-work states are being fired from their jobs for refusing to pay tribute to organized labor. The union bosses, despite documented facts to the contrary, charge (1) that right-to-work laws stifle union growth, and (2) that per capita personal income is higher in states where substantial percentages of employes are dues-paying union members.

Both charges are false.

Between 1962 and 1972, according to U.S. Department of Labor figures, AFL-CIO unions realized a net gain of 714,000 members in the 19 right-to-work states and a net gain of 830,500 in the other 31 states.

In 1973 per capita personal income was $4,120 in the right-to-work state of North Carolina, which has the lowest rate of unionization (7.5%) in the nation. The comparable figure for the non-right-to-work state of West Virginia, which has the country's highest rate of unionization (41.3%), was $3,828.

Nebraska deserves praise, not criticism, for safeguarding individual freedom.

The Right To An Education

Lincoln, Neb.

The fifth and sixth-graders from Hawthorne School came to Tabitha Home recently to entertain the aged and infirm. What an opportunity these children have who are in the public schools of Lincoln today, and in all other schools in these United States of America! It was not always so.

It thrilled your heart to see the earnest faces of these children. Their bright eyes sparkled with interest. Everyone has a latent talent, and the talent of these children is music and stringed instruments. A very conscientious coach led them and they were most attentive.

There are many places where children do not have such opportunities. Some don't go to school, at all, and are illiterate and a drain on the county and state.

Every child born has an equal right to an education. Parents and the state should see to it, even though it is only the formal eight grades. I realize that some children are more difficult to handle than others, but we must try.

Kissinger Draws A Line

No matter how you look at it, them were fightin' words spoken by Secretary of State Henry Kissinger in Texas the other night

Kissinger issued a warning, as he is in the habit of doing — and it might have been a dangerous thing to do, because the U S has not shown much will of late to exercise its muscle overseas The Soviet Union and others who have been prodding and testing the extent of American resolve have evidence on hand to suggest that this warning too could be disregarded without fear of reprisal on our part

In effect, Kissinger told Cuba that the United States will not tolerate any more messing around in other parts of the world Specifically he meant those "Russian' mercenaries in Cuban uniforms should quit tromping around Africa and go home Kissinger didn't say exactly what the U S would do if Cuba under Soviet orders, sends its adventurers into the guerrilla fighting in Rhodesia But it has been reported that the administration is thinking about resuming the blockade of Cuba s home island

We re not saying that Kissinger was right in possibly making Rhodesia — the black battle to overturn white minority rule — the test of American will in foreign affairs But it would be wrong if the Ford administration, having warned Cuba against further military action far from its shores, simply does nothing if Cuban soldiers do become involved in any other of the undeclared wars in Africa

In any event the Kissinger warning puts not only Cuba but the Soviet Union and especially the American people on notice of some rough and tumble times ahead

The best possible outcome would be the unlikely event that Cuba would heed Kissinger's warning and quietly go home — although such an outcome probably would have little bearing on the ultimate fortunes of the white minority in Rhodesia, which the U S should be counseling to let go of power in any case And it would probably force the implementation of some other tool useful to the Soviets in their drive to impose influence on Africa Whatever happens, Africa will continue to be a hotbed of trouble

A less desirable result of Kissinger's warning would feature the U S getting rough with the Cubans in one way or another after Fidel impolitely tells us to sit on it This would inevitably invite another flashpoint situation with the Russians, with someone having to lose face

But the worst possible outcome for this nation in the long run would be if Kissinger's warning was seen as an empty one, Cuba ignored it and the U S did nothing about it That would signal to Soviet expansionists and everyone else the collapse of American will and the collapse of the worth of our word In that event, the relatively weak position the U S now suffers in Africa will be small potatoes, indeed We'll be in much bigger trouble than that

One gets the feeling Kissinger could do a better job of picking the issues over which we must live or die

But the fact remains that once the line is drawn, we had better do something when someone crosses it

Ignoring The Obvious

One of these days, maybe not when any of the current City Council members are in office but sometime down the line, a decision will have to be made on lifting or making more flexible the ceiling on the number of liquor licenses allowed in Lincoln

That ceiling stands at 135 licenses and is forever under challenge by people who don t want to buy an existing license, but instead want a new one issued The licensing policy has been debated over the past several years and moves have been made to change the policy and give the limit upward flexibility but the attempts have either been defeated, sidetracked or withdrawn

Once again this week the council tackled the license limit problem At issue was the application of Dumplings Restaurant at 22nd and Hwy 2 for a new beer license Dumplings was turned down by the council because there are now the allowable number of licenses operating in the city Dumplings does not want to buy an existing license Council denial probably means State Liquor Control Commission denial, because that final authority usually goes along with the city in matters of this nature

The issue however, is far broader than the Dumplings applications or the wish of any other individual applicant for a new license

The issue has several facets, not the least of which is the creation and maintenance of artificially high monetary values of existing licenses through a numbers ceiling

Another aspect of the problem is the image people have of government's problem-solving ability

Lincoln is growing and will continue to grow Will the limit on licenses of 135 — assuming only for the argument that such a limit is reasonable now — be reasonable in two, five or ten years? Will the council in the future be able to overcome pressures to keep a tight lid on licenses, not for the sake of temperance, but pressures for a lid to protect prior investments? Will the council be able to deal rationally with growth and corresponding business and consumer desires for more beverage outlets?

Based on the current council's inability to grab this issue by the horns, the answers are anybody's guess

But the council is painting itself into a corner by its inaction At some future point the chickens will come home to roost, and it will be an embarrassment

Curtis Returns Loot

WASHINGTON — At least $8 million in illegal corporate payoffs have disappeared into the pockets of Washington politicians during the past decade

While the spotlight has focused on corporate bribery overseas we have investigated payoffs to politicians here at home We have determined that political bigwigs collected the $8 million from four corporations alone Ashland Oil Gulf Oil, Northrop Aircraft and Phillips Petroleum

The dimensions of the scandal indicate it may develop into a corporate Watergate

Our reporters Terry Repak and Marc Smolonsky dug through Securities and Exchange Commission documents in an attempt to trace the money They contacted 45 congressmen who were identified in the documents as recipients of illegal payments

Our investigation even led to the White House itself President Ford allegedly received an illegal $1 000 contribution from Phillips when he was the House Republican leader A White House spokesman told us there was no way to verify the payment now But he conceded the money was never returned

When Richard Nixon occupied the White House his campaign aides were caught accepting an illegal $100 000 contribution from Ashland in 1972 The money was returned with a big show of piety We have now discovered that the Nixon campaign accepted an earlier $100 000 from the same oil company in 1968 But this money since it was never publicized, wasn t given back

Of the 45 members of Congress who are identified in SEC documents as receiving illegal money from corporate lobbyists, only six have returned the loot They are Sen Howard Baker, R-Tenn., Carl Curtis, R-Neb , Henry Jackson, D-Wash , James McClure, R-Ida , J. B Johnston, D-La , and Rep. Wilbur Mills, D-Ark.

They paid back a total of $45 - 600 in illegal gifts But Mills did not return another $50 000 Ashland contribution strictly illegal which was given to him to distribute to Democratic colleagues

Sen James Eastland D-Miss admitted receiving a $5 000 payment from Ashland but said he had no intention of returning it House Democratic leader Tip O Neill D-Mass acknowledged he got $200 from Phillips He also felt no obligation to return it Both men explained that they didn't realize the contributions had come from corporate funds

Most of the 45 legislators whose names appear on the SEC lists of illegal recipients refused to acknowledge that they got any illegal money from any corporation Many have received letters from Gulf demanding restitution They won t give back money they said that they don't recall receiving

One Gulf letter for example went to Sen Hubert Humphrey D-Minn Through a spokesman he denied receiving an illegal payment but acknowledged the gifts may have gone to his campaign committees Our information indicates that Humphrey collected $30 500 all told from Gulf and Ashland

Sen Mark Hatfield, R-Ore , according to the documents, received $11 000 from Phillips and Gulf But a spokesman insisted that Hatfield never got any illegal payments

Another $1 000 illegal donation from Phillips allegedly went to Sen Strom Thurmond R-S C A spokesman said there s no record of the illegal payment but acknowledged it might have come in from a corporate bagman The money, in any event, won t be returned

There are reports that Speaker Carl Albert collected $3,000 from Phillips A spokesman said the speaker vaguely remembers receiving contributions from Phillips but can t recall the exact amount. The money won't be returned.

Sen Birch Bayh D-Ind according to the records, accepted $3 000 from Ashland An aide said the money won t be paid back It s between Ashland Oil and the man who made the contribution," he said

We found records at the SEC of illegal payments to members of Congress of $1 4 million from Gulf $800 000 from Ashland and $500 000 from Phillips We couldn't find how another $4 million from Gulf and $1 5 million from Northrop were distributed

Only four corporations accounted for these staggering political payoffs The SEC is investigating many other companies that were also slipping money to politicians But no one is investigating the politicians who accepted the payments

BRICKMAN

Washington Star Syndicate Inc

WASHINGTON — Sen Edward M Kennedy (D-Mass), who has struck out repeatedly in his efforts to get a program of national health insurance to first base, has received some help from a most unexpected source Big business

Republican and Democratic conservatives, together with the business community, have consistently joined the medical profession in opposing the Kennedy proposal as another major step on the road to socialism

But alarming increases in the cost of Blue Cross Blue Shield coverage finally got to one of the pillars of the Fortune 500 last week General Motors Corp , which announced ruefully that it spent more on employe health benefits in 1975 than it did with its major metal supplier U S Steel GM's Blue Cross Blue Shield tab $825 million, or something like $1,800 per employe

The purpose of this public hand-wringing is to give GM a little better bargaining position when it sits down this summer to try to convince the United Auto Workers that either GM s employes should pick up a part of the health insurance tab, or that the union should make concessions in other areas — wage increases or other non-health-related fringe benefits

But the immediate effect was to prompt renewed public discussion of the Kennedy proposal with representatives of all the parties that would be affected by nationalized insurance pointing the finger at each other The UAW turned deaf ears to GM s tears, the insurance company blamed the medical profession, and the medical profession insisted that doctor and hospital charges are not out of line

Nationalized health insurance can't help but come out looking better when the name-callers have run out of steam But even if GM ultimately decided to back Kennedy, and even if other segments of the corporate community were to join in, it is doubtful that any significant legislation could get before Congress until late next year at the earliest

First of all, Congress isn t about to do anything significant on an issue as controversial as nationalized health insurance until members have settled in after the election Second, the major thrust of GM s going public strategy to date has been to put pressure on the union to help pay the tab not on the insurance industry to lower rates or on the medical profession to lower health care delivery costs

Moreover other corporations many of which are even harder hit than GM by escalating employe benefits costs, are nonetheless riding it out, waiting to see how the king of the Big Three fares by airing the issue in public If the strategy proves to help management at the bargaining table later this year, they will get on the bandwagon If it backfires then it s back to the drawing boards

Either way, it is clear that the business community is finally coming around to the side of those who argue that some way has to be found — and soon — to lower the cost of health insurance so that more Americans can afford to obtain protection

And that is the single biggest boost the concept of national health insurance has had since Ted Kennedy started pushing for it

I am the staff repertory director of John Houseman s "The Acting Company ' As the nation s only permanent touring repertory company, we have played in Lincoln on two previous occasions under our previous name The City Center Acting Company " We have been quite successful in Lincoln and, I am happy to report, have developed a growing and dedicated following throughout the Midwest

I would like to take issue however, with a rather glaring omission made by the theater critic in the review of our country musical, "The Robber Bridegroom," which appeared in the Mar 19 Star I am delighted Mr Wallis enjoyed the production and gave it such a favorable review, but I am distressed that he neglected to give credit to the one person most responsible for the success of the production, i e , the director, Gerald Freedman Since Mr Freedman has recently become the company's co-artistic director, I think mention should be made and this error corrected — especially if the company continues to grow and returns to Lincoln in the future

I would also like to say that Lincoln is one of The Acting Company's most favorite engagements The people are most kind and the city itself is lovely and clean

Cutting Down On Postal Service

Lincoln, Neb

The Lincoln Post Office is planning to curtail Saturday window service everywhere but the main office, so if we have business to contract, we will have to join the crowd downtown This is, no doubt, a natural prelude to the elimination of all Saturday service, including deliveries as part of Postmaster General Bailar's plan to make the USPS more efficient. His efforts in reality, are nothing more than cutting costs by cutting services If any business embarked on such a program, it would ultimately find itself without business at all, and we can expect the same of the postal service if it continues its self-destructive policies Such an event would be bad news for everyone

Mr Bailar asks if the public really needs all those small post offices six-day deliveries and other services that are not economical There are few public services that do not burden our economy, including unemployment compensation, aid to dependent children and many other social programs But this country has a right to expect such services as part of the benefits of living in a society that is concerned with the welfare of its citizens The right to a good postal service is guaranteed to everyone by the Constitution a fact that is obviously being given little consideration by postal officials If Mr Bailar has forgotten his obligation to society, then it is time to send him packing

Because the USPS lacks any kind of comprehensive postal reform plan, the current rule of thumb is to reduce whatever services it thinks it can without arousing too much public outrage Let us, therefore, make it known to local postal officials and to our elected representatives that we expect the postal service to stop ignoring its duty to the American public

Lincoln Neb

The malpractice bill was tacked on to the meatpackers bill by a deft maneuver — of Senator Loran Schmit If it had been tacked on to a meatgrinder s bill it would be more appropriate because of what happens to one s bank account during illness and hospitalization About the only advantage I can see in this bill is it will hasten the day of national health care

A member of my family was hospitalized for 14 days for tests followed by surgery the total of all bills was over $3 150 We had insurance policies that cost us over $500 per year When I went to have the hospital fill out the claim forms they told me it was the law that they had to list all insurances involved in each of their standard claim forms I contended this law was a vicious rip-off and that I believed this to be a malpractice on their part between the insurance industry and the hospital associations

If one has more than enough coverage to cover the claims of all bills they would like to have it divided by coordinating the bills to make it easier on the insurance companies involved But they apparently want nothing left over for the patient s family to offset their increasing premium payments which they do NOT coordinate

These kinds of laws are for the powerful special interests involved at the expense of the unfortunate victims I have always contended that the laws should protect the public from the schemers instead of making it worse for the victims

We are satisfied with diagnosis surgery other treatment and results in fact we are very thankful

Question Of Motivation

Lincoln Neb

I feel that Senator William Skarda s actions in calling for the dismissal of Tim Hergenrader of the Game and Parks Commission were as inappropriate as any letter he could have written For that small portion of our population who are fortunate enough to be privately employed there still exists freedom of speech

Court decisions more than adequately establish the right of any individual to express an opinion on public issues and public officials The implications made, rightly or wrongly, were in reference to Nebraska senators who, the last anyone has heard, are still public officials accountable for their actions

It is unfortunate that a public official who is open enough to say what is on his mind is subject to the kind of harassment he has received His references to possible conflicts of interest in the bottle bill issue were rather astute observations which call attention to some very relevant points

When laws are used to stifle dissenting opinions, it is sad If this defensive reaction was motivated by guilt, it is even sadder that this has been done It is interesting that the senator chose to exercise his influence to stifle a critic, rather than respond to his allegation

There seem to be questions regarding the motivations of all the persons involved in this case There is now question about the factors which motivated and influenced those senators who originally voted against the bottle bill This is a question about Senator Skarda s motives in trying to get the dissenter fired It is only the motives of Mr Hergenrader which appear to be clear He was concerned about the environment of land and parks which is his job

Fairfax, Va

This is a rebuttal to a letter published in the March 2 edition of The Star

D McCord (1800 Donald Circle, Lincoln) cited a nonsensical report from labor union organizers which attempts to prove that per capita personal income in Nebraska and certain other states is below the national average because those states have right-to-work laws banning the forced unionization of employes who don t want to be represented by private associations

Baloney!

Not surprisingly, union spokesmen try to conceal the fact that wage-earners in non-right-to-work states are being fired from their jobs for refusing to pay tribute to organized labor The union bosses despite documented facts to the contrary, charge (1) that right-to-work laws stifle union growth and (2) that per capita personal income is higher in states where substantial percentages of employes are dues-paying union members

Both charges are false

Between 1962 and 1972, according to U S Department of Labor figures, AFL-CIO unions realized a net gain of 714,000 members in the 19 right-to-work states and a net gain of 830,500 in the other 31 states

In 1973 per capita personal income was $4,120 in the right to-work state of North Carolina, which has the lowest rate of unionization (7 5%) in the nation The comparable figure for the non-right-to-work state of West Virginia which has the country s highest rate of unionization (41 3%), was $3 828

Court Calls Computer Terminals 'Branches'

Washington (UPI) — The U.S. Court of Appeals held Tuesday that national banks must comply with state laws before establishing remote computer hookups in supermarkets and elsewhere.

The three-judge appellate court unanimously ruled that such unmanned or manned computer terminals outside national bank buildings are branches. Therefore, the court said, the Comptroller of the Currency lacked the authority under federal banking law to exempt such facilities from complying with state bank law.

The decision, upholding a federal district court ruling, was a victory for state-chartered banks who also must comply with state banking laws. But the ruling presumably will hinder nationally-chartered banks in their efforts to take advantage of new technology for electronic fund transfers.

The computer hookups can be installed in groceries, shopping centers, factories and offices. Bank customers are given plastic "key cards" which identify the user to the computer and allow check cashing, deposits and other transactions.

In December 1974, Comptroller of the Currency James E. Smith ruled that such hookups are not branch banks within the meaning of the national bank act, which requires national banks to comply with state bank branching laws.

The ruling would allow national banks to install remote computer terminals without regard to limits placed on state-chartered banks. As of last July, the appeals court said, 28 national banks in 17 states had notified the comptroller they planned to establish 155 remote terminal locations.

The Independent Bankers Association of America, representing 7,300 commercial banks, filed suit, contending the terminals are branches and must comply with state bank laws.

District Judge Aubrey E. Robinson agreed, and enjoined the comptroller from applying the new rules. Tuesday, the court of appeals, in a 65-page opinion by Judge Malcolm R. Wilkey, affirmed Robinson's decision.

Wilkey said the comptroller had failed to show that computer terminal sites are not branches, although they permit fund transfers. In addition, he said, the national bank act was aimed at providing fair competition between state and nationally chartered banks.

Citing past court cases interpreting the national bank act, Wilkey said, "Again we are confronted with an attempt to secure for national banks branching privileges which many states deny to competing state banks . . ."

Substitute Campaign Bill May Speed Senate's OK

Washington (UPI) — Senate leaders reached agreement Tuesday on compromise they expect will break a nearly week-long deadlock over changing the federal election campaign law.

Democratic and Republican leaders agreed to a substitute bill to be brought up later this week including most of the amendments already adopted, but making major changes in the points of contention.

Sen. Howard W. Cannon, D-Nev., floor manager of the bill, told the Senate in announcing the agreement, "We are hopeful in light of the substitute as now drafted that we can move to a speedy conclusion (of the bill) within the next day or two."

The break in the Senate deadlock may only be temporary. Cannon noted that the agreement still would allow further amending on the floor.

In an attempt to avoid similar trouble, authors of the House version asked the House Rules Committee to restrict to a select few the number of amendments which will be allowed on the floor when two days of House debate begin, probably next week.

A major compromise would allow political action committees of corporations and unions to solicit all persons connected with the corporation through twice-a-year mailings, but would have to provide for anonymity of the contributors.

Business had objected that restricting the persons who could be solicited would favor unions, and labor objected that without anonymity the company could coerce employes.

Another dispute was over a requirement that corporations and unions which tried to influence specific elections through internal communications would have to report all funds spent that way. The leaders agreed to allow an amendment to put a $1,000 floor on spending reports.

The compromise also dropped the original bill's provision to give Congress veto power over any rulings or advisory opinions the Federal Election Commission might make.

Another dispute was over a requirement that corporations and unions which tried to influence specific elections through internal communications would have to report all funds spent that way. The leaders agreed to allow an amendment to put a $1,000 floor on spending reports.

The compromise also dropped the original bill's provision to give Congress veto power over any rulings or advisory opinions the Federal Election Commission might make.

This would put the Senate bill at direct odds with the House version, where Democratic authors insist Congress must be able to overturn any FEC decision. Republicans argued the provision destroyed the FEC's independence.

The FEC lost its power to disburse public funds to presidential candidates at midnight because Congress failed to meet the Supreme Court's deadline for remedying various unconstitutional provisions of the campaign law.

In the House, Administration Committee Chairman Wayne Hays, D-Ohio, told the Rules Committee there must be tight restrictions on the number of amendments that may be offered to the House version of the reform bill as it is debated over the next two days.

"If we do as the Senate did we may be here for a year," Hays said.

The House was expected to begin floor action Wednesday and complete the bill Thursday. The Senate could complete its action quickly once it agrees upon its substitute compromise bill.

Wiretap Loophole Feared

Washington (UPI) — President Ford Tuesday unveiled plans to require a federal judge's approval for counterspy wiretapping — but a controversy loomed in Congress over an apparent national security loophole.

Basically, the bill would provide that bugging on foreign intelligence and national security matters could be carried out in the United States only if a specially appointed federal judge issued a warrant.

There has long been a similar limitation on the use of wiretaps in criminal cases.

Ford introduced his proposal to Democratic and Republican congressional leaders at the White House, and Atty. Gen. Edward Levi told reporters he believes Ford has amassed the congressional support needed to get it passed.

But on Capitol Hill, Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., who had agreed to introduce the legislation for the administration, and Sen. Gaylord Nelson, D-Wis., said they had serious reservations about a potential loophole.

In separate news conferences, they pointed to a presidential disclaimer in the bill which states that "nothing in this chapter shall limit the constitutional power of the president to order electronic surveillance" for reasons of national security.

Kennedy and Nelson said the clause could mean the executive might plead "national security" for bypassing the other safeguards against illegal domestic wiretaps.

The White House maintained this provision applied only to overseas interceptions and a spokesman said it was the "one point on which the president will not compromise."

Both senators indicated they felt the question could be resolved and that the bill, possibly with some changes, stood a good chance of passage.

Ford — End Food Aid To 'Non-Needy Children'

Washington (UPI) — President Ford sent to Congress Tuesday a bill to reform the federal school lunch program, cutting off food aid to "non-needy children" at a yearly saving of $900 million.

In a message to Congress the President said under current laws the federal government pays about 20% of the costs of school lunches to all children, regardless of their family's wealth.

He said current law will drive up the cost to taxpayers while "at least 700,000 children from poor families" get no lunch help.

Ford's reform measure would give aid to needy children alone and eliminate it for children above the poverty line.

Ford's bill lists the poverty line for families at $5,010.

Ford's bill would take some 15 separate food aid programs, lump the money together and give it to the states to save on red tape and to give local governments more freedom in spending it.

The President's plans also would give state governments an opportunity to take part in planning what to feed the children, a matter now almost wholly in Washington's hands.

The President tried last year to get Congress to enact parts of the reform package. Congress refused.

Senate Moves To Exempt Custom Cutters From Bill

Washington (AP) — The Senate approved legislation Tuesday which would exempt "custom cutters" who harvest grain for others from strict federal rules affecting migrant workers.

Approved by voice vote, the measure was offered by Sen. Robert Dole, R-Kan., as an amendment to a House-passed rural development bill. The amendment also would exempt custom hay balers and sheep shearing operators from the federal rules.

A Senate aide said there was a chance the House will accept the amended rural development bill without having to go through a conference procedure to iron out differences. In that way, he said, the measure giving custom cutters exemption from the labor regulations could go into effect more quickly.

The break in the Senate deadlock may only be temporary. Cannon noted that the agreement still would allow further amending on the floor.

In an attempt to avoid similar trouble, authors of the House version asked the House Rules Committee to restrict to a select few the number of amendments which will be allowed on the floor when two days of House debate begin, probably next week.

A major compromise would allow political action committees of corporations and unions to solicit all persons connected with the corporation through twice-a-year mailings, but would have to provide for anonymity of the contributors.

Business had objected that restricting the persons who could be solicited would favor unions, and labor objected that without anonymity the company could coerce employes.

Another dispute was over a requirement that corporations and unions which tried to influence specific elections through internal communications would have to report all funds spent that way. The leaders agreed to allow an amendment to put a $1,000 floor on spending reports.

The compromise also dropped the original bill's provision to give Congress veto power over any rulings or advisory opinions the Federal Election Commission might make.

The compromise also dropped the original bill's provision to give Congress veto power over any rulings or advisory opinions the Federal Election Commission might make.

This would put the Senate bill at direct odds with the House version, where Democratic authors insist Congress must be able to overturn any FEC decision. Republicans argued the provision destroyed the FEC's independence.

The FEC lost its power to disburse public funds to presidential candidates at midnight because Congress failed to meet the Supreme Court's deadline for remedying various unconstitutional provisions of the campaign law

In the House, Administration Committee Chairman Wayne Hays, D-Ohio, told the Rules Committee there must be tight restrictions on the number of amendments that may be offered to the House version of the reform bill as it is debated over the next two days.

"If we do as the Senate did we may be here for a year," Hays said.

The House was expected to begin floor action Wednesday and complete the bill Thursday. The Senate could complete its action quickly once it agrees upon its substitute compromise bill.

Wiretap Loophole Feared

Washington (UPI) — President Ford Tuesday unveiled plans to require a federal judge's approval for counterspy wiretapping — but a controversy loomed in Congress over an apparent national security loophole.

Basically, the bill would provide that bugging on foreign intelligence and national security matters could be carried out in the United States only if a specially appointed federal judge issued a warrant.

There has long been a similar limitation on the use of wiretaps in criminal cases.

Ford introduced his proposal to Democratic and Republican congressional leaders at the White House, and Atty. Gen. Edward Levi told reporters he believes Ford has amassed the congressional support needed to get it passed.

But on Capitol Hill, Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., who had agreed to introduce the legislation for the administration, and Sen. Gaylord Nelson, D-Wis., said they had serious reservations about a potential loophole.

In separate news conferences, they pointed to a presidential disclaimer in the bill which states that "nothing in this chapter shall limit the constitutional power of the president to order electronic surveillance" for reasons of national security.

Kennedy and Nelson said the clause could mean the executive might plead "national security" for bypassing the other safeguards against illegal domestic wiretaps.

The White House maintained this provision applied only to overseas interceptions and a spokesman said it was the "one point on which the president will not compromise."

Both senators indicated they felt the question could be resolved and that the bill, possibly with some changes, stood a good chance of passage.

Ford — End Food Aid To 'Non-Needy Children'

Washington (UPI) — President Ford sent to Congress Tuesday a bill to reform the federal school lunch program, cutting off food aid to "non-needy children" at a yearly saving of $900 million.

In a message to Congress the President said under current laws the federal government pays about 20% of the costs of school lunches to all children, regardless of their family's wealth

He said current law will drive up the cost to taxpayers while "at least 700,000 children from poor families" get no lunch help

Ford's reform measure would give aid to needy children alone and eliminate it for children above the poverty line.

Ford's bill lists the poverty line for families at $5,010.

Ford's bill would take some 15 separate food aid programs, lump the money together and give it to the states to save on red tape and to give local governments more freedom in spending it.

The President's plans also would give state governments an opportunity to take part in planning what to feed the children, a matter now almost wholly in Washington's hands.

The President tried last year to get Congress to enact parts of the reform package. Congress refused.

Senate Moves To Exempt Custom Cutters From Bill

Washington (AP) — The Senate approved legislation Tuesday which would exempt "custom cutters" who harvest grain for others from strict federal rules affecting migrant workers

Approved by voice vote, the measure was offered by Sen. Robert Dole, R-Kan., as an amendment to a House-passed rural development bill The amendment also would exempt custom hay balers and sheep shearing operators from the federal rules

A Senate aide said there was a chance the House will accept the amended rural development bill without having to go through a conference procedure to iron out differences. In that way, he said, the measure giving custom cutters exemption from the labor regulations could go into effect more quickly.

Sullivan To Quit

Washington (UPI) — Rep. Leonor Sullivan, D-Mo., serving her 12th consecutive term in the House, announced she will not seek re-election.

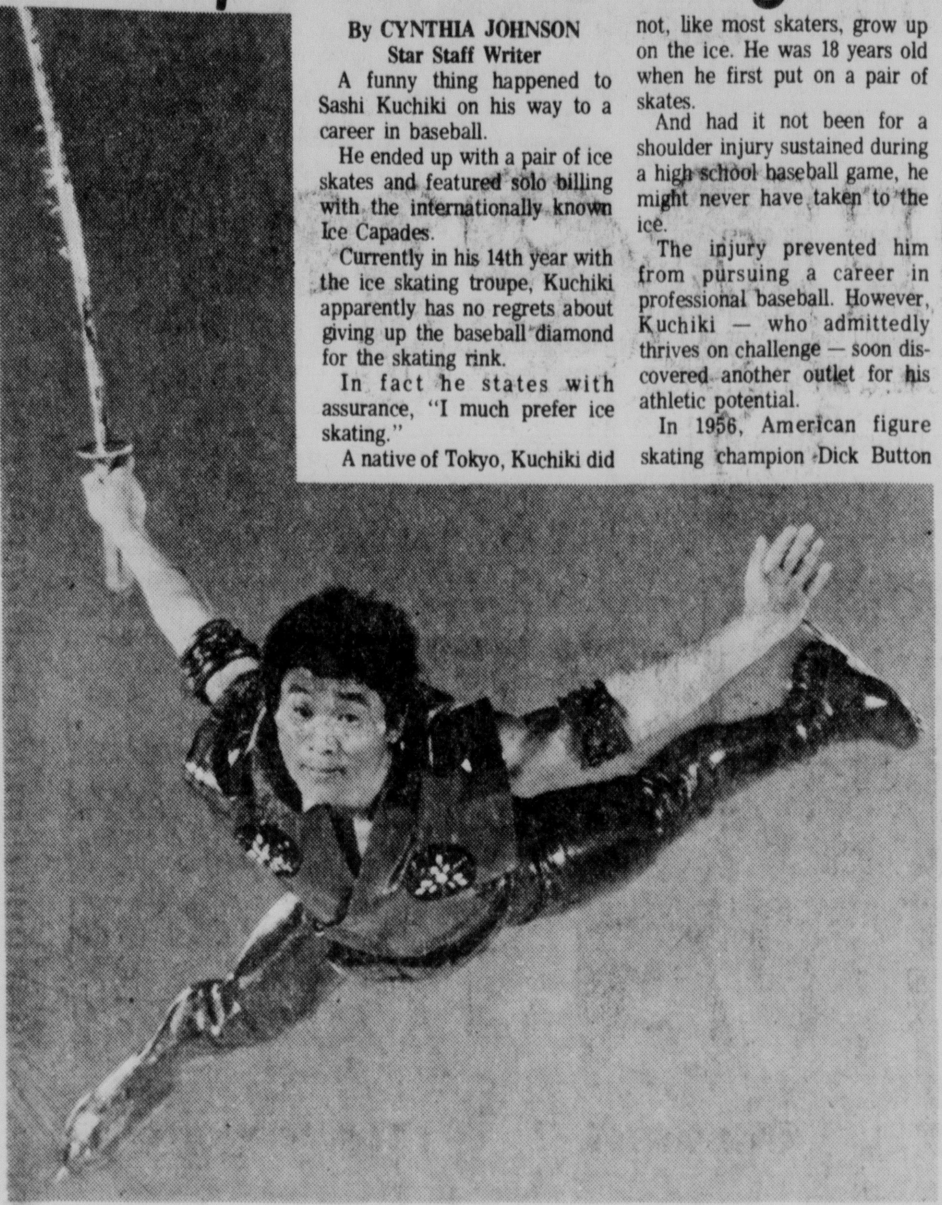
Ice Capades Star Taught Himself On Rented Skates



KUCHIKI ... from baseball to Olympics to Ice Capades.

By CYNTHIA JOHNSON
Star Staff Writer

A funny thing happened to Sashi Kuchiki on his way to a career in baseball.

He ended up with a pair of ice skates and featured solo billing with the internationally known Ice Capades.

Currently in his 14th year with the ice skating troupe, Kuchiki apparently has no regrets about giving up the baseball diamond for the skating rink.

In fact he states with assurance, "I much prefer ice skating."

A native of Tokyo, Kuchiki did not, like most skaters, grow up on the ice. He was 18 years old when he first put on a pair of skates.

And had it not been for a shoulder injury sustained during a high school baseball game, he might never have taken to the ice.

The injury prevented him from pursuing a career in professional baseball. However, Kuchiki — who admittedly thrives on challenge — soon discovered another outlet for his athletic potential.

In 1956, American figure skating champion Dick Button gave an exhibition in Japan. One of the spectators was young Kuchiki, who filmed the performance.

Kuchiki was "very impressed" with Button's skating. So impressed that he studied the film, donned a pair of skates and taught himself into a spot with the 1960 Japanese Olympic skating team.

An alternate team member, Kuchiki didn't get to compete in the Squaw Valley, Idaho, Olympics. However, he was able to stay on in the U.S. after the team departed; and two years later he auditioned for and was given a principal role with the Ice Capades.

"I'm glad I saw a good skater first," the amiable Kuchiki says in reference to Button's exhibition.

At that time, figure skating was virtually nonexistent in Japan, the only space available for practice being crowded public rinks.

However, Kuchiki persevered, using rented skates for the first two years of his training.

"I don't know how I did it," Kuchiki said of the fact he didn't have proper equipment or time to practice more than two hours a day.

But his father had told him, "If you want to do it, do it yourself."

To this day, Kuchiki's parents have never seen him skate. But they'll have the opportunity this year when the Ice Capades goes to Japan for a four-month tour.

His parents will "definitely" be in the audience, Kuchiki predicts. "They'll probably come every night."

Kuchiki, who lives in Hollywood, is usually on the road 10 to 11 months out of the year. He travels from city to city by motor-home, accompanied by his wife and 16-month-old daughter.

When he retires from ice skating, Kuchiki said he'd like to "do something I don't know" — like going into the restaurant business.

But right now, he's content thrilling audiences with what are described as "electrifying" leaps and spins.

Skating is more exciting than team sport, said the former baseball player. "You're out there all by yourself. You have to be good. You don't have anyone to hang onto."

Exon Names Former Opponent Judge

Gov. J. James Exon Tuesday appointed Albert C. Walsh of Gretna, once a candidate for governor on the American Party ticket, as county judge in the Second Judicial District.

The district's judicial nominating commission had sent to the governor the names of Walsh, Roger S. Brink of Plattsmouth and Edwin Getscher of Nebraska City as candidates for the position.

In 1970, Walsh was a candidate for governor. In that year's general election, Exon defeated Norbert T. Tiemann, 248,552 to 201,994. Walsh received 10,913 votes.

In fact he states with assurance 'I much prefer ice skating

A native of Tokyo Kuchiki did not, like most skaters, grow up on the ice He was 18 years old when he first put on a pair of skates

And had it not been for a shoulder injury sustained during a high school baseball game, he might never have taken to the ice

The injury prevented him from pursuing a career in professional baseball However, Kuchiki — who admittedly thrives on challenge — soon discovered another outlet for his athletic potential

In 1956, American figure skating champion Dick Button gave an exhibition in Japan One of the spectators was young Kuchiki, who filmed the performance

Kuchiki was "very impressed' with Button's skating So impressed that he studied the film, donned a pair of skates and taught himself into a spot with the 1960 Japanese Olympic skating team

An alternate team member, Kuchiki didn't get to compete in the Squaw Valley, Idaho, Olympics However, he was able to stay on in the U S after the team departed, and two years later he auditioned for and was given a principal role with the Ice Capades

'I'm glad I saw a good skater first, the amiable Kuchiki says in reference to Button s exhibition

At that time, figure skating was virtually nonexistent in Japan, the only space available for practice being crowded public rinks

However, Kuchiki persevered, using rented skates for the first two years of his training

I don't know how I did it " Kuchiki said of the fact he didn t have proper equipment or time to practice more than two hours a day

But his father had told him "If you want to do it, do it yourself '

To this day Kuchiki s parents have never seen him skate But they ll have the opportunity this year when the Ice Capades goes to Japan for a four-month tour

His parents will "definitely' be in the audience. Kuchiki predicts 'They ll probably come every night

Kuchiki, who lives in Hollywood, is usually on the road 10 to 11 months out of the year He travels from city to city by motor-home, accompanied by his wife and 16-month-old daughter

When he retires from ice skating, Kuchiki said he d like to do something I don t know' — like going into the restaurant business

But right now he s content thrilling audiences with what are described as electrifying leaps and spins

Skating is more exciting than team sport said the former baseball player 'You re out there all by yourself You have to be good You don t have anyone to hang onto

Omaha Firemen's Union Says Thefts From Stations On Rise

Omaha (UPI) — The union representing Omaha firemen reports thefts from fire stations while firefighters are answering alarms have increased during the past 18 months.

In an article in this month's Fire-fighters Union Newsletter, District Fire Chief William McDonnell said stations were entered last year, lockers were broken into and personal items and money stolen.

McDonnell said the last time a theft occurred, billfolds, car keys and house keys were stolen, and most of the firemen felt compelled to change the locks on their homes.

In addition, McDonnell, President of Local 385 of the International Association of Firefighters, said city equipment has been stolen from the stations. He said most of the incidents have occurred at two north Omaha stations.

McDonnell theorized juveniles were responsible. He said the youths could wait around the corner of a station when the engine companies leave on a fire alarm, which many times turn out false.

McDonnell said overhead doors to the stations close automatically in 70 seconds, but it only takes the trucks about 30 seconds to clear them.

If the problem continues, McDonnell said firemen may have to wait until the doors of the stations close before responding to an alarm.

Police, McDonnell said, attempt to send a patrol car to a station after the trucks leave, but this isn't always possible.

Farmers Urged To Protect Fields From Wind

NATIVE GRASSES THRIVE . . . wheat does poorly.

By DOMINICK COSTELLO
Farm Editor

March winds were cutting visibility and damaging farm fields in Lancaster County Tuesday causing concern about the 1976 wheat crop.

Winds were clocked up to 50 miles per hour in Lincoln and as high as 47 m.p.h. at Omaha Tuesday afternoon, while temperatures climbed into the 70s and 80s, topped by 81 degrees at McCook.

"I was out looking at the wheat fields. Most of the wheat that came up late last fall is dead. It will be a month or more before we can be sure but I am not very optimistic about our wheat," said Emery Nelsen, Lancaster County agent.

"The wind pulverizes the structures of the soil. This kind of damage reduces the amount of organic matter as well," said Val Bohaty of the Soil Conservation Service.

Bohaty said farmers have been doing an increased amount of fall plowing in recent years. "This year we have some proof that this isn't a good practice. We need to keep as much crop residue on the soil as long as we can," he said.

Bohaty said many younger farmers have never tried to treat land to keep down wind damage. "I would suggest they contact their county agent or soil technician at their SCS office. Conditions vary so much locally that it isn't possible to make a widespread area recommendation," he said.

Bohaty said many pastures were overgrazed, wheat fields lacked growth due to dry weather and many stalk fields were grazed to the ground during the past winter.

"We are not in very good shape to stand a lot of wind," he warned.

Eastern and northern Nebraska were targets for the strongest winds Tuesday. Gusts as high as 45 m.p.h. were clocked at Norfolk with gusts of 41 m.p.h. at Grand Island.

After blowing from the southwest all day, the winds began switching to the northwest by early Tuesday night in western Nebraska.

Imperial's high for the day was 80 degrees with 76 at Omaha, Grand Island and Scottsbluff. At Lincoln the high was 73 after an overnight low of 36.

A delegation from Nebraska headed by George Kleen, president of the Nebraska Association of Resources Districts, told congress much the same thing in Washington Tuesday.

Kleen described conservation programs "as investments in this nation's future, not expenditures to support the economic well being of farmers and ranchers" in testimony before the Senate agriculture appropriations subcommittee.

Kleen recommended restoration of the Agriculture Conservation Program (ACP) which has been cut from the federal budget by the Ford administration.

Kleen recommended spending a minimum of $175 million for ACP and $30 million for the Great Plains Program.

"These programs are environmental tools which have assisted farmers and ranchers in reducing or preventing pollution from sediments and other associated materials caused by soil erosion," he said.

While Kleen was presenting testimony on water pollution Bohaty was worrying about air pollution. "The dust and dirt hurts air quality as well as the quality of the soil. It is a serious problem," he said.

Bohaty warned that soil moisture in the county has "gone down about 30 inches. There is no subsoil moisture to sustain the crop during the dry weather in July and August."

"The farmers who use good moisture conservation practices will really notice the difference this summer after the spring rains end," he predicted.

Prices Approved

Brussels, Belgium (AP) — The European Common Market approved farm prices designed to end disputes between Italian and French growers of wine grapes and to reduce imports of American soybean meal.

Greenbug Resistant Sorghum Seed Released

North Platte (UPI) — The university of Nebraska Experiment Station has released to commercial seed companies for further development 29 experimental lines of sorghum carrying resistance to greenbugs.

Dr. Paul Nordquist, sorghum breeder at the North Platte station, said the 29 lines were being released in "breeder quantities." He said seed companies purchasing the experimental lines will use them in their breeding programs to produce hybrids that will eventually be available to farmers.

Nordquist has been working for seven years with greenbug resistant germ plasm materials, selecting plants showing resistance to greenbugs and having early maturity.

In a joint statement, the station and the U.S. Agriculture Department's Agriculture Research Service said the greenbug problem coupled with development of resistance by the greenbug to several insecticides in Texas prompted the release of the germ plasm as "quickly as possible."

The primary source of germ plasm materials being released traces back to lines developed at Kansas State University and the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station.

Nordquist crossed these lines to earlier breeding materials in the greenhouse. All the 29 lines are carrying seedling resistance to greenbug that is equal to the original Kansas State and Texas sources of resistance used to develop the lines.

Nordquist said "There are still some questions to be answered about the released lines."

"For example," Nordquist said, "we haven't had a chance to test them as hybrids in quantity in the field.

"But with the severity of the greenbug problem," Nordquist said, "we felt the commercial breeders should have access to these early lines both for making cosses for hybrids and other uses within their breeding programs."

Chadron State Seeks Early Settlers

Chadron (AP) — Chadron State College is looking for pioneers who helped settle Dawes, Sheridan and Sioux counties.

Chadron State President Dr. Edwin C. Nelson has announced plans to record the words and memories of the pioneers of the area. A search will be made to locate survivors of the early days.

"We feel this is an especially fitting project during this bicentennial year," Nelson said.

The college has asked Crawford writer and photographer Ron Speer to interview and photograph the surviving settlers from the three counties. The material gathered will become part of Chadron State's historical records.

Plans call for the materials to be displayed in the proposed Mari Sandoz Center for the Study of Man.

Speer, who grew up in the Sand Hills, moved to Crawford two years ago after working as a newsman for The Associated Press, the Lincoln Star, the Des Moines Register and Tribune and the St. Petersburg (Fla.) Times.

He is the grandson of the late Albert Speer, one of the Sand Hills earliest settlers, and the son of Howard Speer of Hay Springs.

Grand Island, Hastings OK $68 Million Power Plant

By United Press International

The city councils of Grand Island and Hastings have given final approval to an agreement to construct an estimated $68 million 150-megawatt coal-fired power plant to serve the two central Nebraska communities.

Approval by the councils was given Monday after several months were spent ironing out amendments to the agreement which would create the Great Plains Power Agency to administer the joint program.

The location for the plant has yet to be determined, but officials have set 1980 as the construction completion date.

Prior to final approval of the agreement, officials went ahead with various bid proceedings, including those for the plant's turbo generator which has an estimated cost of $7.8 million to $8.8 million.

L. Price Named To Head Tefft Election Committee

Lincoln businessman Larry Price will serve as committee chairman for the "Citizens for Tefft Committee," Larry Tefft, Republican candidate for the Lancaster County commissioners seat in the 1st District, announced Tuesday.

Other officers will be Ross Wilcox, vice president of the Union Bank, as treasurer, and Waverly banker Mort Novak, as finance chairman.

Tefft said that he plans to stress "friendliness, honesty and good business in all government operations," during this bicentennial campaign year.

"The taxpayers, after all, are the customers who pay the bill and therefore they deserve to be treated with respect and in a courteous manner," Tefft said.

Tefft opposes current commissioner Jan Gauger in the May 11 primary.

Farm Editor

March winds were cutting visibility and damaging farm fields in Lancaster County Tuesday causing concern about the 1976 wheat crop.

Winds were clocked up to 50 miles per hour in Lincoln and as high as 47 m.p.h. at Omaha Tuesday afternoon, while temperatures climbed into the 70s and 80s, topped by 81 degrees at McCook.

"I was out looking at the wheat fields. Most of the wheat that came up late last fall is dead. It will be a month or more before we can be sure but I am not very optimistic about our wheat," said Emery Nelsen, Lancaster County agent.

"The wind pulverizes the structures of the soil. This kind of damage reduces the amount of organic matter as well," said Val Bohaty of the Soil Conservation Service.

Bohaty said farmers have been doing an increased amount of fall plowing in recent years. "This year we have some proof that this isn't a good practice. We need to keep as much crop residue on the soil as long as we can," he said.

Bohaty said many younger farmers have never tried to treat land to keep down wind damage.

"I would suggest they contact their county agent or soil technician at their SCS office. Conditions vary so much locally that it isn't possible to make a widespread area recommendation," he said.

Bohaty said many pastures were overgrazed, wheat fields lacked growth due to dry weather and many stalk fields were grazed to the ground during the past winter.

"We are not in very good shape to stand a lot of wind," he warned.

Eastern and northern Nebraska were targets for the strongest winds Tuesday. Gusts as high as 45 m.p.h. were clocked at Norfolk with gusts of 41 m.p.h. at Grand Island.

After blowing from the southwest all day, the winds began switching to the northwest by early Tuesday night in western Nebraska.

Imperial's high for the day was 80 degrees with 76 at Omaha, Grand Island and Scottsbluff. At Lincoln the high was 73 after an overnight low of 36.

A delegation from Nebraska headed by George Kleen, president of the Nebraska Association of Resources Districts, told congress much the same thing in Washington Tuesday.

Kleen described conservation programs "as investments in this nation's future, not expenditures to support the economic well being of farmers and ranchers" in testimony before the Senate agriculture appropriations subcommittee.

Kleen recommended restoration of the Agriculture Conservation Program (ACP) which has been cut from the federal budget by the Ford administration.

Kleen recommended spending a minimum of $175 million for ACP and $30 million for the Great Plains Program.

"These programs are environmental tools which have assisted farmers and ranchers in reducing or preventing pollution from sediments and other associated materials caused by soil erosion," he said.

While Kleen was presenting testimony on water pollution Bohaty was worrying about air pollution. "The dust and dirt hurts air quality as well as the quality of the soil. It is a serious problem," he said.

Bohaty warned that soil moisture in the county has "gone down about 30 inches. There is no subsoil moisture to sustain the crop during the dry weather in July and August."

"The farmers who use good moisture conservation practices will really notice the difference this summer after the spring rains end," he predicted.

No Pay Stoppage Yet For Medical Faculty

By BOB GUENTHER
Star Staff Writer

State Treasurer Frank Marsh said Tuesday he does not plan to withhold the paychecks of any University of Nebraska Medical Center faculty members for failing to file professional fee income reports based on the information he now has.

Marsh said that "may change" depending on any additional information he receives from NU President D. B. Varner or Med Center Chancellor Robert Sparks.

Monday Marsh received information from the State Department of Administrative Services indicating two Med Center doctors received roughly $90,000 in Medicaid fees in 1975.

However, it was pointed out that the figures did not necessarily mean professional fee reports should have been filed by the pair since the Medicaid figures were not broken down according to referred and non-referred patients.

Fee Possibly Funneled

In addition, the fees could have been funneled through the two men to other doctors and hence not really have been income to them.

Under an agreement with the regents, Med Center faculty members are free to earn whatever they can through patients referred to them at the Med Center. This income has been kept confidential.

For non-referred patients, the Med Center faculty members split the fee with the University.

A state law passed in 1974 directs NU faculty members to file annual reports on professional and consulting fee income exceeding $10,000. This year, only two have been filed, neither from the Med Center. Doctors have maintained their agreement with the regents regarding the confidentiality of professional fees supercedes state law.

Gov. J. James Exon Tuesday said the reporting law is of dubious constitutionality, based on an informal discussion with Atty. Gen. Paul Douglas.

This is because, Exon said, the reporting law was enacted as part of a 1974 appropriations bill. Under the constitution, a bill cannot deal with two different subjects.

"You can't put anything in an appropriations bill but appropriations," Exon said. "This has been held by the attorney general to be questionable under the constitution. Yet the Legislature has done it time and time again."

Despite the constitutional cloud surrounding the law, Exon said the Legislature's intent in enacting the reporting law is clear and could be adopted by the NU Board of Regents.

Exon said it would be "a good policy" for the regents to adopt.

Where Time Is Spent

Some feel the professional fees earned by faculty doctors in addition to their state salary should be known to show how much time is spent in classrooms and research labs and how much in their own practices.

All other Big 8 med schools at least require med school faculty members to file professional fee reports.

Marsh said the existing law has some functional flaws. He noted the law directs the treasurer to withhold paychecks of those who earn more than $10,000 in outside fees but do not file reports. There is no means for him to determine who should and should not file reports.

A better means of handling the problem would be to have all file reports indicating they either did or did not earn in excess of $10,000 in professional fees, he said.

Both Marsh and Exon said they have not asked for an attorney general's opinion.

Exon said something along this line may be forthcoming.

Suit Filed To Keep Names Off Ballot

A hearing has been set for 10 a.m. Friday in Lancaster District Court on a suit to keep the names of Edward Kennedy and Hubert Humphrey off the presidential primary ballot.

As promised, the suit was filed by Omahan Tom Kelley, Democratic National Committeeman from Nebraska, to contest the decision of Secretary of State Allen Beerman, a Republican, to add the names to the ballot.

Kelley charged that Beerman was trying to foul up the Democratic presidential primary, a view that apparently is widely shared by the state's Democratic Party leadership.

The hearing on the request for court action to keep the names off the ballot will be before Lancaster District Judge Herbert Ronin.

The suit terms Beerman's action an "unwarranted interference" with the rules and elective process of the Democratic Party.

No Pay Stoppage Yet For Medical Faculty

By BOB GUENTHER
Star Staff Writer

State Treasurer Frank Marsh said Tuesday he does not plan to withhold the paychecks of any University of Nebraska Medical Center faculty members for failing to file professional fee income reports based on the information he now has

Marsh said that ' may change ' depending on any additional information he receives from NU President D B Varner or Med Center Chancellor Robert Sparks

Monday Marsh received information from the State Department of Administrative Services indicating two Med Center doctors received roughly $90,000 in Medicaid fees in 1975

However it was pointed out that the figures did not necessarily mean professional fee reports should have been filed by the pair since the Medicaid figures were not broken down according to referred and non-referred patients

Fee Possibly Funneled

In addition the fees could have been funneled through the two men to other doctors and hence not really have been income to them

Under an agreement with the regents, Med Center faculty members are free to earn whatever they can through patients referred to them at the Med Center This income has been kept confidential

For non-referred patients, the Med Center faculty members split the fee with the University

A state law passed in 1974 directs NU faculty members to file annual reports on professional and consulting fee income exceeding $10 000 This year only two have been filed, neither from the Med Center Doctors have maintained their agreement with the regents regarding the confidentiality of professional fees supercedes state law

Gov J James Exon Tuesday said the reporting law is of dubious constitutionality, based on an informal discussion with Atty Gen Paul Douglas

This is because, Exon said, the reporting law was enacted as part of a 1974 appropriations bill Under the constitution, a bill cannot deal with two different subjects

You can t put anything in an appropriations bill but appropriations Exon said ' This has been held by the attorney general to be questionable under the constitution Yet the Legislature has done it time and time again

Despite the constitutional cloud surrounding the law, Exon said the Legislature s intent in enacting the reporting law is clear and could be adopted by the NU Board of Regents

Exon said it would be a good policy for the regents to adopt

Where Time Is Spent

Some feel the professional fees earned by faculty doctors in addition to their state salary should be known to show how much time is spent in classrooms and research labs and how much in their own practices

All other Big 8 med schools at least require med school faculty members to file professional fee reports

Marsh said the existing law has some functional flaws He noted the law directs the treasurer to withhold paychecks of those who earn more than $10 000 in outside fees but do not file reports There is no means for him to determine who should and should not file reports

A better means of handling the problem would be to have all file reports indicating they either did or did not earn in excess of $10,000 in professional fees he said

Both Marsh and Exon said they have not asked for an attorney general s opinion

Exon said something along this line may be forthcoming

Suit Filed To Keep Names Off Ballot

A hearing has been set for 10 a m Friday in Lancaster District Court on a suit to keep the names of Edward Kennedy and Hubert Humphrey off the presidential primary ballot

As promised the suit was filed by Omahan Tom Kelley, Democratic National Committeeman from Nebraska, to contest the decision of Secretary of State Allen Beerman, a Republican to add the names to the ballot

Kelley charged that Beerman was trying to foul up the Democratic presidential primary a view that apparently is widely shared by the state s Democratic Party leadership

The hearing on the request for court action to keep the names off the ballot will be before Lancaster District Judge Herbert Ronin

Speaker Burbach Draws Up Agenda

By The Associated Press

Speaker Jules Burbach Tuesday produced an agenda for action on bills of "statewide interest" that he hoped would be voted on Wednesday.

Included was the measure governing campaign practices, lobbyist reporting and conflicts of interest, the open government bill proposed as an alternative to the so-called Sunshine initiative.

The Sunshine initiative is designed to let Nebraska voters in a referendum next November decide if they want stronger regulation to insure open government.

Burbach said the nine bills listed must be given first round approval by Wednesday night or they are likely to die for the session due to the time crunch in the closing days.

The open government bill, LB987, will be near the bottom of the agenda and Burbach intended to keep legislators late Wednesday until it was acted upon.

Others on the list:

LB821, the safe drinking water bill; LB986, to allocate state Capitol space; LB182, on campaign finance reporting; LB779 on fish and wildlife water areas; LB863, to raise the gasoline tax; LB799, to give the legislative fiscal analyst performance audit powers; LB332, pesticide use legislation; LB781, to require photographs on drivers licenses.

In addition, Burbach listed four minor appropriations bills that need to advance and four bills that were held earlier in the legislative session for work before the logjam.

Study Of Legal Aspects Of Right To Die Proposed

Sen. Roland Luedtke Tuesday introduced a resolution in the Nebraska Legislature calling for an interim study on the legal dilemma over the right to die with dignity.

Luedtke, chairman of the Judiciary Committee, said it is "absolutely essential some sort of legislation be passed to permit doctors and hospitals to act if someone becomes a vegetable and is legally dead."

The Lincoln attorney said he is concerned about defining legal death. Dr. Warren Bosley of Grand Island, however, said coming up with such a definition would not be simple because of emotional issues. Bosley is president of the Nebraska Medical Association.

He said he is not sure he favors legislation defining death, since it might result in a general rule hard to apply in specific cases.

Luedtke's resolution calls for the Judiciary Committee to report to the Legislature next year with recommendations for possible legislation.

State Aid Suit Threatened If Boost Nixed

Sen. Gerald Koch of Ralston said Tuesday he will file a lawsuit challenging Nebraska's state aid to local schools program unless a revived proposal to increase the aid program becomes law.

Monday, it appeared the school aid increase issue was dead after lawmakers rejected 25-23 an amendment to LB691 offered by Sen. Myron Rumery of North Platte to add $15 million to the current $55 million-a-year aid program.

Koch said then that he would bring back to life a suit filed two years ago by the Papillion School District challenging the aid program as unconstitutional. The suit was allowed to sink quietly after the Unicameral approved an increase over the aid program in effect at that time.

Tuesday, on a motion by Bellwood Sen. Loran Schmit, lawmakers changed their minds and voted 26-17 to adopt the Rumery amendment.

But Koch said unless that amendment becomes law, even if Gov. J. James Exon vetoes the increase, he will go ahead with his lawsuit, which he plans to pattern after successful school aid suits in California and Texas.

Varner Defends NU Salaries

By United Press International

University of Nebraska President D. B. Varner, while defending the $31,000 a year paid to the university's chief lobbyist, Tuesday said he was not surprised the majority of those state employes receiving more than $20,000 draw NU paychecks.

"I am not in any way surprised to find this distinction in salaries," Varner said in an interview. "The university does have, one must realize, a large collection of highly trained people."

Monday, UPI released figures showing the university has 10,000 of the total 25,000 full-time state employes and has about 70% of those making more than $20,000 a year on its payroll.

Also released by the state department of administrative services was a tabulation of individual agency director salaries which included a comparison with salaries paid NU lobbyists.

William Swanson, who is the chief lobbyist for the university, was fifth highest at $31,000 a year.

Varner said Swanson is more than a lobbyist and is more than entitled to his salary. He said Swanson also acts as NU board of regents secretary and as Varner's chief administrative assistant, a position once separate from the lobbying and board secretary jobs.

The Exon administration released the salary information noting Swanson was not subject to salary increase limitations imposed on other state employes, including agency heads. Gov. J. James Exon took special note of that exclusion by challenging Swanson's $3,000 increase over last year.

Exon noted the College of Business Administration, according to some NU officials, may have accreditation problems. He also said he understood the university this year split $500 in merit pay among 60 faculty members in that college.

"If the university administration, and the regents, were doing their job they would have done something more than that to try and address the accreditation problem," the governor said, adding "they could have used that $3,000 lobbyist pay increase."

State Home Panel Funds Killed

By The Associated Press

The legislature Tuesday made a stab at the heart of the Beatrice State Home settlement, but officials were not sure if the wound would be fatal.

On a motion by Adams Sen. George Burrows, the Legislature voted 28-5 to delete $29,888 from an appropriation bill to pay the advisory panel set up by the out-of-court settlement in the case.

Under the settlement, the panel was to set guidelines to decide which patients would be kept at the home and which would be moved to community-based mental retardation programs.

The panel members were to be paid $200 per diem for the days they spent at work. They were also to receive expense money.

Atty. Gen. Paul Douglas said it was a "pretty fair assumption" that the panel would not serve without pay, but he said another panel could be created if volunteers could be found. Douglas said a Monday meeting had been called with U.S. District Judge Albert Schatz to discuss the settlement. He said the legislative action would be considered at the meeting.

Gov. J. James Exon asked the Legislature to reconsider its action, but Burrows said he had the votes to maintain the cut.

The money would have covered the operation of the panel during the current fiscal year. Burrows put a kill motion on a pending bill, LB985, which would appropriate $49,000 for operation of the panel during the coming fiscal year.

The motion was successful on a vote of 22-13.

Good Nutrition is our business too . . .

Nutrition labeling has become a fact since the FDA regulations were first implemented in March 1973. Many manufacturers of food products are making this important information available on the label of their products. It offers you a new opportunity to become aware of the importance of good nutrition and how the labels can help. So far, nutritional science cannot provide all the answers but we do know the bold fact of the nutritional label is the first step. However, it is important to recognize that nutrition labeling does have limits. Meaningful nutrition education can help make these facts come to life.

The concept behind nutritional labels stands as a positive step. It represents a commitment toward the principle that you—the consumer—do have a right to know about the products you buy. It represents recognition that industry has a responsibility to learn more about the products it offers in the marketplace. It represents a confidence that you who are concerned about your health are willing to learn to understand and to use the information the nutrition label can provide. Watch for it.

'Topless Dancing Legal'

After a Monday night visit to B. J.'s Hideaway, 5100 N. 48th, Lancaster County Attorney Ron Lahners said the topless dancing there apparently is lawful.

There is a possibility, however, that the dancing might be in violation of the bar's liquor license, issued by the Lancaster County Board, Lahners said.

The bar, at 5100 N. 48th, has featured topless entertainment since it was opened about six weeks ago by Bruce Houge, a former Lincoln policeman and football player for the University of Nebraska-Lincoln.

According to Bruce Hamilton, chairman of the Lancaster County Board, no complaints have been made about the club, although public response to the bar's annual license renewal was sought through newspaper legal notices earlier this month... Hamilton said written complaints could result in a public hearing on whether the bar should be allowed to retain its liquor license.

Lahners said he does not know at this time precisely what action might be taken in regard to the bar's liquor license.

Although voicing fears that his presence may have dampened enthusiasm at the club, Lahners said he was impressed by the orderliness of the approximately 50 patrons in the bar when he visited it between 9:30 and 11 p.m.

Youth Wins B. Crocker Scholarship

Robert C. Dinsdale, 18, a senior at Lincoln East High School, has been named Nebraska's Betty Crocker Family Leader of Tomorrow for 1976.

The award was announced by General Mills, sponsor of the annual Search for Leadership in Family Living, a national educational-scholarship program.

Dinsdale, son of Dr. and Mrs. Howard A. Dinsdale, 1621 Devoe Drive, won a $1,500 college scholarship in competition with 9,074 seniors in 351 Nebraska high schools on a written knowledge and attitude test.

He is now eligible to win a $5,000 scholarship in the national competition in April.

Dinsdale is the Lincoln East senior class president, co-principal French horn player in the Lincoln Youth Symphony and a National Merit scholarship semi-finalist. He plans a premedicine course at Baylor University.

Woman Breaks Leg In Mishap

Ellen Wise, 77, was listed in good condition at Lincoln General Hospital Tuesday after she was struck by a car Monday.

According to police reports the woman was crossing Calvert between 46th and 47th streets when she was struck by a westbound car driven by Daniel Tedrick, 19, of 3700 Worthington.

Wise, of 4825 Pioneer, suffered a broken left leg, according to police.

Convicted Embezzler Maintains Innocence

By GORDON WINTERS
Star Staff Writer

Continuing to deny that he stole any money, Darrell Blank Tuesday was sentenced to one to three years in the Nebraska Penal Complex.

Blank, 42, was convicted in late January of embezzling more than $5,054.78 while he was chief of the motor vehicle division of the Lancaster County Treasurer's Office.

In making the ruling Lancaster District Judge Herbert Ronin said, "To me it was shocking to listen to you testify to the manipulation and falsification of records entrusted to you."

Blank interrupted, "I objected to the manipulation."

Ronin, apparently taken aback, responded, "Well . . ."

"I'm sorry, sir," Blank said.

The judge continued, "It was particularly offensive to those who believe in the integrity of the trust which you held . . . These are public monies."

Blank had maintained throughout the week-long trial that he merely had been covering since 1970 a shortage that occurred in the real estate department of the treasurer's office.

Commenting to Ronin before the sentence was imposed, Deputy Lancaster County Defender Richard Goos said, "Darrell has always denied and today still denies that he took any money."

Goos said Blank did not want to be placed on probation because he felt restitution of the missing money would be a condition of probation and "his feeling is that he should not pay back something he never took."

By its verdict the jury that heard the case discounted Blank's testimony. However, the jury did not convict Blank of embezzling the entire $7,407 auditors said was missing.

The sum named by the jury was $5,054.78. Auditors testified they could not determine when or how the remaining $2,352.22 disappeared.

Commenting on the presentence investigation ordered in the case, Ronin said it showed that Blank drank excessively.

"As I understand it, you still have the habit," Ronin said. "To me this has been tragic in your instance." As Ronin spoke, Blank responded occasionally with a soft, "yes sir."

Ronin added, "You did work hard in your particular department." Blank had worked there for 19 years.

The one- to three-year sentence imposed by Ronin means that with good behaviour, Blank will be eligible for parole from the panel complex after 10 months of imprisonment.

Good Nutrition is our business too . . .

Nutrition labeling has become a fact since the FDA regulations were first implemented in March 1973. Many manufacturers of food products are making this important information available on the label of their products. It offers you a new opportunity to become aware of the importance of good nutrition and how the labels can help. So far, nutritional science cannot give us all the answers but we do know the bold fact of the nutritional label is the first step. However, it is important to recognize that nutrition labeling does have limits. Meaningful nutrition education can help make these facts come to life.

The concept behind nutritional labels stands as a positive step. It represents a commitment toward the principle that you — the consumer — do have a right to know about the products you buy. It represents recognition that industry has a responsibility to learn more about the products it offers in the marketplace. It represents a confidence that you who are concerned about your health are willing to learn to understand and to use the information the nutrition label can provide. Watch for it.

Prescott Schedule Change Delayed

By J.L. SCHMIDT
Star Staff Writer

Prescott School officials asked the Lincoln Public Schools Board of Education for a change in the school schedule Tuesday night, but the board delayed any decision on the change.

Students and teachers at Prescott School, 1930 S. 20th, would stand to benefit from a proposed change in school hours Principal Jack Ernst told the board.

Students would have one short day of classes per week and teachers would have one long, uninterrupted planning session to develop the team teaching approach and cope with as many as "500 decisions" a week, Ernst explained.

The current dismissal time at Prescott is 2:50 p.m., Ernst said, but would be changed to 3:10 four days a week and 1:30 p.m. on the day used for the necessary planning sessions. The longer days would compensate for any time lost from short day and would give students the same amount of in-class time as now, he added.

The proposal has met with initial approval of the student's parents, Ernst said. Survey results showed 224 of 337 responses in favor, 82 against and 11 having no opinion.

In addition, the staff has expressed "overwhelming approval of the plan," he said.

Superintendent John Prasch, when asked his opinion of the proposals, issued a "very reluctant no, at this time." He added that his major reasons was not because he objected to the concept, but the timing.

While saying that he is, in general, in favor of autonomy for the individual schools in the system, he noted "city-wide reaction" to the amount of time that children, "especially on the secondary level," spend on the streets right now.

"We have other things we should look to first," Prasch said, adding that the board might be obligated to "change the entire policy rather than make exceptions to the rules."

Board president Lou Roper said he was "reluctant to shoot down a good proposal," but added "if we vote on this tonight, we'll kill it."

Board members agreed and supported a motion to table the matter until the first meeting in May so a study of the suggested alternatives could be completed.

In other action, the board approved a May 23 dedication date for the new Ruth Hill Elementary School on Tipperary Trail in Southwood.

Also approved was a change in the special wording of diplomas for handicapped students. Prasch noted that the wording on the diplomas wasn't important, "It's the transcript of grades that counts."

Ron Brandt, associate superintendent for instruction, gave the board a report on the results of a study of the Extended Day Kindergarten classes. The project is an outgrowth of the Head Start classes which were found to be effective only if some amount of follow-up work was done, Brandt said.

The meeting followed a tour of the new addition at Northeast High School and was held in one of two new music rooms in that facility.

Zorinsky Backed By Mahoney

Omaha Sen. Eugene Mahoney Tuesday endorsed Omaha Mayor Edward Zorinsky for the Democratic nomination for the U.S. Senate.

Answering questions on an ETV program aired Tuesday night, Mahoney said Zorinsky had been a friend since boyhood and consequently, "It's natural that I will vote for him."

At the time Zorinsky was considering switching his party affiliation from Republican to Democrat and jumping into the Senate race, "I urged him not to run," Mahoney said. Zorinsky will face Hess Dyas, former state Democratic party chairman, in the May 11 primary.

He said John Y. McCollister, who is favored to win the Republican nomination for that office, "can be beaten."

Despite McCollister's efforts to dissassociate himself from retiring Sen. Roman Hruska, Mahoney said McCollister is "part and parcel of Hruska and Curtis."

He also predicted that state Sen. John Cavanaugh will win the Second Congressional District race for the U.S. House of Representatives. That seat is now held by McCollister.

McCollister has defeated Democratic contenders in his last three congressional races, Mahoney said, because the Democratic party failed to nominate candidates who would fight as hard as they should.

On the subject of the presidential race, Mahoney, a delegate candidate committed to Sen. Henry Jackson, D-Wash., said if former Georgia Gov. Jimmy Carter is the Democratic nominee, President Gerald Ford would remain in office.

'Topless Dancing Legal'

After a Monday night visit to B J s Hideaway 5100 N 48th, Lancaster County Attorney Ron Lahners said the topless dancing there apparently is lawful

There is a possibility however that the dancing might be in violation of the bar s liquor license issued by the Lancaster County Board Lahners said

The bar at 5100 N 48th has featured topless entertainment since it was opened about six weeks ago by Bruce Houge a former Lincoln policeman and football player for the University of Nebraska Lincoln

According to Bruce Hamilton chairman of the Lancaster County Board no complaints have been made about the club although public response to the bar s annual license renewal was sought through newspaper legal notices earlier this month Hamilton said written complaints could result in a public hearing on whether the bar should be allowed to retain its liquor license

Lahners said he does not know at this time precisely what action might be taken in regard to the bar s liquor license

Although voicing fears that his presence may have dampened enthusiasm at the club, Lahners said he was impressed by the orderliness of the approximately 50 patrons in the bar when he visited it between 9 30 and 11 p m

Convicted Embezzler Maintains Innocence

By GORDON WINTERS
Star Staff Writer

Continuing to deny that he stole any money, Darrell Blank Tuesday was sentenced to one to three years in the Nebraska Penal Complex

Blank, 42, was convicted in late January of embezzling more than $5,054 78 while he was chief of the motor vehicle division of the Lancaster County Treasurer s Office

In making the ruling Lancaster District Judge Herbert Ronin said To me it was shocking to listen to you testify to the manipulation and falsification of records entrusted to you "

Blank interrupted, "I objected to the manipulation '

Ronin apparently taken aback responded Well

I m sorry sir Blank said

The judge continued, ' It was particularly offensive to those who believe in the integrity of the trust which you held These are public monies

Blank had maintained throughout the week long trial that he merely had been covering since 1970 a shortage that occurred in the real estate department of the treasurer s office

Commenting to Ronin before the sentence was imposed, Deputy Lancaster County Defender Richard Goos said Darrell has always denied and today still denies that he took any money

Goos said Blank did not want to be placed on probation because he felt restitution of the missing money would be a condition of probation and "his feeling is that he should not pay back something he never took

By its verdict the jury that heard the case discounted Blank s testimony However, the jury did not convict Blank of embezzling the entire $7 407 auditors said was missing

The sum named by the jury was $5 054 78 Auditors testified they could not determine when or how the remaining $2,352 22 disappeared

Commenting on the presentence investigation ordered in the case Ronin said it showed that Blank drank excessively

As I understand it, you still have the habit, ' Ronin said To me this has been tragic in your instance As Ronin spoke, Blank responded occasionally with a soft yes sir

Ronin added You did work hard in your particular department Blank had worked there for 19 years

The one to three-year sentence imposed by Ronin means that with good behaviour, Blank will be eligible for parole from the panel complex after 10 months of imprisonment

Emergency Coverage

I recently found out that Blue Cross-Blue Shield will not pay for expenses involved in an emergency 911 call. Why not?

—Mrs. L. J. Pedersen, Lincoln

ACTION LINE: Margie Wright, director of the customer service center in the Omaha office of Blue Cross-Blue Shield, explains that some policies do cover medical emergencies, but only those handled in out-patient departments of local hospitals. She said that was the way the policies were written. Mrs. Wright added that emergency medical services through 911 are not covered under this clause.

Blanket Sale

During the first week of January, when the White Sales were on, I bought a dual control queen size electric blanket at the Miller and Paine store at the Conestoga Mall in Grand Island. At the time they didn't have the pink color I wanted, so they called the Lincoln store and were told there was one that would be sent to me. Some time later I received a letter from the Grand Island store saying they were sorry, but they hadn't received the blanket from Lincoln and that they could order one, but I couldn't get it at the sale price. What can I do?

—Mrs. Leroy Hultquist, Minden

ACTION LINE: A spokesman from the Lincoln Miller & Paine store said they will contact you directly about the problem with your blanket.

Storm Damage

ACTION TIP: Everybody hopes they won't have to return to a storm damaged home. But living in an area where an average of 30 tornadoes are expected to hit each year, there is the possibility that damage could occur. The Dept. of Housing and Urban Development has prepared a booklet explaining safety precautions and advice on how to repair or fix, rain, mud, or wind damaged homes and furnishings. Braniff Fined $300,000 For Hiding Gift, Rebates

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Civil Aeronautics Board on Tuesday fined Braniff International Airways a record $300,000 for juggling its books to hide an illegal contribution made to the re-election campaign of former President Richard M. Nixon in 1972 and to hide rebates the airline paid to travel agents in South America.

The board also announced that Braniff, which consented to the record fine, also had agreed to the CAB's decision to seek a federal court injunction that would prohibit the airline and its employes from taking similar actions in the future.

Braniff acknowledged during the board's investigation that it sold airline tickets with a face value of more than $1 million in order to generate "off the books" cash that could be used for rebates and for paying excessive commissions to travel agents.

Braniff is the second airline to be fined by the CAB for such activities. American Airlines was fined $150,000 last year for using similar accounting practices to hide contributions made to Nixon and to other political candidates.

Oil Magnate Gets Probation, Fine

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Oil magnate Dr. Armand Hammer was sentenced to a year's probation and fined $3,000 Tuesday for his part in making $54,000 in illegal 1972 campaign contributions to former President Richard M. Nixon.

The 77-year-old founder and board chairman of Occidental Petroleum Corp. appeared in a wheel chair and told the court:

"I greatly regret my actions. For all of my life, I have tried to lead a useful life. I trust in the time that may be left me, your honor will allow me to continue being a useful member of society."

U.S. District Court Judge Lawrence T. Lydick could have additionally sentenced the multimillionaire industrialist to three years in prison.

Prescott Schedule Change Delayed

By J.L. SCHMIDT
Star Staff Writer

Prescott School officials asked the Lincoln Public Schools Board of Education for a change in the school schedule Tuesday night, but the board delayed any decision on the change.

Students and teachers at Prescott School, 1930 S. 20th, would stand to benefit from a proposed change in school hours Principal Jack Ernst told the board.

Students would have one short day of classes per week and teachers would have one long, uninterrupted planning session to develop the team teaching approach and cope with as many as "500 decisions" a week, Ernst explained.

The current dismissal time at Prescott is 2:50 p.m., Ernst said, but would be changed to 3:10 four days a week and 1:30 p.m. on the day used for the necessary planning sessions. The longer days would compensate for any time lost from short day and would give students the same amount of in-class time as now, he added.

The proposal has met with initial approval of the student's parents, Ernst said. Survey results showed 224 of 337 responses in favor, 82 against and 11 having no opinion.

In addition, the staff has expressed "overwhelming approval of the plan," he said.

Superintendent John Prasch, when asked his opinion of the proposals, issued a "very reluctant no, at this time." He added that his major reasons was not because he objected to the concept, but the timing.

While saying that he is, in general, in favor of autonomy for the individual schools in the system, he noted "city-wide reaction" to the amount of time that children, "especially on the secondary level," spend on the streets right now.

"We have other things we should look to first," Prasch said, adding that the board might be obligated to "change the entire policy rather than make exceptions to the rules."

Board president Lou Roper said he was "reluctant to shoot down a good proposal," but added "if we vote on this tonight, we'll kill it."

Board members agreed and supported a motion to table the matter until the first meeting in May so a study of the suggested alternatives could be completed.

In other action, the board approved a May 23 dedication date for the new Ruth Hill Elementary School on Tipperary Trail in Southwood.

Also approved was a change in the special wording of diplomas for handicapped students. Prasch noted that the wording on the diplomas wasn't important. "It's the transcript of grades that counts."

Ron Brandt, associate superintendent for instruction, gave the board a report on the results of a study of the Extended Day Kindergarten classes. The project is an outgrowth of the Head Start classes which were found to be effective only if some amount of follow-up work was done, Brandt said.

The meeting followed a tour of the new addition at Northeast High School and was held in one of two new music rooms in that facility.

Zorinsky Backed By Mahoney

Omaha Sen. Eugene Mahoney Tuesday endorsed Omaha Mayor Edward Zorinsky for the Democratic nomination for the U.S. Senate.

Answering questions on an ETV program aired Tuesday night, Mahoney said Zorinsky had been a friend since boyhood and consequently, "It's natural that I will vote for him."

At the time Zorinsky was considering switching his party affiliation from Republican to Democrat and jumping into the Senate race, "I urged him not to run," Mahoney said. Zorinsky will face Hess Dyas, former state Democratic party chairman, in the May 11 primary.

He said John Y. McCollister, who is favored to win the Republican nomination for that office, "can be beaten."

Despite McCollister's efforts to dissassociate himself from retiring Sen. Roman Hruska, Mahoney said McCollister is "part and parcel of Hruska and Curtis."

He also predicted that state Sen. John Cavanaugh will win the Second Congressional District race for the U.S. House of Representatives. That seat is now held by McCollister.

McCollister has defeated Democratic contenders in his last three congressional races, Mahoney said, because the Democratic party failed to nominate candidates who would fight as hard as they should.

On the subject of the presidential race, Mahoney, a delegate candidate committed to Sen. Henry Jackson, D-Wash., said if former Georgia Gov. Jimmy Carter is the Democratic nominee, President Gerald Ford would remain in office.

POSTCARD

by Stan Delaplane

San Francisco — Still waiting for rain under skies as blue as a kitten's eyes. When they mention "sunny California," the Visitors Bureaus don't tell you that the state is waterless nine months of the year. Sometimes more.

My great grandfather arrived on Webber Creek in September, 1850. He had crossed the Great Plains. Seen oxen die in the 40-mile desert — "the tug of war" — where the wagons crossed from the Humboldt to the Carson.

But California appalled him. "The country is bare and brown," he wrote in his diary. "There is nothing green in the whole land except thousands of newly arrived gold miners."

We could try Tlaloc. He brought rain to the Aztecs and is probably still in good working order outside the great museum in Mexico City.

☆ ☆ ☆

I first saw Tlaloc on a rainy night in Mexico. He was being hauled from the village of Coatlinchan where he'd sat stonily — 167 tons — through the centuries.

He was moved on a specially built road. On a specially built trailer-truck. Hoisted from his sandy seat by specially built steel scaffolding.

In this holy moment — with Aztec gods raging — advertising people put a huge sign on the side of the truck: "Goodrich Tires."

So Tlaloc moved through the streets of Mexico, carrying the message of steel belted radials.

☆ ☆ ☆

Once Mexico City — Tenochtitlan of the Aztecs — was surrounded by lakes. And that night it looked like the lakes might come back again.

In Dario Borzani's swank Rivoli, the lights flickered and waiters stood by with candles.

I put my head out the door and rain and wind swept the dining room.

Cars were stalled. Taxi drivers abandoned their cabs and holed up in cantinas with a reassuring tequila.

In suburban Tacubaya, a retaining wall fell into the street. The Sears Roebuck building in the capital was up to the first floor in flood water.

That's what a stony Aztec rain god can do without half trying.

In the dry summers, great-grandfather and his friends dug down to bed rock and threw up piles of gravel to wash when the winter rains came again. Few rivers ran enough water to wash out a pan.

"Since I was out of money until we could see what we could pan out, I got a job on Dayley's ranch cutting hay. The pay was good — $6 a day. At the end of the week, I found he was charging me $5 a day for board. So I quit."

Not all the gold was found on the banks of the American River.

Rain comes down the coast from Alaska, diminishing as the mountains milk the clouds. In Marin County, home of astrologers and gurus, we get 45 inches in the year.

By the time the squeezed clouds get to San Francisco, two miles across the bay, the city only gets 22 inches.

The tail end at Los Angeles gets eight inches. But that garden city learned long ago that they could boldly take water from the Owens Valley and the Colorado River which is mostly in Arizona.

This keeps the swimming pools of Beverly Hills full. And enough left over for chasers of the local rifle whiskey.

Grass Fires Keep Firemen Busy Tuesday

Grass fires kept Lincoln city and rural firemen busy Tuesday afternoon.

Units from the Southwest Rural Fire District were called to a blaze near railroad tracks at SW 47th and A Streets shortly before 3 p.m. As the fire spread rapidly through dry grass, officials on the scene called for additional help and units from the Southeast RFD responded.

Fire units had railroad tracks blocked for more than an hour during the height of the blaze. The area burned was bordered by Van Dorn and A on the south and north and SW 47 and the tracks on the east and west, firemen said.

Fire units from Ceresco battled a grass fire south of town near Highway 77 shortly after 3 p.m., officials said.

Braniff Fined $300,000 For Hiding Gift, Rebates

WASHINGTON AP — The Civil Aeronautics Board on Tuesday fined Braniff International Airways a record $300,000 for juggling its books to hide an illegal contribution made to the re-election campaign of former President Richard M Nixon in 1972 and to hide rebates the airline paid to travel agents in South America

The board also announced that Braniff which consented to the record fine also had agreed to the CAB s decision to seek a federal court injunction that would prohibit the airline and its employes from taking similar actions in the future

Braniff acknowledged during the board s investigation that it sold airline tickets with a face value of more than $1 million in order to generate off the books cash that could be used for rebates and for paying excessive commissions to travel agents

Braniff is the second airline to be fined by the CAB for such activities American Airlines was fined $150 000 last year for using similar accounting practices to hide contributions made to Nixon and to other political candidates

To Your Good Health:

Flatulence May Be Caused By Age, Eating Habits, Disease

By George C. Thosteson, M.D.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I would appreciate your discussing the possible causes of flatulence. With me it occurs in the later afternoon, before and after our evening meal. I am in good health. — Mrs. A. R.

That's a tall order.

For the sake of discussion, I can list four general causes. When you put them all together, the result can be a veritable symphony of distress and embarrassment.

They are age, eating habits, diet, and disease, but not necessarily in that order of importance.

Age. Oldsters tend to produce less digestive juices and enzymes, and this causes a slackening of stomach activity. As a result, food remains only partially digested, allowing a build-up of gas which is eventually propelled through the bowel.

Eating habits. Two thirds of all gas problems are related to air-swallowing. This air similarly finds its way through the gut, following the path of least resistance. People who talk excitedly during meals may encounter this. One study of flatulence revealed that the contents of expelled gas include nitrogen, oxygen, methane, carbon dioxide, and hydrogen. Outside air contains only oxygen and nitrogen. Nitrogen is a major constituent of expelled gas, or flatulence.

Diet. Pork and beans is a notable example. Other foods that can cause trouble include vegetables such as cabbage and broccoli, onions, carbonated drinks, highly fermented cheeses, sugary desserts, and some fruits. Also, smoking before meals.

Disease. This can include gall bladder disease, peptic ulcers, or colon disturbances such as colitis or diverticulosis.

I could add a fifth category — anxiety, which can affect the pace of eating and thus the efficiency of the stomach and the lower digestive tract.

What to do about it? Eat a balanced diet, eat slowly, chew with your lips closed, do not smoke before meals, avoid an excess of the foods I have listed above, especially at lunch (in your specific case), and try to have a bowel movement in the early afternoon.

If none of this helps, then you should be checked for any of the possible physical problems I've mentioned above.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: What would cause me to itch on my arms, stomach and legs? I get welts where it itches. Often, it goes away for a week or two, then returns. — Mrs. C. R. C.

Angioedema (angioneurotic edema) — which is a form of hives — often behaves this way, is usually caused by an allergy. With some folks food is the most common offender. A drug can also set it off. Foods to watch out for as possible causes are shellfish, nuts, eggs, meat, milk, and onions.

The sensitizing agent may lurk in the gastrointestinal tract, and sometimes a simple cathartic may hasten its removal. An antihistamine can give some relief also.

But any medication beyond this should be avoided for a trial period, since there is a whole catalogue of medicines which have been at one time or another the primary cause of the reaction. Meanwhile, try to avoid scratching.

Instead, apply a soothing lotion such as a calamine preparation. Keep a food diary to try to trace the particular food that may be prompting the periodic attacks. You should avoid stressful situations, since, as the name implies, the problem can be related to your nerves.

HEALTH TIP

FROM THE NEBRASKA MEDICAL ASSOCIATION

Mononucleosis, often called Mono, frequently affects teenagers and young adults, according to the Nebraska Medical Association.

Mono is also called the "kissing disease". Physicians observed 20 years ago that the disease was spread primarily by prolonged, passionate kissing, though a few cases have been spread by communal use of drinking utensils, and a few cases following blood transfusions.

Mono is a benign disease. Among millions of cases, only a few rare fatalities have occurred. However, it is highly unpleasant, producing weakness, dizziness, fever, aching joints, swollen glands, skin rash and mental depression.

Mono never causes permanent damage and almost never produces prolonged convalescence. Most patients are back in perfect health within two or three weeks. Mono can neither be prevented or cured. The mainstay of treatment is rest, fluids and mild pain relievers.

By the time the squeezed clouds get to San Francisco, 15 miles across the bay, the city only gets 22 inches.

The tail end at Los Angeles gets eight inches. But the garden city learned long ago that they could haul lake water from the Owens Valley and the Colorado River which is mostly in Arizona.

This keeps the swimming pools of Beverly Hills full. And enough left over for chasers to the local rifle whiskey.

Grass Fires Keep Firemen Busy Tuesday

Grass fires kept Lincoln city and rural firemen busy Tuesday afternoon.

Units from the Southwest Rural Fire District were called to a blaze near railroad tracks at SW 47th and A Streets shortly before 3 p.m. As the fire spread rapidly through dry grass fields, men on the scene called for additional help and units from the Southeast RFD responded.

Fire units had railroad tracks blocked for more than an hour during the height of the blaze. The area burned was bordered by Van Dorn and A on the south and north and SW 47 and the tracks on the east and west, firemen said.

Fire units from Ceresco battled a grass fire south of town near Highway 77 shortly after 3 p.m., officials said.

To Your Good Health:

Flatulence May Be Caused By Age, Eating Habits, Disease

By George C. Thosteson, M.D.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I would appreciate your discussing the possible causes of flatulence. With me it occurs in the later afternoon, before and after our evening meal. I am in good health. — Mrs. A. R.

That's a tall order.

For the sake of discussion, I can list four general causes. When you put them all together, the result can be a veritable symphony of distress and embarrassment.

They are age, eating habits, diet, and disease, but not necessarily in that order of importance.

Age. Oldsters tend to produce less digestive juices and enzymes, and this causes a slackening of stomach activity. As a result, food remains only partially digested, allowing a build-up of gas which is eventually propelled through the bowel.

Eating habits. Two thirds of all gas problems are related to air-swallowing. This air similarly finds its way through the gut, following the path of least resistance. People who talk excitedly during meals may encounter this. One study of flatulence revealed that the contents of expelled gas include nitrogen, oxygen, methane, carbon dioxide, and hydrogen. Outside air contains only oxygen and nitrogen. Nitrogen is a major constituent of expelled gas, or flatulence.

Diet. Pork and beans is a notable example. Other foods that can cause trouble include vegetables such as cabbage and broccoli, onions, carbonated drinks, highly fermented cheeses, sugary desserts, and some fruits. Also, smoking before meals.

Disease. This can include gall bladder disease, peptic ulcers, or colon disturbances such as colitis or diverticulosis.

I could add a fifth category — anxiety, which can affect the pace of eating and thus the efficiency of the stomach and the lower digestive tract.

What to do about it? Eat a balanced diet, eat slowly, chew with your lips closed, do not smoke before meals, avoid an excess of the foods I have listed above, especially at lunch (in your specific case), and try to have a bowel movement in the early afternoon.

If none of this helps, then you should be checked for any of the possible physical problems I've mentioned above.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: What would cause me to itch on my arms, stomach and legs? I get welts where it itches. Often, it goes away for a week or two, then returns. — Mrs. C. R. C.

Angioedema (angioneurotic edema) — which is a form of hives — often behaves this way, is usually caused by an allergy. With some folks food is the most common offender. A drug can also set it off. Foods to watch out for as possible causes are shellfish, nuts, eggs, meat, milk, and onions.

The sensitizing agent may lurk in the gastrointestinal tract, and sometimes a simple cathartic may hasten its removal. An antihistamine can give some relief also.

But any medication beyond this should be avoided for a trial period, since there is a whole catalogue of medicines which have been at one time or another the primary cause of the reaction. Meanwhile, try to avoid scratching.

Instead, apply a soothing lotion such as a calamine preparation. Keep a food diary to try to trace the particular food that may be prompting the periodic attacks. You should avoid stressful situations, since, as the name implies, the problem can be related to your nerves.

HEALTH TIP

FROM THE NEBRASKA MEDICAL ASSOCIATION

Mononucleosis, often called Mono, frequently affects teenagers and young adults, according to the Nebraska Medical Association.

Mono is also called the "kissing disease". Physicians observed 20 years ago that the disease was spread primarily by prolonged, passionate kissing, though a few cases have been spread by communal use of drinking utensils, and a few cases following blood transfusions.

Mono is a benign disease. Among millions of cases, only a few rare fatalities have occurred. However, it is highly unpleasant, producing weakness, dizziness, fever, aching joints, swollen glands, skin rash and mental depression.

Mono never causes permanent damage and almost never produces prolonged convalescence. Most patients are back in perfect health within two or three weeks. Mono can neither be prevented or cured. The mainstay of treatment is rest, fluids and mild pain relievers.

BROUGHTON . . . working with images.

Broughton: Poetry In Motion

By J. L. SCHMIDT
Star Staff Writer

The oldest living avant-garde filmmaker in the United States has no ambition to make it big.

"I don't want to get into business, spending $75,000 a day making money, worrying about the boss firing me," said James Broughton, a visiting filmmaker at the Sheldon Film Theater on the UNL campus the past week.

Broughton, who claims to live a poetic life, is also one of few poets who are making films. He finds the two mediums complementary because "Films are made with images, just like poems."

"But, because of the nature of the media, there are certain things you can't do with film," he laments, noting that subtleties are hard to convey.

'Born A Poet'

The California native was "born a poet." He was a part of the first postwar wave of filmmaking in 1946 and worked actively with other independents until 1954.

"I had no more to say with film, so I went back to the stage and my poetry," he added.

Broughton went to Europe and when he came back to California he found that poets (the likes of Korso and Ginsberg) were all the rage, so he took up his pen again. His second fling at film began in 1967 and a commission from the Royal Belgian Film Archives in 1968 got things rolling when he produced "The Bed," a color feature based on the bed.

Stretching some Shakespeare, he said, "All the world's a bed . . ."

He boasts a movie every year since then and is presently working on one titled "Unclassifiable Wonders," made possible through a grant from the National Endowment for the Arts.

Important Setting

Of his re-entry into movies with "The Bed," Broughton notes that he has "been obsessed for years with the idea of the bed as a stage. Everything from birth to death, sex to dreaming and prayer to infidelity happens in bed," he noted.

Broughton teaches at two part-time jobs. "You don't get tenure, but you don't have to go to all those meetings either," he noted.

He narrates some of his movies, but doesn't, in a modest moment, admit to actively appearing in any of them. His appearance in "The Bed" was "an accident," he explained.

Deal With Cameraman

"The cameraman handed me a snake and said that I should get in bed with it. He promised to do his great leap if I'd oblige him with the snake," he said.

Broughton filmed the cameraman's nude leap over the bed, a feature of the film, as part of the deal.

Improvisation plays a great role in the Broughton films, as the bearded master says, "I like to film outdoors. One doesn't have to mess with lighting, and, besides, it's a great way to get out of the house."

The Mill Valley, Calif., surroundings are a magnificent backdrop for most of his films as he utilizes "the natural beauties that most of us overlook every day."

A trip to England brought about the filming of "Pleasure Garden," a movie which plays on the eye appeal of the ruins of the castle that the Duke of Wellington left behind.

Broughton says that "The only reason I go through the agony of filmmaking is that I want to see something that doesn't exist, on the screen."

Atmosphere Difficult

And, he adds, "That's hard to do with such a realistic medium. The camera is a recording instrument. It's very hard to create an atmosphere with it."

While admitting that "It's sad that this 20th century medium is so locked in to portraying the 19th century art of storytelling," Broughton says that he enjoys his attempts at poetic cinema.

His films, he concludes, "are a testament to all the things that amaze me about this universe."

Broughton's Lincoln appearance was part of a filmmakers showcase at Sheldon.

Attention Center Lives Up To Its Name

By NANCY HICKS
Star Staff Writer

Two young teenage boys roughhoused in an open area while the morning game shows blared in the background.

A boy and girl, about 15, and two adults — a bearded young man and a middle-aged woman — sat around a table playing spades. The music of a radio competed with the TV commercial.

Off in one of the small bedrooms another teenage boy cried while an adult sat nearby, listening, talking, trying to get the hurt out in the open.

Living up to its name, the Juvenile Attention Center stresses attention, without eliminating safety or control.

The atmosphere is one of caring, of honest, open dialogue between staff and youths, of controling destructive behavior as much as possible without force.

This does not mean chaos.

It does mean a freedom of choice within certain bounds.

77 Clients

Since the center opened Jan. 13, more than 77 youths between 12 and 17 years of age have spent from a few hours to three weeks in the new building.

Most have been runaways (49), but others have been charged with car theft, burglary, parole or probation violations, and public intoxication.

After an average stay of about five days they left for home, a foster home or group home, Kearney or Geneva, Boys Town, the Regional Center, even jail.

The $425,000 center, 2148 S. 10th, replaced the Westview Detention Home and jail for older juveniles.

Doors Are Locked

And like a jail, the doors are locked to the outside and there are rules: no property damage, no physical harm to self or others. There is an initial body search; the youth's personal possessions are locked up. They can't wear belts. They can't smoke. Bedroom doors are locked at night wehn only two staff members are on duty.

But unlike in a jail, the staff members are not guards in the traditional sense. Though they are there to keep order, they have a responsibility to open up dialogue with the youths, to talk, play cards or pool, to care on a personal level about the individual youth housed there.

The philosophy and the unstructured structure was explained by Attention Center Director Jon Hill and case worker Terry Anderson.

The concept is a little hard for some people to understand; it doesn't fit with the preconceived notions about detention for juveniles, Hill explained.

Emotionally Draining

The approach is not easy on the 23 full and part-time staff members. It is exhausting, emotionally draining. They do not just stand around ready to enforce rules; they must know themselves well and be able to give of themselves, Anderson explained.

There must be honesty, not manipulation; some negotiation rather than pure authoritarian decrees; and personal contact in a short period of time.

The staff is learning to use "I messages," Anderson explained. A staff person just meeting a juvenile might say (if he felt that way), "Gee, my palms are sweating. I'm a little anxious about how you are going to react to me."

The program structure is limited, with only meals and time to be in bedrooms at night spelled out.

The staff leaves much of the remaining structure up to the youth, asking "What would you like to do now?" Some teenagers may want to bake a cake in the kitchen, work on a craft project, play basketball in the outdoor area or just read a book.

The approach to juveniles is new. Several people have suggested that it could be a model for other juvenile centers, Hill said.

It is so new that the staff is still learning, working on communication techniques, getting the bugs out of the philosophy and applying it to reality.

And the first two months of operation have not been without problems, Hill admits.

Two youths escaped the ninth day of operation — a staff error, Hill said. Since then better control in the outdoor recreation areas have been worked out.

There have been several incidents of vandalism — broken windows — all by youths on their way to Kearney who told the staff, "I have nothing else to lose."

Not Excessive

But the vandalism has not been excessive for the type of facility. Other juvenile detention homes budget between $500 and $1,000 a month for repairs. The county center spent $700 during the first two months, Hill said.

And the fact that many youths have written to staff members shows that the staff is having some impact on them, he said.

An evaluation form filled out by one girl who had been in just about every institution in the state showed some insight into what the staff is trying to do.

"The staff showed they cared," she wrote. "The food was poor, but I could make something else . . .I didn't like the doors (bedroom) being locked, but I know they had to be locked . . . the discipline was handled the best way they knew how and they tried to solve the situation without force."
solve the situation without force."

Reader Urges Parents To Let Son Be Himself

DEAR ABBY: Your answer to TORN was perfect. If those parents really love their tall, handsome, athletic son, the best way to show it is to allow him to be himself, even if his choice of a life's companion is another man, and not the woman of their dreams.

I speak out of agonizing years of personal experience. I made my personal decisions on the basis of what would please my parents, my friends and society in general. I have tried to live a straight life in a straight world and have been relatively successful. But each day is an inner struggle. I have conformed to a way of life that is "proper," but it's unnatural for me. My life has been one long succession of unfulfilled yearnings.

I would advise any young person who is struggling with homosexual feelings to be true to himself. Thank God for the openness society is developing. Had I known 25 years ago that there could possibly be an alternative, I would have taken a different course.

Now, in my 40s, I still wear a mask and am more miserable than ever. Surely those parents souldn't want that kind of misery for their son.

Abby, please continue to tell parents that the opinions of their friends and relatives are not as important as their children's right to be themselves.

UNHAPPY CONFORMIST

DEAR UNHAPPY: I could not have said it better than you did.

DEAR ABBY: My 23-year-old daughter is planning to be married.

Five years ago she had a baby out of wedlock, and she kept the child and raised her.

My daughter now wants a traditional wedding with a white dress and veil. She also wants her daughter to be the flower girl!

What is your opinion of such a wedding under the circumstances?

CONVENTIONAL MOM

DEAR MOM: I hope I won't shock you, but I say, let your daughter have the kind of wedding she wants. This is her first wedding, and it probably has been her heart's desire for many years.

One swallow doesn't make summer, and one mistake shouldn't cast a shadow over a person for a lifetime.

DEAR ABBY: Since we have returned from our Christmas vacation, I have needed to get something off my chest.

Every year my husband insists that we take our children to visit his parents over the holidays because they are so eager to see the grandchildren and they'd be "hurt" if we didn't. This involves a four-day automobile trip, which we make only once a year.

During the eight days we were there this year, the grandparents left us and our children four times to babysit for their daughter while she and her husband attended some holiday parties!

I didn't expect my husband's parents to stay home all the time we were there, but I did resent them spending so much time with their daughter, who lives right in town and sees them the rest of the year.

Since I don't have the nerve to point this out to them, I hope you'll print this as a reminder to grandparents that when their children and grandchildren make such a special effort to visit them, they should limit their outside activities.

Thanks. It's very hard to discuss in-law problems with a husband.

FEELS BETTER

DEAR FEELS: Don't rely on the in-laws to see this and mend their ways. The solution to your problem can be found through some honest dialogue with your husband. You have a legitimate beef. Start talking.

Everyone has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69700, L. A., Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

Opening lead — king of spades.

A good bridge player, like a good poker player, considers the possibility that the enemy may be bluffing, and many players have been known to go to great lengths to uncover such a possibility. For example, take this deal played many years ago in the world championship match between Sweden and the U.S.

I opened third-hand with one spade and the Swedish North bid one notrump. South quite properly thought there was a game somewhere in the hand, and he responded three clubs.

North bid three hearts and South was stuck for a bid. He wasn't at all keen about notrump and he was also reluctant to suggest a minor suit game by bidding either four clubs or four diamonds.

So South temporized with three spades, leaving room for three notrump and at the same time allowing North to carry on as he saw fit — including the possibility of his bidding game in spades.

Upon learning that his partner had spades, North decided that even though I had bid spades I might not have them, and accordingly he raised South to four spades.

This bid came around to me and — as I had no reason to question the honesty of my own spade bid — I doubled. We defeated the contract two tricks — 500 points — after I led the A-K and another spade. This outcome was exceptionally favorable to us, since three notrump could not have been defeated.

The moral of this tale is that while it is perfectly proper to suspect one of your opponents of attempted skulduggery, it is best to be careful at the same time not to convict him on circumstantial evidence only.

Show's Off Until Entire Cast Is Found

Chicago (AP) — The show's off. The entire cast has been kidnaped.

Lucille Cole, coproducer with her husband, George, of the Cole Marionettes, says 11 puppets, backdrops and sound equipment were stolen from their parked station wagon earlier this week.

The missing marionettes were the entire cast of the Coles' production of Hans Christian Andersen's "The Steadfast Tin Soldier." The Coles valued the missing items at more than $1,500.

"We'll have to change many advanced bookings unless the marionettes are returned," said Mrs. Cole. "If there is a ransom, we'll pay it. If they aren't returned we'll just have to come up with a different show."

BROUGHTON . . . working with images.

Broughton: Poetry In Motion

By J L. SCHMIDT
Star Staff Writer

The oldest living avant-garde filmmaker in the United States has no ambition to make it big

"I don t want to get into business, spending $75,000 a day making money, worrying about the boss firing me," said James Broughton, a visiting filmmaker at the Sheldon Film Theater on the UNL campus the past week

Broughton, who claims to live a poetic life, is also one of few poets who are making films He finds the two mediums complementary because "Films are made with images, just like poems "

But, because of the nature of the media, there are certain things you can t do with film," he laments, noting that subtleties are hard to convey

'Born A Poet'

The California native was "born a poet ' He was a part of the first postwar wave of filmmaking in 1946 and worked actively with other independents until 1954

"I had no more to say with film, so I went back to the stage and my poetry he added

Broughton went to Europe and when he came back to California he found that poets (the likes of Korso and Ginsberg) were all the rage so he took up his pen again His second fling at film began in 1967 and a commission from the Royal Belgian Film Archives in 1968 got things rolling when he produced "The Bed,' a color feature based on the bed

Stretching some Shakespeare, he said "All the world s a bed '

He boasts a movie every year since then and is presently working on one titled "Unclassifiable Wonders,' made possible through a grant from the National Endowment for the Arts

Important Setting

Of his re-entry into movies with "The Bed,' Broughton notes that he has "been obsessed for years with the idea of the bed as a stage Everything from birth to death sex to dreaming and prayer to infidelity happens in bed, he noted

Broughton teaches at two part-time jobs "You don t get tenure, but you don t have to go to all those meetings either he noted

He narrates some of his movies, but doesn't, in a modest moment, admit to actively appearing in any of them His appearance in The Bed ' was an accident, he explained

Deal With Cameraman

' The cameraman handed me a snake and said that I should get in bed with it He promised to do his great leap if I d oblige him with the snake, he said

Broughton filmed the cameraman's nude leap over the bed a feature of the film, as part of the deal

Improvisation plays a great role in the Broughton films, as the bearded master says I like to film outdoors One doesn t have to mess with lighting, and besides, it s a great way to get out of the house

The Mill Valley Calif surroundings are a magnificent backdrop for most of his films as he utilizes the natural beauties that most of us overlook every day

A trip to England brought about the filming of Pleasure Garden,' a movie which plays on the eye appeal of the ruins of the castle that the Duke of Wellington left behind

Broughton says that "The only reason I go through the agony of filmmaking is that I want to see something that doesn t exist on the screen '

Atmosphere Difficult

And he adds, 'That s hard to do with such a realistic medium The camera is a recording instrument It s very hard to create an atmosphere with it

While admitting that It s sad that this 20th century medium is so locked in to portraying the 19th century art of storytelling ' Broughton says that he enjoys his attempts at poetic cinema

His films he concludes, are a testament to all the things that amaze me about this universe

Broughton s Lincoln appearance was part of a filmmakers showcase at Sheldon

Attention Center Lives Up To Its Name

By NANCY HICKS
Star Staff Writer

Two young teenage boys roughhoused in an open area while the morning game shows blared in the background

A boy and girl about 15 and two adults — a bearded young man and a middle-aged woman — sat around a table playing spades The music of a radio competed with the TV commercial

Off in one of the small bedrooms another teenage boy cried while an adult sat nearby listening talking trying to get the hurt out in the open

Living up to its name the Juvenile Attention Center stresses attention without eliminating safety or control

The atmosphere is one of caring of honest open dialogue between staff and youths of controling destructive behavior as much as possible without force

This does not mean chaos

It does mean a freedom of choice within certain bounds

77 Clients

Since the center opened Jan 13 more than 77 youths between 12 and 17 years of age have spent from a few hours to three weeks in the new building

Most have been runaways (49) but others have been charged with car theft burglary parole or probation violations and public intoxication

After an average stay of about five days they left for home, a foster home or group home Kearney or Geneva Boys Town the Regional Center even jail

The $425 000 center 2148 S 10th replaced the Westview Detention Home and jail for older juveniles

Doors Are Locked

And like a jail the doors are locked to the outside and there are rules no property damage no physical harm to self or others There is an initial body search the youth s personal possessions are locked up They can t wear belts They can t smoke Bedroom doors are locked at night wehn only two staff members are on duty

But unlike in a jail the staff members are not guards in the traditional sense Though they are there to keep order they have a responsibility to open up dialogue with the youths to talk, play cards or pool to care on a personal level about the individual youth housed there

The philosophy and the unstructured structure was explained by Attention Center Director Jon Hill and case worker Terry Anderson

The concept is a little hard for some people to understand it doesn t fit with the preconceived notions about detention for juveniles Hill explained

Emotionally Draining

The approach is not easy on the 23 full and part-time staff members It is exhausting, emotionally draining They do not just stand around ready to enforce rules they must know themselves well and be able to give of themselves Anderson explained

There must be honesty, not manipulation some negotiation rather than pure authoritarian decrees, and personal contact in a short period of time

The staff is learning to use "I messages Anderson explained A staff person just meeting a juvenile might say (if he felt that way) Gee my palms are sweating I m a little anxious about how you are going to react to me

The program structure is limited with only meals and time to be in bedrooms at night spelled out

The staff leaves much of the remaining structure up to the youth, asking What would you like to do now? Some teenagers may want to bake a cake in the kitchen work on a craft project, play basketball in the outdoor area or just read a book

The approach to juveniles is new Several people have suggested that it could be a model for other juvenile centers, Hill said

It is so new that the staff is still learning, working on communication techniques, getting the bugs out of the philosophy and applying it to reality

And the first two months of operation have not been without problems Hill admits

Two youths escaped the ninth day of operation — a staff error, Hill said Since then better control in the outdoor recreation areas have been worked out

There have been several incidents of vandalism — broken windows — all by youths on their way to Kearney who told the staff, ' I have nothing else to lose

Not Excessive

But the vandalism has not been excessive for the type of facility Other juvenile detention homes budget between $500 and $1 000 a month for repairs The county center spent $700 during the first two months, Hill said

And the fact that many youths have written to staff members shows that the staff is having some impact on them, he said

An evaluation form filled out by one girl who had been in just about every institution in the state showed some insight into what the staff is trying to do

The staff showed they cared, she wrote "The food was poor but I could make something else I didn t like the doors (bedroom) being locked but I know they had to be locked the discipline was handled the best way they knew how and they tried to solve the situation without force '
solve the situation without force

DEAR UNHAPPY: I could not have said it better than you did.

DEAR ABBY: My 23-year-old daughter is planning to be married.

Five years ago she had a baby out of wedlock, and she kept the child and raised her.

My daughter now wants a traditional wedding with a white dress and veil. She also wants her daughter to be the flower girl!

What is your opinion of such a wedding under the circumstances?

CONVENTIONAL MOM

DEAR MOM: I hope I won't shock you, but I say, let your daughter have the kind of wedding she wants. This is her first wedding, and it probably has been her heart's desire for many years.

One swallow doesn't make summer, and one mistake shouldn't cast a shadow over a person for a lifetime.

DEAR ABBY: Since we have returned from our Christmas vacation, I have needed to get something off my chest.

Every year my husband insists that we take our children to visit his parents over the holidays because they are so eager to see the grandchildren and they'd be "hurt" if we didn't. This involves a four-day automobile trip, which we make only once a year.

During the eight days we were there this year, the grandparents left us and our children four times to babysit for their daughter while she and her husband attended some holiday parties!

I didn't expect my husband's parents to stay home all the time we were there, but I did resent them spending so much time with their daughter who lives right in town and sees them the rest of the year.

Since I don't have the nerve to point this out to them, I hope you'll print this as a reminder to grandparents that when their children and grandchildren make such a special effort to visit them, they should limit their outside activities.

Thanks. It's very hard to discuss in-law problems with a husband.

FEELS BETTER

DEAR FEELS: Don't rely on the in-laws to see this and mend their ways. The solution to your problem can be found through some honest dialogue with your husband. You have a legitimate beef. Start talking.

Everyone has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69700, L. A., Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

Opening lead — king of spades.

A good bridge player, like a good poker player, considers the possibility that the enemy may be bluffing, and many players have been known to go to great lengths to uncover such a possibility. For example, take this deal played many years ago in the world championship match between Sweden and the U.S.

I opened third-hand with one spade and the Swedish North bid one notrump. South quite properly thought there was a game somewhere in the hand, and he responded three clubs.

North bid three hearts and South was stuck for a bid. He wasn't at all keen about notrump and he was also reluctant to suggest a minor suit game by bidding either four clubs or four diamonds.

So South temporized with three spades, leaving room for three notrump and at the same time allowing North to carry on as he saw fit — including the possibility of his bidding game in spades.

Upon learning that his partner had spades, North decided that even though I had bid spades I might not have them, and accordingly he raised South to four spades.

This bid came around to me and — as I had no reason to question the honesty of my own spade bid — I doubled. We defeated the contract two tricks — 500 points — after I led the A-K and another spade. This outcome was exceptionally favorable to us, since three notrump could not have been defeated.

The moral of this tale is that while it is perfectly proper to suspect one of your opponents of attempted skulduggery, it is best to be careful at the same time not to convict him on circumstantial evidence only.

Show's Off Until Entire Cast Is Found

Chicago (AP) — The show's off. The entire cast has been kidnaped.

Lucille Cole, coproducer with her husband, George, of the Cole Marionettes, says 11 puppets, backdrops and sound equipment were stolen from their parked station wagon earlier this week.

The missing marionettes were the entire cast of the Coles' production of Hans Christian Andersen's "The Steadfast Tin Soldier." The Coles valued the missing items at more than $1,500.

"We'll have to change many advanced bookings unless the marionettes are returned," said Mrs. Cole. "If there is a ransom, we'll pay it. If they aren't returned we'll just have to come up with a different show."

Peru Cafe Destroyed By Blaze

Peru — A fire Monday night totally destroyed the interior of a building housing the Peru Cafe, the only cafe in this southeast Nebraska college community.

Volunteer firemen, attending a meeting at the firehall a half block from the downtown establishment, answered an alarm turned in by a passerby at about 8:30 p.m. Witnesses said the fire had "pretty much engulfed the place" by the time firemen arrived.

Fire spread to an unoccupied four-bedroom apartment above the cafe and to the connected bar on the first floor. Occupants of a two-story apartment building next to the bar moved most of their personal belongings during the fire but only heat and smoke damage was reported to that building.

The occupants, all Peru State College students, were not injured. One fireman suffered a minor cut on his hand, authorities said.

Rex Rains of Auburn, owner of the cafe, said he and an employe had left the building about 7:30 p.m.

Deputy State Fire Marshal Dennis Hohbein from Beatrice and Peru firemen sifted through the remains of the interior after the fire was extinguished shortly after 10 p.m.

Hohbein said Tuesday the fire apparently started in a plastic trash container at the rear of the first floor. He noted that several false ceilings, the result of remodeling, helped spread the fire. He estimated losses were $18,000 damage to the building and $25,000 to contents.

Builder Says Atrium Work Begins Soon

An official of the firm planning to remodel the building on the northwest corner of 13th and N said Tuesday he hopes interior demolition work can begin in about two weeks.

The building, constructed as the Rudge and Guenzel department store and later used by Sears and more recently as temporary quarters for the National Bank of Commerce, will be called The Atrium.

Cary Neiman of Chicago, vice president in charge of commercial development of Hawthorne Realty Group, explained the development to members of the downtown Rotary Club.

Neiman said the group intends to spend $4.5 million on the project.

In answer to a question, Nieman told club members that leases and letters of intent have been signed for about 40,000 of the 90,000 square feet of retail space available on the lower level and first and second floors, including the space to be occupied by Ben Simon's & Sons, a major tenant.

Neiman said the goal is to have tenants in place by February of 1977.

Brazil Competition In Corn Expected

Boone, Iowa (UPI) — Corn exports from Brazil probably will reach up to 105 million bushels, giving Iowa farmers more competition for corn markets, according to an official of the National Corn Growers Association.

Oil And Drug Issues Pace Sharp Rally

NEW YORK (AP) — Oil and drug issues paced a sharp rally in the stock market Tuesday that carried the Dow Jones industrial average back within striking distance of the 1,000 mark.

Gainers outnumbered losers by about a 5-3 margin in the daily tally of New York Stock Exchange-listed issues.

Analysts said a drop in Treasury bill yields late Monday and a decline in bond market yields had eased investors' concern over the interest rate outlook.

They also noted some Wall Street projections of better-than expected gains in capital spending this year.

Some brokers in addition mentioned buying by investing institutions preparing their portfolios for first quarter reports. The quarter ends next week.

ASTROLOGICAL FORECAST

☆ By SIDNEY OMARR ☆

Wednesday, March 24

Sagittarius, in April, could complete important assignment or close a "big deal." The native of this zodiacal sign will be more creative, make significant changes, have serious relationship and could fall madly in love. Yes, for Sagittarius, next month will be memorable.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Dispute involving security and family members could be featured. Key is to be receptive, diplomatic and to hold down the costs. Taurus, Libra and Scorpio might be involved. Be goal-oriented without forgetting home work.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Try to view current situation in light of factual information. Reject schemes which promise something for nothing. Long-range plans might have to be revised. Status quo takes a beating. Move with tide and times.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Organize, leave no loose financial ends. Capricorn, Cancer could figure prominently. Money squeeze is temporary. Know it and don't lose heart. Partner or mate has something pertinent to say about work plan. Listen, absorb knowledge, stick to principles, make room for a person who is industrious.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Study Gemini message. Finish what you start. Expand horizons. Check legal aspects. Deal with Aries, Libra individuals. You will have more challenge, added pressure and responsibility. But you also will gain recognition, have better distribution and display of product.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Avoid direct confrontations. For time being, use side door. Compile data which eventually promotes individual concepts, projects. Right now, put off major request. Aquarian could be in picture. Patience is your main ally.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Love quarrel need not be taken too seriously. Avoid reacting on impulse. Give logic a chance, too. Say no to speculative ventures. Aspects are such that minor statements, actions are apt to be misinterpreted.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): If you are too direct, you suffer setback. Get ingredient of humor into requests, statements, queries. Those in authority could be under pressure. This is not the best time to issue ultimatums. Gemini, Cancer and Sagittarius could be in picture.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Hold off on journeys, if possible. Check routes, maps, instructions, reservations. Be specific, aware of details and willing to explain position in clear language. Means don't cloud issues with innuendoes, hints, threats. Older individual is working in your behalf — express gratitude.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Highlight versatility, joy from doing what you know will lead to expansion, greater chance for happiness. Gemini person could figure prominently. Financial matters dominate. You have something of value — don't give it up for mere promise. Protect your interests.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Cycle is such that marital status is spotlighted. You may be concerned with contracts, other written agreements. Family situation commands attention. Talk could concern residence, change, remodeling, adjustment of policies. Taurus, Libra probably will be involved.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Be perceptive; take nothing for granted. Permit intuitive intellect to roam, operate. You know what should be done — strive for wisdom and discipline to do it. Accent now is on the hidden, behind scenes, closed-door conference.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Reorganize. Check allies. Be aware of credits, debits. Take nothing for granted. Impulsive persons want you to make a "quick move." Key is to weigh factors of security. Don't rush something of permanent value for temporary applause.

IF MARCH 24 IS YOUR BIRTHDAY you have unusual voice. You are dynamic, independent and you love luxury. Your desire for sweets can be a problem. If single, you could marry this year. March and December are your most significant months of 1976. Tuarus, Libra, Scorpio persons play important roles in your life. You will travel more this year and you will gain through the written word.

Here is a pleasant little game that will give you a message every day. It's a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add 3. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers, left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you.

Peru Cafe Destroyed By Blaze

Peru — A fire Monday night totally destroyed the interior of a building housing the Peru Cafe, the only cafe in this southeast Nebraska college community.

Volunteer firemen, attending a meeting at the firehall a half block from the downtown establishment, answered an alarm turned in by a passerby at about 8:30 p.m. Witnesses said the fire had "pretty much engulfed the place" by the time firemen arrived.

Fire spread to an unoccupied four-bedroom apartment above the cafe and to the connected bar on the first floor. Occupants of a two-story apartment building next to the bar moved most of their personal belongings during the fire but only heat and smoke damage was reported to that building.

The occupants, all Peru State College students, were not injured. One fireman suffered a minor cut on his hand, authorities said.

Rex Rains of Auburn, owner of the cafe, said he and an employe had left the building about 7:30 p.m.

Deputy State Fire Marshal Dennis Hohbein from Beatrice and Peru firemen sifted through the remains of the interior after the fire was extinguished shortly after 10 p.m.

Hohbein said Tuesday the fire apparently started in a plastic trash container at the rear of the first floor. He noted that several false ceilings, the result of remodeling, helped spread the fire. He estimated losses were $18,000 damage to the building and $25,000 to contents.

Builder Says Atrium Work Begins Soon

An official of the firm planning to remodel the building on the northwest corner of 13th and N said Tuesday he hopes interior demolition work can begin in about two weeks.

The building, constructed as the Rudge and Guenzel department store and later used by Sears and more recently as temporary quarters for the National Bank of Commerce, will be called The Atrium.

Cary Neiman of Chicago, vice president in charge of commercial development of Hawthorne Realty Group, explained the development to members of the downtown Rotary Club.

Neiman said the group intends to spend $4.5 million on the project.

In answer to a question, Nieman told club members that leases and letters of intent have been signed for about 40,000 of the 90,000 square feet of retail space available on the lower level and first and second floors, including the space to be occupied by Ben Simon's & Sons, a major tenant.

Neiman said the goal is to have tenants in place by February of 1977.

Brazil Competition In Corn Expected

Boone, Iowa (UPI) — Corn exports from Brazil probably will reach up to 105 million bushels, giving Iowa farmers more competition for corn markets, according to an official of the National Corn Growers Association.

Oil And Drug Issues Pace Sharp Rally

NEW YORK (AP) — Oil and drug issues paced a sharp rally in the stock market Tuesday that carried the Dow Jones industrial average back within striking distance of the 1,000 mark.

Gainers outnumbered losers by about a 5-3 margin in the daily tally of New York Stock Exchange-listed issues.

Analysts said a drop in Treasury bill yields late Monday and a decline in bond market yields had eased investors' concern over the interest rate outlook.

They also noted some Wall Street projections of better-than expected gains in capital spending this year.

Some brokers in addition mentioned buying by investing institutions preparing their portfolios for first quarter reports. The quarter ends next week.

Winningest NCAA Field

Philadelphia — The four teams in the NCAA basketball championship tournament to be played in The Spectrum here Saturday and Monday have won a combined total of 111 games this season — an all-time high in the 38-year history of the event.

That tops the previous best of 105 victories set in 1968 and tied in 1972. The combined winning percentage of .917 (111-10), however, isn't a record. The 1970 foursome of UCLA, Jacksonville, New Mexico State and St. Bonaventure had a .945 average (103-6).

Should Rutgers win the title for a 33-0 record, the Scarlet Knights would break the all-time record for victories in a perfect season (32-0) by Frank McGuire's 1957 North Carolina team. Indiana can tie that record by winning.

UCLA's 26-4 record is the best in all of head coach Gene Bartow's head coaching career which includes 256 victories and a .640 career percentage. His previous high was 24-6 at Memphis State in 1973.

Even so, UCLA must win the championship to avoid having its worst won-lost record in ten years. That's one way of measuring the impossibility of replacing John Wooden.

Wooden, who retired after last season, won eight NCAA crowns in his last nine years and his worst record in that span was 26-4 in 1974.

UCLA has made it to the final game ten times and won all ten times. The Bruins' record in the tourney is 50-10. This is their 10th consecutive trip to the final four and 13th in 17 tournaments. The Bruins have won 47 of their last 48 NCAA tourney games.

That's a record that probably never will be equaled.

Knight Might Threaten

At age 35, Indiana coach Bobby Knight may be the youngest major college head coach ever to pass the 200 victory mark. His 11-year career record is 225-70, including a 133-20 figure in five seasons at Indiana.

No one has a complete list of all coaches in history who won 200 and their birth dates, but it seems likely Knight holds this distinction, for two reasons:

Few men have started head-coaching on a major level at 24, and in the early years of the game, teams often didn't even play 20 games in a season. Knight has averaged 20.5 wins a season over 11 years. And so far no one has found a coach who reached 200 victories at the major leval at age 35.

What are the chances of an overtime final game? In the first 37 years, there were only four overtime games — Utah over Dartmouth 42-40 in 1944, North Carolina over Kansas 54-53 in 1957 (that went three overtimes), Cincinnati over Ohio State 70-65 in 1961 and Chicago Loyola over Cincinnati 60-58 in 1963.

Saturday victories by Indiana and Michigan would lead to an all-Big Ten championship game. That would be the first time that two teams from the same conference met in the title game.

There is a precedent for the Indiana-UCLA rematch of a season-opening Hoosier victory 84-64 in St. Louis. Two years ago, North Carolina State lost a nationally televised game to UCLA in the same arena by 84-66. Then the Wolfpack won in two overtimes at Greensboro 80-77 to end UCLA's incredible 38-game winning streak in NCAA tourney play.

An NCAA basketball crown and a football bowl victory in the same school year has happened only five times. One involved Oklahoma State in 1945 after winning over TCU in the Cotton Bowl. It would happen again if UCLA wins. The Bruins beat Ohio State in the Rose Bowl on Jan. 1.

Scott Tosses Discus Hopes On Beaver

By RANDY YORK
Prep Sports Editor

Having been Lincoln High's track coach for 23 years, Harold Scott isn't the type to put a monkey on anyone's back.

He can dream though and he can't wait for a nice, clear day this spring when John Beaver throws the discus somewhere between 190 and 200 feet.

"I'm very serious," says Scott. "Maybe I'm all wet, but the conditions are going to be just right sometime this season and John is going to get one out there close to 200 feet."

If he does, the Lincoln High senior will become Nebraska's all-time leader in the discus. Scottsbluff's Gary Kellogg owns the best effort — 188-3 in 1969.

Beaver, the state's defending gold medalist in the event, has plenty to prove. Last season's best of 172-11 didn't quality him for a spot on the all-time charts.

His gold medal performance in the state track meet last May was 172-8, which bettered his closest challenger by 8 feet, 6 inches.

Has Thrown 171-2

"He's off to a good start already this season," notes Scott. "Last Saturday in our inter-class meet, John got off a throw of 171-2. He's had a couple throws around 176 and even throw 170 on a bad day."

It all adds up to great expectations for Beaver, a 6-2, 215-pounder who also achieved 53-6 in the shot put in Lincoln High's inter-class competition last weekend.

John Beaver
Sights Set High

"I think John has proven he's one of the greatest discus throwers Nebraska's ever had," says Scott. "Of course, he can always hurt an elbow. But when that wind happens to be just right, look out."

Scott says good coaching is responsible for much of Beaver's success, even though the veteran head coach refuses to take individual credit.

Good Coaching

"In all honesty," Scott says, "John got sound fundamental coaching from his dad (Clark) and he's gotten good coaching from Bill Story, our weight coach.

"John's worked hard on lifting weights and has the strength and speed to get the type of whip he needs on the discus," adds Scott.

"His speed is amazing for an athlete of his size," according to Scott. "More importantly, he's a very fine young man, who works hard and keeps his mouth shut."

Although Beaver also excels in football, his athletic ticket to the future seems best in track.

"If he gets that super throw this spring and competes as consistently as he did last year with better marks," predicts Scott, "he ought to land a major college scholarship."

Olympic Security Increase

MONTREAL (AP) — A 16,000-member military and police security force will be deployed to guard against a Munich-type disaster at the Summer Olympic Games opening July 17 at Montreal and Kingston, it was announced Tuesday.

Police and military officers made their first joint public disclosure of security measures to protect an estimated 12,000 athletes and team officials plus 500,000 visitors, dignitaries and spectators during the Games.

The security and intelligence officers declined any flat prediction that there would be no problems or even terrorist attacks such as the one which occurred when Arab terrorists slaughtered Israeli athletes at the 1972 Munich Olympic Games.

"Anything and everything is possible," said Maj. Gen. Roland A. Reid, chief of Olympic coordination for the National Defense Department. "We are confident we are doing all that is possible to make sure that the Games will take place without incident."

Reid reported 16,000 members of Canada's armed forces will be assigned in one way or another to Olympic duties, including 5,000 on security duties. The theme of a "discreet and efficient" security operation was outlined by Roger Rousseau, president of the Olympic Organizing Committee which is responsible for staging the Games.

Guy Toupin, the key security commander as coordinator for public safety for the Games, outlined an elaborate organizational structure involving the federal government as well as the governments of Quebec and Ontario and municipal administrations.

Gen. Reid said the contribution of the Canadian armed forces—estimated earlier at roughly 13,000—will come to 16,000 although only 5,650 will be on direct security duty.

The security operation would involve 9,000 men counting command echelons, communications, administrative and logistic support. Another 5,000 would be employed in helping the Olympic Organizing Committee stage the Games themselves. Still another 1,000 members of the armed forces would be working full-time during the Games, counting personnel at national defense headquarters, Mobile Command, Air Command, Maritime Command and the National Reserve.

The armed forces would, in addition, maintain standby forces to be deployed if required. "Public security will remain the responsibility of police forces as it is at any other time," Reid emphasized. "In all cases where military servicemen will be deployed on security tasks, such military forces will be in support of police forces . . ."

The general would not comment on "science fiction" reports of what anti-terrorism weaponery might be in reserve—but he did point out that the "whole range" of armed forces weapons would be available.

Mr. Rousseau said the Israeli athletes would be lodged with other competitors in the 19-story Olympic Village, not separated from them on the top floor but "certainly not near other countries that might create difficulties."

Officials said Canadian authorities are seeking cooperation not only from United States agencies but also from all 130 countries eligible to send athletes to the Games. One intelligence officer said attacks are more likely against visitors than against Canadians.

Security and intelligence activity would be particularly intense when Queen Elizabeth opens the Games July 17.

Mittermaier Wins Slalom

HUNTER MOUNTAIN, N.Y. (AP) — Rosi Mittermaier, making perhaps her last official appearance as an amateur skier, won the women's giant slalom Tuesday at the Nations' World Series of Skiing.

The 25-year-old West German, wearing the pants she tore on a flag at Mont Ste. Anne, Que., last week, snaked down the course in 1 minute 19.58 seconds, edging Hanni Wenzel of Liechtenstein, who clocked 1:19.75.

Miss Mittermaier, the 1976 World Cup women's champion, was swamped by autograph seekers—both young and old—after her winning run.

The double gold medal winner at the 12th Winter Olympic Games in Innsbruck last month said the course, softened by the bright afternoon sun, "was not too good. It was very flat."

Following Miss Wenzel was Fabienne Serrat of France in 1:20.33, Irene Epple of West Germany in 1:21.21 and Lise-Marie Morerod of Switzerland, the World Cup giant slalom champion, in 1:21.92.

The victory by Miss Mittermaier, coupled with the fourth-place finish of Miss Epple, set up a duel in this team competition between the West Germans and the Swiss.

In the men's giant slalom, which preceded the women's run, Heini Hemmi of Switzerland finished first in 2:29.69 for two runs and teammate Ernst Good finished fourth in 2:31.28. Their finishes and the seventh-place finish of Peter Luescher gave Switzerland 15 points in this competition.

Sooners' Bliss Predicts Indiana To Play Michigan

By FRANK BOGGS
Oklahoma City Times

OKLAHOMA CITY—Oklahoma basketball coach Dave Bliss, who earned his master's degree in business at Cornell in 1967 and his doctorate in basketball at Indiana a couple of years ago, says Prof. Robert Knight's team will play Michigan next Monday night in the national finals.

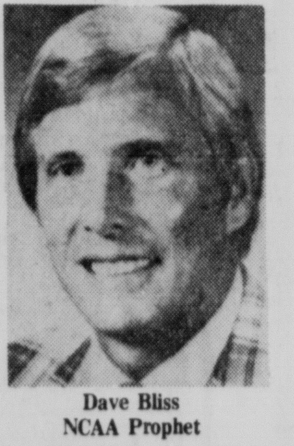
Bliss thinks that because he thinks Michigan will sideline unbeaten Rutgers and because he thinks Indiana will knock off UCLA in Saturday's semis in Philadelphia.

However, Indiana's success will not come with ease. The Hoosiers have soundly thrashed UCLA once this season and soundly edged Michigan two times. Basketball coaches have long voiced the theory that it's terribly difficult for one team to beat another three times per same year.

Why this is has never been clear to me, but the world if full of examples. Mr. Bliss has one recently example still wedged into furrowed brow. His Sooners defeated Iowa State twice, but stumbled the third try.

I guess it must be similar to trying to spank the kid forever. The ol' man may win over 600 consecutive events, then one shocking day the offspring swings back and the ol' man starts making bigger payments to his dentist than he ever did to General Motors.

Bliss served as Knight's right-hand man for four years before moving 'way out to Oklahoma last season. In fact, he often used his right hand to keep the boss from committing mayhem when situations became tense.



Dave Bliss
NCAA Prophet

Naturally, Bliss is not going to predict now or forever that a Bobby Knight team will lose a battle. He is simply saying Indiana will defeat UCLA because of two good reasons. One—The Hoosiers have beaten the Bruins only once this season (84-64) and not twice and, two—"Bobby Knight is not going to lose to anybody when he has a full week to prepare."

This year's Indiana team is facing a situation not unlike one year ago. That Hoosier team had walloped Kentucky in December, 98-74, then suffered its only defeat against Kentucky in the regional finals, 92-90.

Bliss believes Marquette coach Al McGuire intended to earn himself a second technical foul last Saturday during the loss to Indiana. "It was really a hopeless cause when he got that last technical," says Bliss, "but I think he was trying to get something going in desperation. It was like a guy being a couple of shots behind in a golf match and so he hits a wood out of the sand trap, hoping for a miracle."

Osborne Continues To Growl At Bear

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (UPI) — Nebraska football coach Tom Osborne isn't retracting any of the criticism he leveled at Alabama's Bear Bryant or the Sugar Bowl last winter.

"I meant what I said and I stand behind it," Osborne said Monday night at the Birmingham Touchdown Club's Award Banquet. "I said the bowls should make their own selections.

"But I want to make one thing very clear," he added. "I have great respect for Coach Bryant and his program. My comment was made to a Sugar Bowl official and certainly was not meant for publication.

"I certainly don't believe in calling other coaches names in the press, and I felt bad about that. But I said it."

Osborne was quoted as calling Bryant a "son of a buck" after the Sugar Bowl bypassed his Cornhuskers and picked Penn State to face Alabama in the New Year's Eve classic in New Orleans.

Osborne said he believes the Southeastern Conference made a mistake in signing a contract to send its champion to the Sugar Bowl each year, adding that some officials of the Big Eight Conference have had second thoughts about their pact with the Orange Bowl.

Tom Osborne
Still Unhappy

"I believe the majority of coaches in the Big Eight are concerned about the tie-up," he said. "It certainly worked to our detriment at Nebraska last season."

Instead of going to one of the major bowls, the Cornhuskers wound up playing in the Fiesta Bowl.

Evert Streak Ends After 20 Matches

BOSTON (UPI) — Unheraled Dianne Fromholtz, 19, of Australia, seemingly headed for defeat, roared back to win eight straight games Tuesday night to upset top-seeded Chris Evert, 2-6, 6-2, 6-3, in the opening round $75,000 Virginia Slims of Boston tennis tournament.

The loss snapped Evert's laest win streak at 20 matches. She had not lost since Jan. 18 when she was upended by Martina Navratilova of Czechoslovakia in Houston. Fromholtz has never beaten Evert, the world's top-ranked woman player in the world, in three previous meetings.

Fromholtz, who called the victory "a high point in my career," was down 0-2 in the second set when she exploded with a barrage of sharply angled service returns and ground strokes. She swept the next eight games to go ahead 20 in the final set and served out the match.

She later told reporters Billy Jean King had advised her to stay back and rally with Evert from the baseline.

"I stayed back and tried to break down her baseline game. I tried to be the aggressor. It's only a first round match, but it was a high point in my career," she said.

Evert, 21, has not lost a first round match since 1971, before turning pro.

Evert, who said she "was not tournament tough" after a two-week layoff, had nothing but praise for Fromholtz.

"She played so well, she never let me in the match," said Evert. "She took everything on the rise and turned them into winners. She never let up. She used her head tonight."

Earlier, second-seeded Evonne Goolagong breezed by Peggy Michel of Pacific Palisades, Calif., 6-4, 6-0, and sixth-seeded Marita Redondo of San Diego, Calif., easily defeated Laura Dupont of Matthews, N.C., 6-1, 6-2.

Goolagong took just 33 minutes to eliminate Michel and held her to just seven points in the second set.

Athletes Killed — With A Little Help From Their 'Friends'

By BILL GLEASON
Chicago Sun Times Writer

Chicago — Another wonderful thing about the Wonderful World of Sports is that new awards always are being established to keep forever green the memories of our departed heroes.

Isn't it nice?

We can expect the National Basketball Assn. to establish soon the "Joe Fulks Memorial" trophy. Along about the same time we fans will be reading about the International Ski Racers Assn. "Vladimir Sabich Memorial" trophy.

In case you missed the news Fulks, the NBA's first scoring champion, dribbled off to the big fieldhouse in the sky early Sunday morning. Joe left us not so many hours before Sabich, the colorful "Spider" of international ski racing, slid away on the final giant slalom.

The thing about it is that neither Fulks nor Sabich wanted to go. Fulks was only 54. Spider was no more than 31. Between them they had a lot of years left.

They were dispatched.

The circumstances of their departures are the reasons why these new trophies will be just a little bit different.

Fulks undoubtedly had a roomful of awards, most of them topped with heroic basketball figures in various poses. Sabich, too, earned many gold-plated skiers surrounded by wreaths of laurel.

That kind of stuff is going out of style.

For example, the Fulks Memorial will be topped not by a basketball player but by crossed shotguns against a field of blue-steel automatics. The Sabich memorial will not feature stacked metal skis but will come right to the dramatic point with Lugers arranged in the shape of a "V."

Opinion

Fulks, a good ol' big boy from Kuttaway, Ky., was shot to death Sunday in Eddyville, Ky. Sabich, an extroverted playboy from Kyburz, Calif., was shot to death in Aspen, Colo.

According to the first report from police down in Lyon County, Kentucky, Fulks was killed while he was arguing with a younger fellow about a handgun. Joe's assailant didn't use the handgun, though. He unloaded on Joe's neck with a shotgun.

According to the first report from police out in Pitkin County, Colo., Sabich was shot to death while he and his cohabitator, retired singer Claudine Longet, were doing something or other with a Luger.

The man accused of slaying Fulks has been charged with murder. The woman arrested in the death of Sabich has not been charged with anything, as this was going to press.

It probably will be discovered that the gun that fired a fatal bullet into Sabich discharged when he slipped on a pile of Alpine snow he had been saving as a souvenir.

Fulks, who introduced the jump shot to pro basketball and Sabich, World Pro Ski champion in 1970 and '71, were citizens of the U.S. When I read of their deaths, I thought, curiously, of politicians.

I know politicians. Many of them are sensitive. At parties, after everybody has had a few pops, a politician, sometimes with tear in eye, will ask, "Why do so many of our young people hate all politicians? Why do they blame me for Watergate?"

These maudlin questions, or variations on the same melancholy themes, are put to me because recent polls show that newspapermen are popular but politicians are not.

Because I hate to have grown men slobbering on my doubleknit, I attempt to explain. 'It's not Watergate," I tell the pols. "It's things like all the polls indicating that most American citizens want strong handgun control legislation but Congress won't give the people what they want. Congress gives the National Rifle Assn. what it wants, instead."

"You don't think I'm being paid off by the National Rifle Assn., do you?" a politician asked me, fighting back fresh tears.

"Nawww," I said, patting his damp jowls. "But the young people think somebody is paying off somebody else. That's how young people are."

When the Fulks and Sabich trophies are presented, maybe we can have a few words from a lobbyist for the NRA.

He could bring words of assurance to the loved ones of Fulks and Sabich, who were killed not by thugs on the street or by home invaders but died in the company of "friends."

The man from the NRA, who was so pleased with his recent victory in Congress, might tell the parents and children of Fulks and the parents of Sabich that guns don't kill people."

As we've been told until we're sick of it, people kill people.

Sox Offer $750,000 For Hurler

Andy Messersmith
Long Term Package?

The agent for standout pitcher Andy Messersmith revealed that the Chicago White Sox have made a multiyear offer of $750,000 for the righthander who won 39 games in the last two years for the Los Angeles Dodgers. The Cincinnati Reds said they had rejected an offer to sign the pitcher for a package worth approximately $1.5 million. The Reds said they were presented with a proposal that would include a bonus and a four-year, no-cut contract in a call from Messersmith's agent Herb Osmond. Apparently the White Sox and Atlanta Braves are the only teams to come up with offers close to Missersmith's demands.

National Football League commissioner Pete Rozelle testified that Joe Kapp had a sincere invitation to return in 1973 as a player but still would have been required to sign an NFL standard player contract. In 1973 after the New England had waived their rights to Kapp, the commissioner sent a letter to the quarterback's agent saying Kapp was welcome to return to the NFL after sitting out two years. But Rozelle added that he was not in position to ignore the league's collective bargaining agreement with the NFL Player's Association. Rozelle also testified that the rule named after him kept teams in non-glamor cities from being decimated by players jumping teams.

West Des Moines Dowling football coach Jim Williams, one of Iowa's most successful prep coaches, was named an assistant at Iowa State.

Basketball

Player representatives Bob Woolf, Larry Fleisher and Irwin Weiner expressed shock upon learning the salaries of some of the highest priced players in the NBA were once paid through a pooling of league resources. The pooling arangement which occured during 1961-1968 totaled about $1.5 million, and was designed to help the NBA outbid the rival ABA for basketball talent.

The Philadelphia 76ers physician has given George McGinnis permission to play against the New York Knicks Wednesday night.

Mike Glenn, a guard from Southern Illinois heads the UPI all-Missouri Valley conference team this year. Also named to the team were Muarice Cheeks of West Texas State, Robert Elmore of Wichita State, Ken Harris of Drake and Mike Davis of Bradley.

May, Smith Head Classic

Wichita, Kan. — Player of the Year Scott May of Indiana and Missouri all-American guard Willie Smith led voting for positions on the East and West squads set to battle the night of April 5 in the Fifth Annual Pizza Hut Basketball Classic. Some 3.2 million ballots were tabulated for the NCAA and NAIA-sanctioned charity event scheduled for the Las Vegas Convention Center.

The top eight vote getters on each team receive automatic invitations. Two additional at-large selections per squad will be named later this week.

May led all voters with support on 397,416 ballots. The 6-foot-7 forward's closest competition came from Vanderbilt All-Southeastern Conference forward Jeff Fosnes (391,046), Atlantic Coast Conference player of the year Mitch Kupchak from North Carolina (388,295) and Maryland All-America guard John Lucas (383,803).

Rounding out the top eight for the East team to be coached by Indiana's Bobby Knight were Wisconsin forward Dale Koehler, St. John's forward Beaver Smith, Austin Peay guard Charlie Fishback and IU guard Quinn Buckner.

Smith, who led Mizzou to the Big Eight Conference title and was the league-leading scorer, topped the West with 364,752 votes.

Here is a pleasant little game that will give you a message every day. It's a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add 3. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers, left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you.

Vint Finds Location Baffling

By TOM VINT
Outdoor Editor

In the Sunday Journal and Star column, "It's All Outdoors," it was reported no one showed up for a protest meeting in Nebraska City concerning the habitat bill and its effect on fishing licenses.

That wasn't exactly true. Two people showed up. My wife and me. The 188 people who gathered to protest LB861 showed up at FALLS CITY.

Yes, Vint, the outdoor editor, missed by about 40 miles.

It was also reported the problems must have apparently been solved since no one showed up. That wasn't true, either, according to Jo Bohrer of the Falls City Chamber of Commerce.

The main area of concern for the Falls City area residents is the cost of out-state fishing permits as of January, 1977. It will be $30 for out-of-state fishermen buying an annual permit to fish in Nebraska. The Falls City folks, who live three miles from Kansas and 10 from Missouri, are worried the neighboring states will reciprocate with nonresident increases of their own.

Since Nebraska offers no quality fishing recreation lakes in the far southeast corner of the state, Nebraskans regularly go to Tuttle Creek or other Kansas or Missouri lakes. An increase to $30 per nonresident adult fisherman would prohibit many a family from enjoying fishing in those areas, according to the group. They now plan a petition drive to change the fee, and some 300 letters are enroute to the governor.

As for the meeting, I wish I'd been there.

Narragansett Shocked By Fire

EAST PROVIDENCE, R.I. (AP) — Narragansett Park horsemen, shocked by a fire that destroyed two barns and resulted in the deaths of at least 25 thoroughbreds, bitterly called Tuesday for state aid to improve the facilities.

The blaze, which broke out about 8:40 p.m., EST, Monday, spewed flames more than 100 feet into the air and caused chaos when trainers and track employes tried to move the frightened animals from their stalls.

Gus DelFarno, president of the Horsemen's Benevolent and Protective Association, was confronted Tuesday by scores of angry owners who demanded that he pressure the state into putting money into the track. He pointed to remarks last week by East Providence Fire Marshall Robert Sauer, who called the horse barns a fire hazard.

John Geremia of Middleboro, Mass., and his son, John Jr., said they had rented 15 stalls in one of the two burned-out barns. He said he lost $35,000 in equipment alone and would lose more.

"I didn't lose any horses, but the ones that were in the barn are halfwits now," Geremia said. "I've been in the racing business for 15 years and I can tell you for sure that these horses won't be fit to race for a long time."

Geremia, who was present during the blaze, said he witnessed at least six horses run back into their flaming stalls. "When they feel threatened, when they feel trapped, they usually run to their homes," he said. "They'd run out of the barn, see the fire all around them and they'd run back in."

NWU Eyes Twinbill

Nebraska Wesleyan's 3-7 baseball team is scheduled to open the home season Wednesday hosting Northwest Missouri State for a 1 p.m. doubleheader at Sherman Field.

The Plainsmen were beaten 13-1 and 12-2 Saturday in Maryville by these same Bearcats who are now 5-4 on the year with their other victories over Wyoming and Grand Canyon.

"Northwest Missouri State is a good team that plays well, makes few mistakes and is fundamentally sound," says NWU assistant Ross Stephenson who coached the Plainsmen Saturday in Ron Bachman's absence. "They hit well and do a lot of running. They like to try a lotta' stunts like double-steals and suicide bunts."

Bachman has indicated he may start freshmen pitchers Doug Dawson and John Svehla Wednesday with yearling Kim Gloystein the first reliever. "I'd like to give the younger kids an opportunity because we open the conference season against Doane a week later," says Bachman.

"We haven't been gelling. We're not hitting and we are making mental errors which should be ironed out by now. If we don't get in the groove pretty soon, we're gonna' have problems."

Huskers, SE-Fairbury Fare Well In Tourney

Galveston, Tex. — Nebraska golfers fared well in the first round of the Galveston Island Invitational collegiate golf tournament Tuesday.

Teams from the University of Nebraska and Southeast Community College at Fairbury matched scores with 303 in their respective divisions in the first of four scheduled rounds of competition.

Two Lincoln natives, Doug Smith, a Lincoln High graduate now competing for Nebraska, and Southeast grad Rennie Sasse now with Fairbury, tied for third place in the medalist race with 73s.

Nebraska total left the Huskers in third place in a six team field while Fairbury's identical score placed sixth in its 13-team division.

Team leader Texas Tech in Division I also has the individual leader in Danny Walters, two shots ahead of Smith at 71.

In Division II, Doug Black of Alexander City and Grant Collins of West Texas had identical 71s for the lead, also two shots ahead of Sasse.

Sasse's teammate, Steve Harris, a former Lincoln High golfer, is one shot back at 74.

Action will resume Wednesday at the Galveston Country Club.

Winningest NCAA Field

Philadelphia -- The four teams in the NCAA basketball championship tournament to be played in The Spectrum here Saturday and Monday have won a combined total of 111 games this season — an all-time high in the 38-year history of the event.

That tops the previous best of 105 victories set in 1968 and tied in 1972. The combined winning percentage of .917 (111-10), however, isn't a record. The 1970 foursome of UCLA, Jacksonville, New Mexico State and St. Bonaventure had a .945 average (103-6).

Should Rutgers win the title for a 33-0 record, the Scarlet Knights would break the all-time record for victories in a perfect season (32-0) by Frank McGuire's 1957 North Carolina team. Indiana can tie that record by winning.

UCLA's 26-4 record is the best in all of head coach Gene Bartow's head coaching career which includes 256 victories and a .640 career percentage. His previous high was 24-6 at Memphis State in 1973.

Even so, UCLA must win the championship to avoid having its worst won-lost record in ten years. That's one way of measuring the impossibility of replacing John Wooden.

Wooden, who retired after last season, won eight NCAA crowns in his last nine years and his worst record in that span was 26-4 in 1974.

UCLA has made it to the final game ten times and won all ten times. The Bruins' record in the tourney is 50-10. This is their 10th consecutive trip to the final four and 13th in 17 tournaments. The Bruins have won 47 of their last 48 NCAA tourney games.

That's a record that probably never will be equaled.

Knight Might Threaten

At age 35, Indiana coach Bobby Knight may be the youngest major college head coach ever to pass the 200 victory mark. His 11-year career record is 225-70, including a 133-20 figure in five seasons at Indiana.

No one has a complete list of all coaches in history who won 200 and their birth dates, but it seems likely Knight holds this distinction, for two reasons:

Few men have started head-coaching on a major level at 24, and in the early years of the game, teams often didn't even play 20 games in a season. Knight has averaged 20.5 wins a season over 11 years. And so far no one has found a coach who reached 200 victories at the major leval at age 35.

What are the chances of an overtime final game? In the first 37 years, there were only four overtime games — Utah over Dartmouth 42-40 in 1944, North Carolina over Kansas 54-53 in 1957 (that went three overtimes), Cincinnati over Ohio State 70-65 in 1961 and Chicago Loyola over Cincinnati 60-58 in 1963.

Saturday victories by Indiana and Michigan would lead to an all-Big Ten championship game. That would be the first time that two teams from the same conference met in the title game.

There is a precedent for the Indiana-UCLA rematch of a season-opening Hoosier victory 84-64 in St. Louis. Two years ago, North Carolina State lost a nationally televised game to UCLA in the same arena by 84-66. Then the Wolfpack won in two overtimes at Greensboro 80-77 to end UCLA's incredible 38-game winning streak in NCAA tourney play.

An NCAA basketball crown and a football bowl victory in the same school year has happened only five times. One involved Oklahoma State in 1945 after winning over TCU in the Cotton Bowl. It would happen again if UCLA wins. The Bruins beat Ohio State in the Rose Bowl on Jan. 1.

Scott Tosses Discus Hopes On Beaver

By RANDY YORK
Prep Sports Editor

Having been Lincoln High's track coach for 23 years, Harold Scott isn't the type to put a monkey on anyone's back.

He can dream though and he can't wait for a nice, clear day this spring when John Beaver throws the discus somewhere between 190 and 200 feet.

"I'm very serious," says Scott. "Maybe I'm all wet, but the conditions are going to be just right sometime this season and John is going to get one out there close to 200 feet."

If he does, the Lincoln High senior will become Nebraska's all-time leader in the discus. Scottsbluff's Gary Kellogg owns the best effort — 188-3 in 1969.

Beaver, the state's defending gold medalist in the event, has plenty to prove. Last season's best of 172-11 didn't quality him for a spot on the all-time charts.

His gold medal performance in the state track meet last May was 172-8, which bettered his closest challenger by 8 feet, 6 inches.

Has Thrown 171-2

"He's off to a good start already this season," notes Scott. "Last Saturday in our inter-class meet, John got off a throw of 171-2. He's had a couple throws around 176 and even throw 170 on a bad day."

It all adds up to great expectations for Beaver, a 6-2, 215-pounder who also achieved 53-6 in the shot put in Lincoln High's inter-class competition last weekend.

John Beaver
Sights Set High

"I think John has proven he's one of the greatest discus throwers Nebraska's ever had," says Scott. "Of course, he can always hurt an elbow. But when that wind happens to be just right, look out."

Scott says good coaching is responsible for much of Beaver's success, even though the veteran head coach refuses to take individual credit.

Good Coaching

"In all honesty," Scott says, "John got sound fundamental coaching from his dad (Clark) and he's gotten good coaching from Bill Story, our weight coach.

"John's worked hard on lifting weights and has the strength and speed to get the type of whip he needs on the discus," adds Scott.

"His speed is amazing for an athlete of his size," according to Scott. "More importantly, he's a very fine young man, who works hard and keeps his mouth shut."

Although Beaver also excels in football, his athletic ticket to the future seems best in track.

"If he gets that super throw this spring and competes as consistently as he did last year with better marks," predicts Scott, "he ought to land a major college scholarship."

Olympic Security Increase

MONTREAL (AP) — A 16,000-member military and police security force will be deployed to guard against a Munich-type disaster at the Summer Olympic Games opening July 17 at Montreal and Kingston, it was announced Tuesday.

Police and military officers made their first joint public disclosure of security measures to protect an estimated 12,000 athletes and team officials plus 500,000 visitors, dignitaries and spectators during the Games.

The security and intelligence officers declined any flat prediction that there would be no problems or even terrorist attacks such as the one which occurred when Arab terrorists slaughtered Israeli athletes at the 1972 Munich Olympic Games.

"Anything and everything is possible," said Maj. Gen. Roland A. Reid, chief of Olympic coordination for the National Defense Department. "We are confident we are doing all that is possible to make sure that the Games will take place without incident."

Reid reported 16,000 members of Canada's armed forces will be assigned in one way or another to Olympic duties, including 5,000 on security duties. The theme of a "discreet and efficient" security operation was outlined by Roger Rousseau, president of the Olympic Organizing Committee which is responsible for staging the Games.

Guy Toupin, the key security commander as coordinator for public safety for the Games, outlined an elaborate organizational structure involving the federal government as well as the governments of Quebec and Ontario and municipal administrations.

Gen. Reid said the contribution of the Canadian armed forces—estimated earlier at roughly 13,000—will come to 16,000 although only 5,650 will be on direct security duty.

The security operation would involve 9,000 men counting command echelons, communications, administrative and logistic support. Another 5,000 would be employed in helping the Olympic Organizing Committee stage the Games themselves. Still another 1,000 members of the armed forces would be working full-time during the Games, counting personnel at national defense headquarters, Mobile Command, Air Command, Maritime Command and the National Reserve.

The armed forces would, in addition, maintain standby forces to be deployed if required. "Public security will remain the responsibility of police forces as it is at any other time," Reid emphasized. "In all cases where military servicemen will be deployed on security tasks, such military forces will be in support of police forces . . ."

The general would not comment on "science fiction" reports of what anti-terrorism weaponery might be in reserve—but he did point out that the "whole range" of armed forces weapons would be available.

Mr. Rousseau said the Israeli athletes would be lodged with other competitors in the 19-story Olympic Village, not separated from them on the top floor but "certainly not near other countries that might create difficulties."

Officials said Canadian authorities are seeking cooperation not only from United States agencies but also from all 130 countries eligible to send athletes to the Games. One intelligence officer said attacks are more likely against visitors than against Canadians.

Security and intelligence activity would be particularly intense when Queen Elizabeth opens the Games July 17.

Mittermaier Wins Slalom

HUNTER MOUNTAIN, N.Y. (AP) — Rosi Mittermaier, making perhaps her last official appearance as an amateur skier, won the women's giant slalom Tuesday at the Nations' World Series of Skiing.

The 25-year-old West German, wearing the pants she tore on a flag at Mont Ste. Anne, Que., last week, snaked down the course in 1 minute 19.58 seconds, edging Hanni Wenzel of Liechtenstein, who clocked 1:19.75.

Miss Mittermaier, the 1976 World Cup women's champion, was swamped by autograph seekers—both young and old—after her winning run.

The double gold medal winner at the 12th Winter Olympic Games in Innsbruck last month said the course, softened by the bright afternoon sun, "was not too good. It was very flat."

Following Miss Wenzel was Fabienne Serrat of France in 1:20.33, Irene Epple of West Germany in 1:21.21 and Lise-Marie Morerod of Switzerland, the World Cup giant slalom champion, in 1:21.92.

The victory by Miss Mittermaier, coupled with the fourth-place finish of Miss Epple, set up a duel in this team competition between the West Germans and the Swiss.

In the men's giant slalom, which preceded the women's run, Heini Hemmi of Switzerland finished first in 2:29.69 for two runs and teammate Ernst Good finished fourth in 2:31.28. Their finishes and the seventh-place finish of Peter Luescher gave Switzerland 15 points in this competition.

Sooners' Bliss Predicts

Indiana To Play Michigan

By FRANK BOGGS
Oklahoma City Times

OKLAHOMA CITY—Oklahoma basketball coach Dave Bliss, who earned his master's degree in business at Cornell in 1967 and his doctorate in basketball at Indiana a couple of years ago, says Prof. Robert Knight's team will play Michigan next Monday night in the national finals.

Bliss thinks that because he thinks Michigan will sideline unbeaten Rutgers and because he thinks Indiana will knock off UCLA in Saturday's semis in Philadelphia.

However, Indiana's success will not come with ease. The Hoosiers have soundly thrashed UCLA once this season and soundly edged Michigan two times. Basketball coaches have long voiced the theory that it's terribly difficult for one team to beat another three times per same year.

Why this is has never been clear to me, but the world if full of examples. Mr. Bliss has one recently example still wedged into furrowed brow. His Sooners defeated Iowa State twice, but stumbled the third try.

I guess it must be similar to trying to spank the kid forever. The ol' man may win over 600 consecutive events, then one shocking day the offspring swings back and the ol' man starts making bigger payments to his dentist than he ever did to General Motors.

Bliss served as Knight's right-hand man for four years before moving 'way out to Oklahoma last season. In fact, he often used his right hand to keep the boss from committing mayhem when situations became tense.

Dave Bliss
NCAA Prophet

Naturally, Bliss is not going to predict now or forever that a Bobby Knight team will lose a battle. He is simply saying Indiana will defeat UCLA because of two good reasons. One—The Hoosiers have beaten the Bruins only once this season (84-64) and not twice and, two—"Bobby Knight is not going to lose to anybody when he has a full week to prepare."

This year's Indiana team is facing a situation not unlike one year ago. That Hoosier team had walloped Kentucky in December, 98-74, then suffered its only defeat against Kentucky in the regional finals, 92-90.

Bliss believes Marquette coach Al McGuire intended to earn himself a second technical foul last Saturday during the loss to Indiana. "It was really a hopeless cause when he got that last technical," says Bliss, "but I think he was trying to get something going in desperation. It was like a guy being a couple of shots behind in a golf match and so he hits a wood out of the sand trap, hoping for a miracle."

Evert Streak Ends After 20 Matches

BOSTON (UPI) — Unheraled Dianne Fromholtz, 19, of Australia, seemingly headed for defeat, roared back to win eight straight games Tuesday night to upset top-seeded Chris Evert, 2-6, 6-2, 6-3, in the opening round $75,000 Virginia Slims of Boston tennis tournament.

The loss snapped Evert's laest win streak at 20 matches. She had not lost since Jan. 18 when she was upended by Martina Navratilova of Czechoslovakia in Houston. Fromholtz has never beaten Evert, the world's top-ranked woman player in the world, in three previous meetings.

Fromholtz, who called the victory "a high point in my career," was down 0-2 in the second set when she exploded with a barrage of sharply angled service returns and ground strokes. She swept the next eight games to go ahead 20 in the final set and served out the match.

She later told reporters Billy Jean King had advised her to stay back and rally with Evert from the baseline.

"I stayed back and tried to break down her baseline game. I tried to be the aggressor. It's only a first round match, but it was a high point in my career," she said.

Evert, 21, has not lost a first round match since 1971, before turning pro.

Evert, who said she "was not tournament tough" after a two-week layoff, had nothing but praise for Fromholtz.

"She played so well, she never let me in the match," said Evert. "She took everything on the rise and turned them into winners. She never let up. She used her head tonight."

Earlier, second-seeded Evonne Goolagong breezed by Peggy Michel of Pacific Palisades, Calif., 6-4, 6-0, and sixth-seeded Marita Redondo of San Diego, Calif., easily defeated Laura Dupont of Matthews, N.C., 6-1, 6-2.

Goolagong took just 33 minutes to eliminate Michel and held her to just seven points in the second set

Osborne Continues To Growl At Bear

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (UPI) — Nebraska football coach Tom Osborne isn't retracting any of the criticism he leveled at Alabama's Bear Bryant or the Sugar Bowl last winter.

"I meant what I said and I stand behind it," Osborne said Monday night at the Birmingham Touchdown Club's Award Banquet. "I said the bowls should make their own selections.

"But I want to make one thing very clear," he added. "I have great respect for Coach Bryant and his program. My comment was made to a Sugar Bowl official and certainly was not meant for publication.

"I certainly don't believe in calling other coaches names in the press, and I felt bad about that. But I said it."

Osborne was quoted as calling Bryant a "son of a buck" after the Sugar Bowl bypassed his Cornhuskers and picked Penn State to face Alabama in the New Year's Eve classic in New Orleans.

Osborne said he believes the Southeastern Conference made a mistake in signing a contract to send its champion to the Sugar Bowl each year, adding that some officials of the Big Eight Conference have had second thoughts about their pact with the Orange Bowl

Tom Osborne
Still Unhappy

"I believe the majority of coaches in the Big Eight are concerned about the tie-up," he said. "It certainly worked to our detriment at Nebraska last season."

Instead of going to one of the major bowls, the Cornhuskers wound up playing in the Fiesta Bowl.

The Governor's Award, which goes each year to the winner of the Alabama-Auburn game, was presented to Alabama assistant head coach Sam Bailey and the Benny Marshall Award for the outstanding player in the game was given Crimson Tide quarterback Richard Todd

Athletes Killed — With A Little Help From Their 'Friends'

By BILL GLEASON
Chicago Sun Times Writer

Chicago — Another wonderful thing about the Wonderful World of Sports is that new awards always are being established to keep forever green the memories of our departed heroes.

Isn't it nice?

We can expect the National Basketball Assn to establish soon the "Joe Fulks Memorial" trophy. Along about the same time we fans will be reading about the International Ski Racers Assn "Vladimir Sabich Memorial" trophy.

In case you missed the news Fulks, the NBA's first scoring champion, dribbled off to the big fieldhouse in the sky early Sunday morning. Joe left us not so many hours before Sabich, the colorful "Spider" of international ski racing, slid away on the final giant slalom.

The thing about it is that neither Fulks nor Sabich wanted to go. Fulks was only 54. Spider was no more than 31. Between them they had a lot of years left.

They were dispatched.

The circumstances of their departures are the reasons why these new trophies will be just a little bit different.

Fulks undoubtedly had a roomful of awards, most of them topped with heroic basketball figures in various poses. Sabich, too, earned many gold-plated skiers surrounded by wreaths of laurel.

That kind of stuff is going out of style.

For example, the Fulks Memorial will be topped not by a basketball player but by crossed shotguns against a field of blue-steel automatics. The Sabich memorial will not feature stacked metal skis but will come right to the dramatic point with Lugers arranged in the shape of a "V."

Opinion

Fulks, a good ol' big boy from Kuttaway, Ky., was shot to death Sunday in Eddyville, Ky. Sabich, an extroverted playboy from Kyburz, Calif., was shot to death in Aspen, Colo.

According to the first report from police down in Lyon County, Kentucky, Fulks was killed while he was arguing with a younger fellow about a handgun. Joe's assailant didn't use the handgun, though. He unloaded on Joe's neck with a shotgun.

According to the first report from police out in Pitkin County, Colo., Sabich was shot to death while he and his cohabitator, retired singer Claudine Longet, were doing something or other with a Luger.

The man accused of slaying Fulks has been charged with murder. The woman arrested in the death of Sabich has not been charged with anything, as this was going to press.

It probably will be discovered that the gun that fired a fatal bullet into Sabich discharged when he slipped on a pile of Alpine snow he had been saving as a souvenir.

Fulks, who introduced the jump shot to pro basketball, and Sabich, World Pro Ski champion in 1970 and '71, were citizens of the U.S. When I read of their deaths, I thought, curiously, of politicians.

I know politicians. Many of them are sensitive. At parties, after everybody has had a few pops, a politician, sometimes with tear in eye, will ask, "Why do so many of our young people hate all politicians? Why do they blame me for Watergate?"

These maudlin questions, or variations on the same melancholy themes, are put to me because recent polls show that newspapermen are popular but politicians are not.

Because I hate to have grown men slobbering on my doubleknit, I attempt to explain. "It's not Watergate," I tell the pols. "It's things like all the polls indicating that most American citizens want strong handgun control legislation but Congress won't give the people what they want. Congress gives the National Rifle Assn what it wants, instead."

"You don't think I'm being paid off by the National Rifle Assn., do you?" a politician asked me, fighting back fresh tears.

"Nawww," I said, patting his damp jowls. "But the young people think somebody is paying off somebody else. That's how young people are."

When the Fulks and Sabich trophies are presented, maybe we can have a few words from a lobbyist for the NRA.

He could bring words of assurance to the loved ones of Fulks and Sabich, who were killed not by thugs on the street or by home invaders but died in the company of "friends."

The man from the NRA, who was so pleased with his recent victory in Congress, might tell the parents and children of Fulks and the parents of Sabich that guns don't kill people.

As we've been told until we're sick of it, people kill people.

Court Counselor Backs Off After Publicity

Confusion over hiring a new counselor for conciliation court apparently scared off the candidate.

The Rev. Vernon P. Jones, a Church of Christ pastor in Adrian, Mich., has decided not to come to Lincoln because of what he considered "adverse publicity," according to a letter to the Lancaster County Board from District Court Judge William Hastings.

When the almost $17,000 appointment came before the County Board early this month, Board Chairman Bruce Hamilton questioned the need for a conciliation court counselor.

In the past a full time counselor has provided free short-term counseling to many of the 400 to 500 couples which file for divorce in the county each year.

The District Court judges convinced Hamilton and the board that a full time staff person would cost the county less than contracting with local agencies for the counseling work.

Rev. Jones already had accepted the post when the debate cropped up in the County Board meeting.

Jones apparently feared this situation would become political as did one he experienced in the past.

Since counseling is mandated by state law, the board authorized the court to pay outside agencies and private counselors to handle the divorce case load over the next few months.

The commissioners also briefly discussed the possibility that the counseling service could be provided through the Lincoln-Lancaster Mental Health Center, which will become a county agency this spring.

Branched Oak Beer License Hearing To Be Held

The fizz hasn't gone out of the beer selling controversy at the Branched Oak Lake marina.

For the third time in seven months, the Lancaster County Board is being asked to vote on an off-sale beer license for the Inland Shores Marina at Branched Oak.

Seven county residents have filed written complaints about the beer license with the county clerk before the May 1 deadline when all county liquor licenses are automatically renewed. Under statutes, more than three complaints must be filed before a hearing is called.

This means that the county must hold another public hearing and vote again on the license question.

The hearing, set for the April 6 board meeting, is the first hearing on a liquor license renewal that Carl Hartman, county clerk for 18 years, can remember.

City To Display Concorde Model

The Hague, Netherlands (UPI) — Madurodam, mini city in The Hague which draws more than a million visitors each summer, two-thirds of them foreigners, has something new to offer when it reopens for the season April 1.

Air France donated a model of the supersonic Concorde aircraft, which is at the scale of 1:25.

Animal Control Reform Advised

A committee studying animal control problems in Lincoln once again recommended Tuesday that a city department take over some of the duties performed by the Humane Society.

Members of a Pet Advisory Committee task force said they still think the City-County Health Department should oversee animal pickup duties and enforcement of the rabies program.

Committee members apparently remained unswayed by testimony from Humane Society Board President Mary Rogge who urged the city to funnel more money into the society instead. The city now contracts with the agency for $25,000 for certain services. The city also collects license fees for the agency.

Last week the City Council directed the committee to review the Humane Society's position on the matter and to report back to the council.

In December the Committee recommended that an animal control division be set up in the Health Department or police department.

Humane Society Board members told the council last week that the police should continue issuing citations for violations.

The task force agreed Tuesday those enforcement duties shouldn't be placed with the Humane Society. Committee member Tom Ekvall said the task force believes the health department officers in charge of such a program should be given the responsibility.

The task force asked the city law department to see if there are legal hurdles to that proposal.

The task force said Mrs. Rogge's proposal for 24-hour service was unrealistic. Members said they believe the Humane Society should operate 16 hours a day. Mrs. Rogge drafted her proposal at the request of the Cit Council.

Under the task force's plan, the city would continue to negotiate with the Humane Society for shelter of animals picked up, for killing and cremating unwanted animals.

Vint Finds Location Baffling

By TOM VINT
Outdoor Editor

In the Sunday Journal and Star column, "It's All Outdoors," it was reported no one showed up for a protest meeting in Nebraska City concerning the habitat bill and its effect on fishing licenses

That wasn't exactly true Two people showed up My wife and me The 188 people who gathered to protest LB861 showed up at FALLS CITY

Yes, Vint, the outdoor editor, missed by about 40 miles.

It was also reported the problems must have apparently been solved since no one showed up That wasn't true, either, according to Jo Bohrer of the Falls City Chamber of Commerce

The main area of concern for the Falls City area residents is the cost of out-state fishing permits as of January, 1977 It will be $30 for out-of-state fishermen buying an annual permit to fish in Nebraska The Falls City folks, who live three miles from Kansas and 10 from Missouri, are worried the neighboring states will reciprocate with nonresident increases of their own.

Since Nebraska offers no quality fishing recreation lakes in the far southeast corner of the state, Nebraskans regularly go to Tuttle Creek or other Kansas or Missouri lakes An increase to $30 per nonresident adult fisherman would prohibit many a family from enjoying fishing in those areas, according to the group They now plan a petition drive to change the fee, and some 300 letters are enroute to the governor

As for the meeting, I wish I'd been there

Narragansett Shocked By Fire

EAST PROVIDENCE, R I (AP) — Narragansett Park horsemen, shocked by a fire that destroyed two barns and resulted in the deaths of at least 25 thoroughbreds, bitterly called Tuesday for state aid to improve the facilities

The blaze, which broke out about 8 40 p m , EST, Monday, spewed flames more than 100 feet into the air and caused chaos when trainers and track employes tried to move the frightened animals from their stalls

Gus DelFarno, president of the Horsemen's Benevolent and Protective Association was confronted Tuesday by scores of angry owners who demanded that he pressure the state into putting money into the track He pointed to remarks last week by East Providence Fire Marshall Robert Sauer, who called the horse barns a fire hazard

John Geremia of Middleboro, Mass , and his son, John Jr said they had rented 15 stalls in one of the two burned-out barns He said he lost $35 000 in equipment alone and would lose more

"I didn't lose any horses but the ones that were in the barn are halfwits now Geremia said I've been in the racing business for 15 years and I can tell you for sure that these horses won t be fit to race for a long time

Geremia who was present during the blaze said he witnessed at least six horses run back into their flaming stalls "When they feel threatened, when they feel trapped they usually run to their homes he said They d run out of the barn see the fire all around them and they d run back in

NWU Eyes Twinbill

Nebraska Wesleyan s 3-7 baseball team is scheduled to open the home season Wednesday hosting Northwest Missouri State for a 1 p m doubleheader at Sherman Field

The Plainsmen were beaten 13-1 and 12 2 Saturday in Maryville by these same Bearcats who are now 5-4 on the year with their other victories over Wyoming and Grand Canyon

Northwest Missouri State is a good team that plays well makes few mistakes and is fundamentally sound says NWU assistant Ross Stephenson who coached the Plainsmen Saturday in Ron Bachman s absence They hit well and do a lot of running They like to try a lotta stunts like double steals and suicide bunts

Bachman has indicated he may start freshmen pitchers Doug Dawson and John Svehla Wednesday with yearling Kim Glovstein the first reliever I d like to give the younger kids an opportunity because we open the conference season against Doane a week later ' says Bachman

We haven t been gelling We re not hitting and we are making mental errors which should be ironed out by now If we don t get in the groove pretty soon we re gonna have problems

FINALLY FRESH FISH FILLETS

Among the most appreciated advances in food technology are the newer methods of processing fish. Today many of the fishing vessels have a freezing plant or a canning plant on board ship. The fish literally goes directly from the ocean into the can or frozen filet package. This process makes it possible for us in the middle of the country to have very fresh fish. Frozen fish, properly handled, will be of fresher quality in the midwest than fish purchased fresh on the coast. The fresh fish is often held in the market for several days.

Besides being wholesome, frozen fish provides a variety of essential nutrients. It is a good source of protein and minerals. Most fish is lower in fat than meat. Thus, for the same weight serving, one receives more protein and less fat from fish than from meat. This is part of the reason why fish is recommended on weight reduction diets. Of course the total calories can be increased substantially by the method of preparation. Frying and the addition of fatty sauces will increase the calories.

2 lbs. Turbot filets 1 cup water
1 cup milk salt and pepper

Place fish filets in baking dish. Pour milk and water over fish. Bake for 25 minutes. Pour off liquid, season with salt and pepper and bake for 10 minutes at 325 degrees F. Serves six. 3-24

Court Counselor Backs Off After Publicity

Confusion over hiring a new counselor for conciliation court apparently scared off the candidate

The Rev Vernon P Jones a Church of Christ pastor in Adrian, Mich, has decided not to come to Lincoln because of what he considered "adverse publicity," according to a letter to the Lancaster County Board from District Court Judge William Hastings

When the almost $17,000 appointment came before the County Board early this month, Board Chairman Bruce Hamilton questioned the need for a conciliation court counselor

In the past a full time counselor has provided free short-term counseling to many of the 400 to 500 couples which file for divorce in the county each year

The District Court judges convinced Hamilton and the board that a full time staff person would cost the county less than contracting with local agencies for the counseling work

Rev Jones already had accepted the post when the debate cropped up in the County Board meeting

Jones apparently feared this situation would become political as did one he experienced in the past

Since counseling is mandated by state law, the board authorized the court to pay outside agencies and private counselors to handle the divorce case load over the next few months

The commissioners also briefly discussed the possibility that the counseling service could be provided through the Lincoln-Lancaster Mental Health Center, which will become a county agency this spring

Branched Oak Beer License Hearing To Be Held

The fizz hasn't gone out of the beer selling controversy at the Branched Oak Lake marina

For the third time in seven months, the Lancaster County Board is being asked to vote on an off-sale beer license for the Inland Shores Marina at Branched Oak

Seven county residents have filed written complaints about the beer license with the county clerk before the May 1 deadline when all county liquor licenses are automatically renewed Under statutes, more than three complaints must be filed before a hearing is called

This means that the county must hold another public hearing and vote again on the license question

The hearing, set for the April 6 board meeting, is the first hearing on a liquor license renewal that Carl Hartman, county clerk for 18 years, can remember

City To Display Concorde Model

The Hague, Netherlands (UPI) — Madurodam, mini city in The Hague which draws more than a million visitors each summer, two-thirds of them foreigners, has something new to offer when it reopens for the season April 1

Air France donated a model of the supersonic Concorde aircraft, which is at the scale of 1 25

Animal Control Reform Advised

A committee studying animal control problems in Lincoln once again recommended Tuesday that a city department take over some of the duties performed by the Humane Society

Members of a Pet Advisory Committee task force said they still think the City-County Health Department should oversee animal pickup duties and enforcement of the rabies program

Committee members apparently remained unswayed by testimony from Humane Society Board President Mary Rogge who urged the city to funnel more money into the society instead The city now contracts with the agency for $25,000 for certain services The city also collects license fees for the agency

Last week the City Council directed the committee to review the Humane Society's position on the matter and to report back to the council

In December the Committee recommended that an animal control division be set up in the Health Department or police department

Humane Society Board members told the council last week that the police should continue issuing citations for violations

The task force agreed Tuesday those enforcement duties shouldn't be placed with the Humane Society Committee member Tom Ekvall said the task force believes the health department officers in charge of such a program should be given the responsibility

The task force asked the city law department to see if there are legal hurdles to that proposal

The task force said Mrs Rogge's proposal for 24-hour service was unrealistic Members said they believe the Humane Society should operate 16 hours a day Mrs Rogge drafted her proposal at the request of the Cit Council

Under the task force s plan, the city would continue to negotiate with the Humane Society for shelter of animals picked up, for killing and cremating unwanted animals
